

Progressives Hold Mass Meeting

State Candidates address Citizens

A mass meeting held by the Progressives of White Clay Creek Hundred, in the Opera House last evening was largely attended.

All Thomas, the candidate from this district for the Legislature, introduced Henry Thompson of Wilmington, Progressive candidate for State Treasurer, who presided at the meeting.

The principal speakers of the evening were Horace Greeley Easton, chairman of the State Committee; A. A. Wilnot, candidate for Legislature; Commissioner; and George B. Hinson, of Milford, candidate for Governor.

All the speakers had attended the Chicago convention which nominated Theodore Roosevelt, and the talks included interesting items from their personal experiences during that occasion.

The speakers plainly stated their positions both locally and nationally for the Progressives. Mr. Hinson emphasized the fact that he stands for honest politics. A candidate would stand for the appointment of the best man regardless of party affiliations—to these positions whose appointment rests with the Governor's power. He also believes in not one message, but repeated messages to the Legislature from the Department.

Mr. Hinson referred to the book of Roosevelt when talking in an address of a committee-room of the State Committee on Resolutions at the Chicago Convention—words which he said had been ringing in his ears on the last twenty-four hours. Colonel Roosevelt, speaking on a platform about to be adopted, expressed his belief that their cause of the last forty-eight hours could be written large on the pages of history. He warned them that the accomplishment of such a task as they had set themselves could not be gained at the expense of lives and souls; their enlistment in the cause meant sacrifice—sacrifice which he, personally, was willing to make. The present trend of events prove the prophecy well-founded.

Minnehaha Band, paraded on Main street previous to the meeting and furnished music at intervals during the evening.

Tyson Horses on Southern Circuit

Letters received during the week from H. R. Tyson, now racing a string of horses on the southern circuit, show that the close of the season will report winnings that rival if not exceed the splendid records of previous years.

Mr. Tyson's season closes at Augusta, Georgia, November 12th. He races this week at Raleigh, N. C.

Last week, spent at Richmond, was a most successful one, with the horses winning in four races, finishing second in one and third in another. This represented considerable money, as none of the purses was less than $300 and one was $2000.

The result of the week at Richmond was:

Miller Boy, entered in 2:30 trot, $500 stake race, won first money, fastest heat being 2:20 1-4.

Marry J. S., entered in 2:15 trot, $1,000 stake, won first money, time 2:13 1-4.

Prince Helice, entered in 2:18 trot, $600 purse, won first money, time 2:16 1-4.

Dago, entered in 2:17 trot, $2,000 purse, third money, time 2:12 1-4.

Delaware and Lebanon Valley Tie

Delaware College football team showed much improvement in the game with Lebanon Valley last Saturday and consequently held the Annville boys to a 0 to 0 score. It was the opening game of the season on the home grounds. The grounds were put in shape on Friday by George Stewart, who played on the old gold and blue team several years ago and who has been assisting in coaching the eleven. Mr. Stewart had a roller run all over the field and it was in good condition.

Coach McAvoy made several changes in the line-up and this seemed to be beneficial but it was the opinion of many who saw the game, however, that with better team work Delaware should have won. Their opponents, however, are exceptionally strong this season and held Gettysburg to one touch-down. Coach McAvoy has hard work to mold a team into shape and considering all the handicaps that he has had to overcome has done well.

The game was featured by slugging. Both teams were guilty of this offense and as a result Vandergrift and Schlitter of Delaware, and Huff of Lebanon Valley were removed for slugging. The teams were about evenly matched and gained about the same amount of ground. Captain Huston and Hirschman played a star game. The line up follows:

Del. Positions: Loh, Val. S. Loomis.... left end.....Deauril Kelly.... left tackle.....Charlton E. Loomis.... left guard.....Mowery Crothers.... center.....Stanton VanDegrift.... right guard.....Gonder Dean.... right tackle.....Snaveley Schlitter.... right end.....Light Houston, capt. quarterback Lerey, capt. Cann.... left half-back.....Strickler Hirschman.... right half-back.....Pell Carswell.... full-back.....Dayhold

Substitutions: Delaware, Rudolph for Crothers, Pepper for Vandegrift, Taylor for Cann, and Cann for Schlitter; Lebanon Valley, D. Huff for Charlton, Walter for Station, and St. Patrick for Light. Referee, Lynn, of Yale. Umpire, Hulford, of U. of P. Head linesman, Cann.

Grading of Street in Hands of Mayor

At an adjourned meeting of Town Council Monday night the matter of grading Prospect and Cleveland Avenues was again discussed. It was the opinion of some of the members that after being graded a top dressing should be put on to make the streets more passable in bad weather. The matter was finally referred to Mayor Hossinger to consult with the contractor for the purpose of learning what it would cost. Samuel Little was awarded a contract to install a culvert at the west end of Main street at a cost of 75 dollars.

I. O. O. F. Officers Installed

The New Horse Disease in Kansas

The new horse disease in Kansas seems to be almost identical with the forage poisoning or spinal meningitis that is more or less prevalent in Delaware. Dr. Kuhns, Secretary of the Delaware Live Stock Sanitary Board, recommends giving Fowler's solution of arsenic, one tablespoon twice a day to horses when they are first taken, as at least affording some relief to the diseased animal, although it cannot be depended upon as a cure. A conference of officials at Topeka, Kansas, recently sent out the following recommendations:

1. That all horses and mules be taken off pasture until the disease disappears from the state.

2. Feed these animals a limited quantity of clean, dry hay or straw, and clean, sound grain. Where straw is given, use a liberal supply of bran.

3. Avoid use of hay cut from low or overflowed land or land receiving drainage from the pasture or barnyard.

4. See that the horses have a pure, wholesome water supply, free from surface drainage, and that they are excluded from all stagnant or surface water.

5. Empty, clean and thoroughly disinfect all water troughs and tanks by scrubbing out with a solution of four ounces of carbolic acid in one gallon of water, once a week.

6. This disease is one that can be controlled by strictly observing the above sanitary measures. Some horses will die after being fed on dry feed, but horse owners should not become discouraged, but should continue to keep them off pasture and provide proper feed and water as recommended.

7. In our opinion no vaccine against this disease has been fully tried out. Good results appear to have followed the use of the vaccine developed by the Agricultural College and the State Live Stock Sanitary Commissioner, but it is yet in its experimental stage. It is strictly urged that the farmers do not use any of the commercial vaccine offered. Many of them are known to be worthless and some are positively harmful. In case of an outbreak co-operation with the Agricultural College in further testing this vaccine is greatly to be desired.

8. In any event, whether using vaccine or not, it is important to follow the above directions with respect to food and water.

9. Thus far no curative measures by use of drugs or medicines have proven successful.

Progressive Nomination in Pender without Authority

It became known definitely yesterday that the nominations of John W. Suddard and Adelbert Peel for senator and representative of the Progressive ticket of Pender Hundred were made without their knowledge or authority. Both of the gentlemen mentioned are highly pleased with the Republican candidate for these offices in Pender Hundred and have expressed their intention of giving them their loyal support and votes.

The headquarters of the Progressive Party have been notified not to use these names on the ticket. It is the general opinion that their refusal to indirectly aid the Democratic party, assures the success of the Republican candidate.

M. E. Supper A Success

The ladies of the M. E. Church have again demonstrated their ability to give a supper. All of the good things for which they are famous were there served last Thursday evening in the usual abundance.

State Farm and Experiment Station

Prof. Hayward, as a member of the State Board of Education, attended the dedication exercises of the new public school building at Harrington, Del., last Friday week, and was one of the speakers on that occasion.

The regular inspection of the experiment station, which is made annually by a representative of the Office of Experiment Stations, is being made to-day.

Ernest Reynolds, Herdsman at the College Farm, has resigned his position and expects to go to Colorado in the near future.

Messrs. Pelton and Pence enjoyed a trip to the Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C., recently. They spent most of the day in inspecting the Arlington Farms, on which are located the test plots of the Department.

Mr. M. O. Cooper, instructor in Animal Husbandry, has resigned to accept a position with the Department of Farm Management in the Bureau of Plant Industry, at Washington, D. C.

Prof. Thompson of the Chemical Department of the College, has a bulletin in press giving the conclusions of his study of soy bean oil.

Prof. McNece recently visited the farm of Mr. McCall, a prominent land owner of Carpenters' Point, near Charlestown, Md. The purpose of the visit was to consult with the management in regard to the advisability of setting large peach orchards in that region.

The football game of last Saturday was marked by a pleasing demonstration of college spirit on the part of the boys. The gridiron warriors were drawn to the field by an enthusiastic host of freshmen, the entire body headed by the College Band.

The married men and single men of Newark are arranging a baseball game for next Saturday which should be an interesting contest. The single men claim that it will be easy for them as their old friends are about all in but the latter say "wait and see." The two teams will line up as follows: Married men—Hogan or "Vic" Willis, pitcher; Marsay, catcher; D. Willis, first base; Johnson, second base; Herdman, shortstop; Montgomery, third base; Roger Lovett, left field; Wilbur Hill, center field; and Willis or Hogan, right field.

It is said that Manager Marsay of the Newark Tri-County League team, who was married only two weeks ago, is the originator of this game as he is desirous of lining up with the married men.

A Series of Matinees

Horsemen of Newark and vicinity will have plenty of sport during the next two weeks, as four different matinees are being arranged. The one at Huber's Driving Park on Saturday was so successful that it was decided to give another one on Saturday, October 26th. A motor cycle race is being arranged as a feature. Tomorrow the Kumblesville Driving Association will give its last matinee of the year. One of the best races ever seen on a track in this locality is on the card. This will be between Bessie Patehen, Rector, Wheeler Wilkes and Singely Wilkes. There will also be a motor cycle race between five members of the West Grove Motor Club. On Tuesday, October 29th Mr. Priece will give a matinee at Kirkwood and one is also scheduled to be held at Kennett Square, in the near future.

Dairy Judging Team Hard at Work

The candidates for the Inter-Collegiate Dairy Judging team spent all day Saturday of last week in practice judging in Pennsylvania. The first place visited was the well and favorably known Guernsey herd of Mr. M. T. Phillips, of Pomeroy. An hour and a half was spent there in judging some most excellent classes of Mr. Phillips' best cows. They had the advantage of his criticisms, as well as those of the instructors accompanying the team.

From Pomeroy they went to the now famous Pender Farm, at Narberth, Pa., where they worked on Jersey and Ayrshire cattle. The Pender Farm is owned by Mr. Percival Roberts, Jr., and is managed by Dr. E. S. Duebler, a former student of Prof. Hayward. Dr. Duebler is an expert judge of Jerseys and Ayrshires, and gave the students a great many suggestions which will be of help to them in their contest at Chicago.

Some of the best types of cattle in the country are owned at Pender Farm, a number of them being the pick of the best herds in Scotland and the Island of Jersey.

On Monday afternoon the five students who are competing for the judging team, left for Hagerstown, Md., under the direction of their instructor, Mr. M. O. Cooper. They will attend the Hagerstown Fair and compete with the Maryland Agricultural College Judging Team in a contest that has been arranged to be held at the Fair.

Her father, John Husler, moved to this locality from Germany and in early manhood married Miss Katherine Evans of Newark.

Mr. and Mrs. Husler lived in what is now the Springer residence; for one year on a farm adjoining town, and later in the home which they built, the residence on Main street, in which Miss Husler lived for seventy-two years. For the last year she has been with a nephew, Mr. George Husler, Marshallton, but always referred to Newark as home.

Miss Husler has been a member of the Head of Christiana Church since early girlhood. She became connected with this charge long before the Presbyterian Church of Newark existed.

The deceased is the last of nine children. Funeral services were held from the old home, now the residence of her niece, Mrs. Mary C. Jones, on Tuesday at 1:30. Interment in Head of Christiana Cemetery.

LESSONS FROM THE WESTERN FARMER

Clippings from letters written by Lee Cooch, to "Practical Farmer."

Near Salem, Ohio, I visited two fine apple orchards. The first was an old orchard, possibly sixty years old. The trees had been neglected and allowed to grow so tall that picking the fruit was a dangerous and expensive operation. The present owner, however, has applied modern methods of pruning, spraying and fertilizing, so that this year he has a crop that will more than pay for all the work he has put on the orchard the past ten years. This is a point that I want our eastern farmers to look into. Most of you have old orchards. Don't neglect them. Start next winter and cut out all the dead branches, prune over the remaining carefully, head in the trees all you can and spray for scale and codling moth. Do not neglect the work in order to look after your corn planting or planting—if your old orchard is of any size, it will pay you well to give it intelligent care. The second orchard was twenty-six years old. The trees were low-headed, so that the loaded branches touched the ground, and resting there, prevented much breaking of the trees. This orchard had been sprayed three times this year and I should say fully 80 per cent of the apples would grade No. 1, and 10 per cent No. 2. The orchard contained 11 acres, and the owner estimated that he would have five or six carloads of marketable apples.

One of the best farming sections I have ever seen, lies along the line of the Louisville & Nashville R. R., between Cincinnati and Louisville. Here we ran through the famous blue grass section of Kentucky. The farm homes are large and give an air of comfort behind their spacious lawns. The crops are good, the fields are well fenced and the stock is well cared for. I am told the farmers here are in comfortable circumstances and this is easy to believe, for there are evidences of thrift and prosperity on every hand. There is one thing more I want to speak about that appears to me a possible solution of the road problem. Through many sections of Ohio brick roads are being constructed. These are about 14 feet wide and usually built along one side of the roadway. This gives a dirt road for good weather and a brick road for winter and spring. Our macadamized roads of the East are not holding up under the heavy automobile traffic. They cost much to build, and still more if kept in repair. The hard brick roads of Ohio may offer a less expensive and more lasting road than macadam.

Alfalfa in western Iowa and eastern Nebraska has kept pace with corn, wheat and oats. This is the greatest alfalfa raising section of the country, where five and six cuttings are not unusual. We are only beginning to learn how to grow it in the East, but when experience has taught us how, we will have one of the greatest dairy feeds, both for hay and pasture, that modern agriculture can give. Minnesota has a fine wheat record this year. In fact, this state seems good in all her crops. Corn, wheat, oats, barley, rye, flax, potatoes, clover, hay and grass, as well as fruits, berries and vegetables. Minnesota farmers have made good. I know this state pretty well from top to bottom, having lived in it for nearly three years. Every time I go back there for a visit, I wonder why more of our eastern farmers, that is, the young men who are looking for farms of their own, do not investigate the possibilities of the "Gopher State." Certainly, anyone who could see the present agricultural wealth of Minnesota right now and not be satisfied, would be hard to please. Minnesota farmers are now busy filling their silos. I saw a score of them at this work as I passed along on the train. It is a great dairy state, second to New York in this respect. The silo is almost as common in Minnesota as the dairy barn. Silage and rich clover hay form a large part of the winter dairy ration, that has brought the state into such a prominent position among the other great dairy states of the Union. A few years ago Minnesota was classed as a big wheat state—it is yet, but it has not gone wheat crazy like the Dakotas and Canada, for after raising wheat continuously on the same soil year after year, the farmers began to realize that it was economical to think a little less of grain, rotate their crops and raise cattle, hogs and sheep. In this way they are able to maintain the fertility of their soil with the use of very little commercial fertilizer. In due course of time Minnesota will be using large quantities of artificial fertilizers, but the day has been postponed for the farmers read the handwriting on the wall—they saw what the eastern farmer was up against, and are making strenuous efforts to avoid the blunders of their forefathers.

Wisconsin has justly earned her place among the great dairy states. It is the home of the inventor of the Babcock milk tester. The state is literally dotted with creameries, cheese factories and centralizing stations. The good old dairy cow, with excellent clover, is the salvation of the state. I would say that nine-tenths of the dairy herds of Wisconsin are composed of Holsteins, although quite frequently I noticed herds containing a few Jerseys or Guernseys which were evidently being used to increase the percentage of butter fat from the Holstein herds.

Down through the Elgin district of Illinois is considered the greatest dairy section of the country—this, at least, is the easterner's idea until he has had an opportunity to compare it with some sections of Wisconsin. Without wishing to detract from the honors the Elgin district has so justly won, this section will soon have to take second place if the Wisconsin dairymen continue on their present course. Whether this is because of the renting system at Illinois, or because of the excellent work being accomplished by the Wisconsin dairy school, I am not prepared to say, but will leave the working out of the problem to those most vitally concerned.

Anyone who has had the opportunity to pass by the great railroad routes through the eastern half of the country, and has noted the fields of standing and harvested grain in many states, will readily credit the estimates upon our crops made by experienced collectors of such statistics. Almost everywhere I have gone I hear the statement that this is another phenomenal "farmers' year." Surely the greatness of these crops must cause such confidence as to minimize the anxiety for the business outlook frequent in "presidential years."

Coming into Pennsylvania from the West, a stranger is not apt to get a correct impression of the agricultural wealth of the State. Steel mills, blast furnaces, coke ovens, coal mines, and oil wells seem to overshadow Pennsylvania's agricultural resources, and yet western Pennsylvania compared very favorably with some of the more talked about agricultural sections of the country. In fact, if we were to take a ten-year average of the crops produced in western Pennsylvania, they would show up surprisingly well, and open the eyes of those who are boasting farm lands so vigorously in some of our newer states. In eastern Pennsylvania crop conditions this year are excellent. Coming down the Chester Valley through Lancaster Co., which, by the way, is the banner county of the whole United States in the matter of agricultural wealth, I could not help being impressed with the natural beauty of the country, the evidences of fertile soil, intelligent farming and general prosperity. This is the condition that exists all over eastern Pennsylvania. I could not help drawing a mental picture of the contrast between the life of the eastern Pennsylvania farmer and his wife, on their small, fertile, well cultivated farm, and the western farmer and his wife on their large prairie farm. The eastern Pennsylvania folks have good buildings, well equipped, excellent stock, congenial neighbors and excellent railroad facilities. Some of the western farmers have these conditions, but on a great many prairie farms there must be a dearth of social intercourse, and the farming, especially the "one crop" system of farming is not calculated to improve the soil.

M. Hayes Wilson, D. C. '03, Weds
 Manlove Hayes Wilson, Delaware College, Class of 1903, and Miss Mary Grieselda Gebr, of Westminster, Md., were married last Wednesday evening in the Methodist Protestant Church, Westminster, by Rev. Dr. D. L. Greenfield, Pastor. Both bride and groom have a wide circle of friends and the wedding was a large one. The bridesmaids were, Misses Mary L. Fisher and Louise Cole of Dover, Miss Elsie Bekards of Belair, Md., and Miss Alice Miller, of Westminster; the matron of honor, Mrs. Daniel E. Jones of Dover. The best man, Ralph Wilson of Dover, is well-known at "Old Delaware." The ushers included William Pierce, Dr. S. M. D. Marshall of Milford, T. Marvel Gooden, and James F. Abee of Dover, William Lawton, of Richmond, Va., and Edwin Gehl of Westminster, brother of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will reside in the Manlove Hayes property, Dover.

Delaware Medical Society Holds Annual Meeting
 The Delaware State Medical Society held its one hundred and twenty-third annual session in Wilmington last Tuesday, and elected the following officers: First vice-president, Albert Robin, Wilmington; second vice-president, Joseph M. Martin, Lewes; secretary, G. W. K. Forrest, Wilmington; treasurer, L. C. Rumford, Wilmington; trustees of Delaware State Medical Journal, E. S. Dwight, Smyrna. The next meeting will be in Dover in October, 1913.

The First Americans
 Indians from all parts of the United States recently gathered at the Ohio State University, in Columbus, to discuss the rights and destiny of their race. Among the number were doctors, lawyers, men of science, clergymen, a United States Senator and a member of the National House of Representatives—all proud of their race and determined, if possible, to preserve it.

Oxford Presbyterian Church calls Rev. G. H. Turner

The unanimous vote of the largest congregational meeting that has been held in the Oxford, Pa. Presbyterian Church for many years recently called Rev. Geo. H. Turner of Paquette, Idaho, as pastor of that church. Mr. Turner was educated in Waynesburg College in Pennsylvania and at an early age went to Illinois. He began preaching at Mt. Vernon in that state, and was called from there to take charge of some Chautauque work which the church was doing. He was eminently successful in this line and it was while thus engaged that he met Dr. Pearson of Swarthmore, who was lecturing on that circuit. When Dr. Pearson was looking for a manager for his newly established Chautauque in Pennsylvania, his choice naturally fell upon Mr. Turner, who was then at Paquette, Idaho; having gone there for the health of one of the children. Mr. Turner consented to assist Dr. Pearson and not a small part of the success of the enterprise was due to the wide experience which he brought to it. Mr. Turner impressed Oxford so favorably, when conducting the recent Chautauque in that town, that the call was extended. He filled the pulpit of his new charge last Sunday.

The Commercial Traveller's Dream

Ten thousand miles my garden paths
 Stretch out from sea to sea
 And all its walls of waving flowers
 Are waiting now for me.
 From Omaha to Cleveland town
 I watch them as I pass,
 My Valiant sunflowers swept by winds,
 My tall plumed pampas grass
 From Memphis to the Golden Gate
 Great beds of heading greens;
 Such plots of rushes as we see,
 Bound east from New Orleans.
 Down narrow lanes of waving wheat,
 Through singing hosts of corn,
 I pass to miles of orchards sweet,
 As breaks the glorious morn.
 At noontime still my golden-rod
 Or asters blue, I see
 Or mark where in the spring-fed sod
 My golden-lilies be.
 At night the great trees vigil keep,
 As I climb mountains high,
 And softly murmur "All is well"
 To watch-stars in my sky.
 And all the paths that I have known
 Beckon to one still street
 Where long my heart's-case flowers
 Have grown,
 Far from earth's dust and heat.
 —O. R. Washburn.

Corn—it's Part in our National Life

There is small reason enough for calling this continent after the Florentine navigator who came upon the scene later than Columbus; and yet, if anything had its due, the continental name would be not Columbia, but Cornland. As A. M. Simons has suggested, a true account of that cereal would contain more of the actual history of North America than could be found in the biographies of any half-dozen of the greatest men who have lived here. To the Indians, corn was what domesticated animals had been to other savages. With no other implements than a stone hatchet—to girdle the trees, kill the foliage and let in sunshine—and a sharp stick to make a hole in the ground, they could raise a crop that hung on the stalks without injury for weeks after ripening. This released them from complete dependence upon the chase, enabled them to live in settled habitations, and so to take that long step from savagery to barbarism that was in process when the white men came. The first white settlements subsisted upon corn, and largely upon it were borne those successive pioneer waves that subdued the continent from the seaboard to the Rockies—pioneers borrowing the simple Indian practice of girdling the trees to let in sunshine and planting seed in unbroken ground, by corn more than by any other cereal was developed the system of small farm proprietors, which to this day has been the biggest force in shaping our political life. And in this year of grace nobody except those persons whose professional engagements require it—is really alarmed over any foreseeable political contingency, because we are raising three billion bushels of corn. Human wisdom has not been idle to put an appreciable dent in the cost of living; but this huge maize crop promises to do it by somewhat cheapening meat. The really important thing usually lies where nobody looks for it.

Teachers' Reception in Dover

The Parent-Teachers Association of Dover gave a reception in the High School last Monday, to the new principal and teachers of the public schools. Mrs. Robert E. Lewis, president of the organization presided at the meeting. Prof. Wesley Webb, a member of the Dover Board of Education welcomed the visitors and teachers on the part of the Association and Prof. Messersmith spoke for the teachers and the school. The Glee Club of the Peoples Church enlivened the occasion with several selections. "Doubt of any kind cannot be removed except by action. Lay this other precept well to heart—Do the duty which lies nearest thee."

Want Ads for Farmers

Only a comparatively few readers of newspapers realize the benefit of the Want Ad Department. It is a cheap form of advertising odds and ends. For the farmer it is always a paying proposition. Suppose you have a cow, few pigs that you would be willing to sell. Put it in the Want Column and rest assured you will get the customers. Then again, a farmer often sees where he could handle a heifer or calf during the winter. With a little extra forage, he has on hand, he can by feeding it make a dollar or so without any extra work. But he has not the time to hunt them up. Run in an Ad something like this:—

S. F. W. C. HOLDS EXECUTIVE MEETING

REPORTS SHOW PROGRESS

The Board of the State Federation of Women's Clubs met Friday at the home of Mrs. A. D. Warner at Kentmere where the ladies were entertained in luncheon. Routine business, consisting principally of committee reports, was the order of the afternoon's program. Representatives from all parts of the state were present. Mrs. Harry Hays, president of the New Century Club of Newark, was among the guests.

The Federation endorsed the proposed bill to limit the working hours of women to ten in any one day, popularly known as the "Women's Bill," pledged their support during the next General Assembly and also decided to assist the State Library Commission with an amendment to the library law making a provision for the State to a sum of money for the purchase of new library material in the State. They will also support a bill for the control of registration of births, Mrs. S. N. Brown, chairman of health, having conferred with Dr. France and Dr. Orr of the State Board of Health, in this matter. There were 24 members of the executive board of the S. F. W. C. present at the home of Mrs. A. D. Warner where the meeting was held and it was a very important session which adjourned to meet in September of January.

LIBRARIES.
The Hon. Ridgely and Mrs. Golob, president of the State Library Commission and Mrs. T. N. Rawlins of Seaford, chairman of libraries, all talked on the subject. Mrs. Ridgely stated that the subject of the library law is its stress on taxation, that there is always opposition as soon as taxation is mentioned, and that efforts being made to eliminate this provision. In Rehoboth this summer $75 was needed for a library and only $50 could be secured by popular subscription, the free library could not be started. They have, however, a free reading room given by Mrs. Carmine, who also acts as librarian for the three traveling libraries which the commission sent there. Mrs. Rawlins and Mrs. Burchenal described the splendid work of the book wagon, which has been in charge of Miss Hopkins at Seaford since the first of June. She takes three routes out from Seaford and reaches over 500 persons. The commission has appropriated $150 to carry on this work until Christmas and half the sum is to be used in Kent county. It is felt that this is to be best method yet tried for reaching the people in their homes. The library at Seaford now has over 1,000 books and 150 readers. The Laurel library started last year now has 600 volumes.

SOCIAL SERVICE.
Speaking for the social service committee Miss Emily P. Bissell said that at the next session of the Legislature they want to make tuberculosis a reportable disease (not to be placarded though) and they want to abolish the common drinking cup on trains.

The child labor committee are grateful to the women's clubs for making investigations this summer among working children. Twelve of the 17 clubs responded and the conditions are better than was supposed, although something is necessary for the betterment of foreign children. The social service committee wants to co-operate with the schools for foreigners, and at Miss Bissell's suggestion $5 was appropriated to purchase books for aliens such as are being used in Boston. They are printed in all languages and give a simple story of our country and government and tell the aliens how to live and educate their children. The Delaware Society Colonial Dames gave $10 to supply these books for Wilmington, which has 18,000 aliens and negroes in its population.

The social service commission is making a house-to-house survey of Wilmington, looking into sanitary conditions and housing, and when completed their statistics will be available for reference.

SECRET EXHIBIT.
Following the example of New York and other large cities, Miss Bissell is in line with a movement to hold budget exhibits in Wilmington and the towns of Delaware. They are intended to show taxpayers how the administrative departments of the city and county spend the money given into their charge, and they make interesting exhibits as our industrial parade on Wednesday was a small edition of a budget exhibition.

AFFILIATED COLLEGES.
Reporting for education, Mrs. A. D. Warner stated that the support of the State W. C. T. U. had been enlisted in the movement for the affiliated colleges at Newark and that Mrs. S. M. Donnell of Newark, Miss Lillian Cole of Milton, and Miss Anthony of Sayton had been appointed as a committee to cooperate with the federation.

DR. BUCKLER'S ADDRESS.
The meeting closed with a brief talk by Dr. Thomas H. Buckler of Baltimore, on the passage of the Woman's Bill in the Maryland Legislature, last winter, which resulted in the pledge for the support of the federation for a similar measure for Delaware next year. Dr. Buckler told the women that the most vital and solemn thought in this movement is the fact that future mothers are growing up without home influences and home training, that girls who work from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. cannot learn to home makers, and that 59 per cent of the working women are between 16 and 20 years of age.

Since the Maryland law went into effect last May the Ten Hour Bureau has heard nothing but praise from the merchants and manufacturers, and many of them have asked the bureau to make up their schedules of hours.

TO TAKE HOME.
Members of the executive board were requested to carry several messages to their home clubs.

Clubs are asked to subscribe to the Federation Bulletin, because of the information it contains. The executive board directed the treasurer to purchase 17 biennial reports, one for each club.

Each club is asked to send the names of its college graduates to Miss Mary H. Askew-Mather, who wants to enroll them in her committee of college women, who are working for the affiliated college at Newark.

Miss Bissell offers to talk about Howard Pyle to the clubs who will confer with her about it.

Clubs are requested to obtain information as to the sanitary conditions of their towns, that they may answer questions to be submitted to the health chairman.

Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Texas, president of the General Federation, has written Mrs. Sarah Cooper, federation secretary, that she expects to come east next spring and will visit Delaware.

LEST WE FORGET

Every American citizen, worthy of the name, irrespective of creed, political opinion, or station, breathes the prayer that the life of Theodore Roosevelt, a world hero of thought and action, be spared, that he may continue the work which he believes is right.

Editors of newspaper editors, anxious scribes by intelligent leads of thought, base slurs heard on the street, even since the assassin's shot, make every honest man blush with shame of our American boast of "Malice toward none; with charity for all."

The words, "honor, Benedict Arnold, Aaron Burr, neurotic and American meanness, madmen, are weirdly conspicuous by their absence in our newspapers to-day. No more storn rebuke of rash, vicious, un-American speakers and writers could have been given than this shot fired by a weakling, inspired by the attacks of those of our country, to whom we look for the expression and moulding of public opinion.

The warning given by Colonel Roosevelt in his speech should be posted in every newspaper office and writ larger on the walls of every public school and college in the country—"Lest We Forget!"

THE ISSUE IN THIS STATE

The one political issue in Delaware, overshadowing all others in its importance is the necessity of saving the State from Democratic control. No criticism of the Republican party can be made severe enough to warrant countenance of any local faction and by indiscretion thus lend aid to the Democratic cause. Whatever one's opinion may be on the National issues, no thoughtful Republican unaffected by selfish interest or prejudice, will in the heat of conflicting opinions so forget himself, by voice, act or vote, to directly or indirectly, aid in the election of any man who will vote for a Democrat for United States Senator.

The main issue, in fact the one vital issue, before the Republicans of this State whether in sympathy with the Regular or Progressive sentiments as Nationally expressed, is: "Shall Willard Saulsbury get control of this State Government and personally represent this State in the United States Senate?"

Some of our Democratic candidates for the Legislature tell us that they are unpledged—and we believe them honest, but challenge any one of them to give statement that they will dare vote otherwise.

According to the rules of time-honored and too-often disgraced political expediency, it would be perhaps considered unwise to speak too frankly at this stage of the campaign.

But with such conditions existent and with time passing, it is of vital importance that this be made the supreme test of Republican voters for decision at the coming election. However strong our loyalty to the sacred platform, all should sink to a spirit of compromise before this issue. This is no theory; it is a serious fact facing every voter who holds the Republican view of the tariff and realizes the serious results, pending when this State goes back to the shameful record of Democratic control.

In these rural districts voters are keyed high to the actions of those in party control— anxiously waiting their decision. At no time in recent years, has the State Central Committee faced such responsibility as the present issue presents. Sentiment is strong and can be easily obtained as to the best method of procedure.

This, however, is not representative when only those whose views are known are called into consultation.

The rank and file of voters who will make for success or defeat are becoming restive at the delay and are demanding that recognition be given their judgement—or at least an expression of it.

With this clean cut issue before the voters, those in charge of the campaign should lose no time in meeting the demands of the hour. Our keen sense of pride in our State and County ticket should urge such action as to guarantee success.

Local Views on the Tariff

When the late Grover Cleveland was first spoken of as Democratic candidate for President, a committee of business men from New York, before pledging their support called to see him for an expression of his views on the tariff.

Cleveland, real Democrat that he was, and realizing that he had a monopoly of the common sense of his party,—without quibble, honestly replied: "Gentlemen, I don't know a damn thing about it."

That admission stamped Grover Cleveland as an honest Democrat. One of our local expert political economists, in discussing the present campaign issues, said that the reason that Fibre manufacturers were Republicans was that they wanted to maintain the outrageous high tariff on Fibre.

He did not know that the country within a 20 mile circle of Newark produces about 90 per cent of the total output of Fibre in the world. That not only is there no Fibre imported to this country but that his own country exports this product.

Our friend proved as conclusively, though not honestly that he was like Cleveland when he said: "The tariff? Why, gentlemen, I don't know a damn thing about it."

Our local statesman would not admit it—that's the difference.

PHILOSOPHY FOUNDED ON EXPERIENCE IN A NEWSPAPER OFFICE

ANY MAN WHO REFUSES TO CONSIDER ANOTHER MAN'S VIEW ON A GREAT MORAL, EDUCATIONAL, SOCIAL OR RELIGIOUS QUESTION, IN WHICH COUNTRY AND STATE ARE VITALLY INTERESTED AND AFFECTED, PROVES HIMSELF A COWARD.

NOT TO BE WILLING TO GRANT A MAN THE HOSPITALITY OF ONE'S HOME IS ONE THING; BUT TO REFUSE TO LISTEN TO HIS VIEWS, WHICH MAY BE HONEST, TOO, IS QUITE ANOTHER.

TO SAY AN ARTICLE WHICH PRESENTS A VIEW DIFFERENT FROM HIS IS UNWORTHY OF BEING ANSWERED, ADVERTISES THE FACT THAT HE NOT ONLY LACKS INTELLIGENCE BUT IS DEVOID OF COURAGE, WHICH DARES TO "PROVE ALL THINGS AND HOLD FAST TO THAT WHICH IS GOOD." THE MAN WHO IS AFRAID TO READ THE OTHER SIDE OF ANY AND EVERY PROPOSITION IS A MORAL COWARD WHOSE CRAVEN SOUL IS MORE THAN HALF CONVINCED THAT HE IS WRONG.

AND THE MAN WHO DISCOURAGES THOSE FRIENDS OF HIS FROM READING OR ANSWERING SUCH ARTICLES HAS UNWITTINGLY CONVICTED HIMSELF BEFORE AN HONEST JURY WHO WILL SOONER OR LATER PRONOUNCE ON HIM HIS JUST SENTENCE.

TO SAY OF A MAN OR HIS WRITINGS, THAT WHICH HE WOULD NOT DARE PUT IN TYPE, PROVES HIM UNWORTHY OF PRESTIGE IN AMERICAN LIFE AND MANHOOD.

TO SHOW ME THE MAN WHO REFUSES TO LISTEN TO OR READ BOTH SIDES OF A QUESTION WHICH MAY AFFECT HIM OR INFLUENCE THE WELFARE OF HIS CHILDREN, AND I WILL SHOW YOU EITHER A MORAL WEAKLING, AN ACADEMIC FORCE FOR STAGNATION OR A TROCK.

FOR IF HE BE MORALLY TRUE, INTELLECTUALLY STRONG AND WORTHY TO BE CALLED A MAN, HE WILL BY VIRTUE OF HIS COURAGE AND HIS KNOWLEDGE, SET TO RIDICULE THIS APOSTLE OF ERROR AND SILENCE ANY MISREPRESENTATION OF FACTS, OF CONDITIONS OR OF LIFE.

TO FAIL IN THIS, HE FAILS IN HIS DUTY, TO HIS RIGHT TO LIVE, TO HIS STATE AND TO HIS GOD.

IF THE QUESTION BE ONE OF MORALS, HIS SINCERITY WILL WIN; IF IT BE ONE OF EDUCATION, HIS INTELLIGENCE WILL RULE; IF IT BE ONE OF SOCIETY, THE PART HE PLAYS IN HIS EVERY-DAY LIFE WILL SILENCE HIS ACCUSERS; IF IT BE ONE OF RELIGION HIS HUMANITY AND HIS GOD WILL SO ASSIST AND ENDOW HIM THAT THE WORLD WILL PRONOUNCE HIM VICTOR AND FOLLOW HIS LEADERSHIP.

UNLESS HE BRAVELY AND OPENLY MEETS THE MAN AND THE ISSUE, SOCIETY WILL SOON RECOGNIZE HIS IGNORANCE OR HIS DUPLICITY AND SO RECKON HIM AS NOT WORTH OR WORTHY OF THE AGE OR OF MANHOOD.

They Forgot

"Still playing to the gallery" is the comment on Colonel Roosevelt's speech, after being shot, by a Delaware minister of the Gospel.

Words fail to express indignation and we can only say, "Read the life of that man of sorrows, called Jesus," whose teachings you claim to expound.

Still another said recently in our presence that he should be banished out of the country.

That a young college-bred American should say—"if he had only gotten in the second shot!"—yet we heard one so forget himself.

Postorials

Bill Sunday refused to conduct a revival service in Wilkes Barre, Pa., unless the people of that city paid him $2,500 in cash, and signed a contract written by Billy himself guaranteeing him an additional $10,000 at the end of the month.

This is the most striking illustration of the high cost of living that has come to our notice.

The fellow who in reading the Postorials remarked "Isn't that a fool thing to put in a paper?" perhaps didn't realize that he's the man we were gunning for. Rather he should thank us for not making it worse, for we could honestly have done so.

Strange and striking coincidence that one of the "Princeton Friends contributions" should be the President of the Harvester Trust!

Soft-pedal, please!

"Judging Wilson from my experience with college professors, I shall gladly vote for him," received this reply—"For that very reason I shall cast my first Republican ballot. I have lived here longer than you. I know what I am talking about."

Noted Stock at the State Farm

Mr. S. M. Shoemaker, of the well-known Burnside Farm at Eccleston, Md., was a visitor at the College farm last week. He is particularly interested in the herd of Guernseys now owned by the College, and while here made arrangements to secure for a time the head of the Guernsey herd, Bede's May King. One of the daughters of this bull recently completed an official year's test. Beginning at the age of 2 1/2 years, in 366 days she produced 11,170 pounds of milk, and 569 pounds of butter fat, the equivalent of 664 pounds of butter. Another daughter, beginning her record at two years of age, has produced in 248 days 7879 pounds of milk and 354 pounds of fat, the equivalent of about 414 pounds of butter. Considering the age of these animals, these records are quite unusual and have materially increased the value of the College bull as a sire.

Gov. Glenn Advocates Two-legged Pants

Former Governor R. B. Glenn, of North Carolina, addressing 2000 women of the Allegheny County Teachers' Association, at Pittsburgh, made a plea to them to use their influence in securing reform in the manner of dress adopted by the women of the country. "My dear ladies," he said, "if you want to wear pants, wear them. Japanese women wear them, and look pretty in them. But if you insist upon wearing them, wear pants with both legs to them, and not with only one leg, and then try to stick your feet through them as some of you women are now trying to do."

A petition is being circulated among the business men of the town, which will be submitted to Postmaster General Hitchcock, asking for general delivery of mail within the town of Newark, Delaware.

Apple Section of Delaware

The Trees a Beautiful Sight

One of the most beautiful sights in the State can be seen by merely taking a run down the Delaware railroad as far as Harrington and noticing the apple orchards as they are at present. The foliage has begun to acquire a crimson hue which makes the apples more magnificent to say nothing of their original beauty. The trees are simply overloaded, each little twig having shown its strength by holding some of the fruit. In fact, in numerous cases, whole large limbs are broken to the ground while in other cases the farmer has supported his heaviest laden limbs by props. The farmers have now begun to pick this fruit and although most of the trees are small, they are picking from 20 to 40 baskets per tree. The largest owners of apple orchards in this vicinity are Messrs. Francis M. Soper and Samuel H. Derby, who have won honors in apple shows in many cities of the East. These men began the apple business on a small scale and gradually increased the sowing until at present they have about 50 acres each and continue to add each year. The other trees are now bringing in great profits and it is understood that from $10,000 to $12,000 is realized each year by each. After the picking of the fruit, it is packed in barrels very carefully and shipped to Philadelphia, where it is placed in cold storage until the price reaches a high mark, when it is re-shipped to different points through the country, many of the barrels coming right in this vicinity. The principal varieties raised by the growers are the Ben Davis, Staymens and Wine Sap, all of which keep well during the winter months and are in great demand.

No doubt the coming orchard of the State has been set out near Bridgeville, which includes 50,000 trees of various varieties. This vast orchard was started by a combination of men who saw that the apple culture in Delaware was the fruit to take the place of the once famous "Delaware peach" which has been found difficult to produce a crop on account of the dreaded scale. While the corporation at Bridgeville has at present thousands of dollars at stake, it has been calculated that when the trees are in bearing state, they will net in two or three years the entire cost. Many other farmers are setting out apple trees on a small scale, becoming disgusted with the success they have had with peaches or pears.

The Extermination of Flies

A new discovery for the extermination of flies which may pave a way to complete eradication of the pests was tried out in the office of the health officer for the District of Columbia. Several hundred insects were liberated in a room and were dead in a few minutes afterward. An atmosphere, charged with an alcoholic distillation of the long leaf pine, is what killed the insects. Dr. Joseph C. Shepard, of Wilmington, N. C., discovered the new fly method.

After a trap containing several hundred flies had been opened in the room, Dr. Morel used a small blower for charging the atmosphere with the mixture.

Within a few minutes the insects began to fall lifeless and it was not long until all were dead. Several water insects which had been turned loose on the floor expired in the same way.

It was explained that flies breathe through pores in their bodies and that the pine leaf product closes the pores and thus stops respiration. The mixture, it is stated, is not injurious to human life.

"Nothing which is learned in youth is so really valuable as the power and habit of self-restraint, of self-sacrifice, of energetic, continuous and concentrated effort."

HOW ABOUT THOSE CALENDARS

☞ Luck came our way last week when we secured the option on a fine line of Calendars for 1913.

☞ The subjects are fine but where the Luck came in was the prices given us. They are such that we can quote you prices that really sound ridiculous. Of course, if you want some extra fine, say a sepia tint on deckle edged card, it does cost money—but you will not regret the expenditure made.

☞ For real commercial purposes with a calendar for usage and advertising service, this line of calendars will take your eye.

☞ We are enthusiastic you say. Of course we are. But we can deliver the goods.

☞ Don't think of going out of town for your Calendars. Come here. We are going after trade in other towns. And we'll get it, too.

☞ Stop in and select your subject. We will sell you exclusive right to you choice. Of course we charge you for this honor. But even then, we can give that Calendar agent a run for his money.

☞ Augustus, the old fellow who started the Calendar business back there in Rome was all right in his day—but these calendars here would put him to shame.

☞ Just come in and see for yourself.

Because we live in a country where the only car gongs we hear are on the ...

more of good than of bad in men. We are not cynics in our office; for we know in a thousand ways that the world is good.

Time and again we have been surprised at the charity of our people. They are always willing to forgive, and be it man or woman who takes a misstep in our town—which is the counterpart of hundreds of American towns—if the offender shows that he wishes to walk straight, a thousand hands are stretched out to help him and guide him.

Agricultural Progress Illustrated at Corn Show

The Fifth National Corn Exposition will be held in Columbia, S. C., January 27th to February 8th, 1913.

For the first time in the history of the country, all sections—East, North and West—will have an opportunity to meet in the South for the holding of a great National Agricultural Exposition.

Those who are familiar with the past history of this movement and what it stands for in its relation to agricultural education and development know that it is more than a mere corn show.

visiting farmers and point out how the results of this work may be applied to their own farm conditions.

Conservation, country life and rural school problems will be treated in a fundamental way both through exhibits and by speakers of national reputation.

Those who are planning to attend the Exposition may look forward with confidence to a pleasant and profitable experience.

Everywhere farmers are expressing their faith in farming by training their sons to be up-to-date farmers.

Faith in Agricultural Colleges

Everywhere farmers are expressing their faith in farming by training their sons to be up-to-date farmers. Everywhere farmers are turning to the College of Agriculture as their best friend and helper in educating their sons.

Mothers

The real tragedy in a mother's life is when she realizes for the first time that she is no longer "first" in the son's affections.

All the self-hood in all the years! Mother's clothes were often shabby and her shoes worn that "Sonny" might have the new suit or the new overcoat needed.

Now Mother is "second," and as the years advance others will come to push her farther in the background—she is getting old and will soon be alone—it may be a case of the "terrible" mother-in-law.

The Growth of the Bell

This may look as if we were boasting—perhaps we are. Not alone about our own business, however, but much about the bigness and broadness and progressiveness of the American people.

Thirty-five years ago the first Bell Telephone startled the scientific world with the sound of its weak little voice. To-day all over the world, it is the voice of commerce and society.

In this country the wireways of the Bell System now form a network connecting every city, town and hamlet—70,000 places connected by over 2,000,000 miles of toll wire.

That's the record to-day—a growth in the last ten years of 700%.

The reason is found in the Bell Telephone's efficiency and power—qualities which force every American to talk rather than walk, write or ride.

The Bright Colors of Autumn

The color of Autumn leaves is due to a glucosidal compound which appears in the cells and epidermis of the leaves in Autumn.

The red pigment produced in the leaves in Autumn is always accompanied by soluble hydrocarbons. Analyses show that red leaves hold more sugars and glucosides than green leaves.
