Suggests Bonding State To Make Schools Best In The Nation

Dr. R. W. Cooper Addressed Local P.-T. Association on "School Finances" Monday

EIGHT DELEGATES NAMED TO ATTEND DOVER MEETING

The April meeting of the Newark Parent-Teacher Association, postponed from last week, was held in the High School on Monday evening.

Pupils of the fifth grade, trained by Miss Jester, presented illustrations in songs, stories and games of the nature work that is being studied by that grade this Spring. The children gave the program naturally and charmingly, and it was much appreciated by the audience.

A letter was read from Mrs. Cleaver, president of the State P.-T. A., telling of the Convention of the Association that is to be held in the Opera House at Dover, next Saturday, April 12th. Our Newark Association is entitled to eight delegates, besides our president. Those delegates were elected on Monday evening and are: Mrs. John Shaw, Mrs. W. A. Wilkinson, Mrs. G. L. Truend, Mrs. Gregg, Miss Hoffecker, Ms. Doordan, Mrs. A. D. Cobb and Dr. R. W. Cooper. Other members are welcome at the Convention, but do not vote.

Dr. Cooper Addresses

The address of the evening was on the subject, "School Finances," and was given by Dr. R. W. Cooper. Dr. Cooper named the sources of school income in this State as: one-fourth from property tax; the remainder from income tax, from the annual fees of corporations that have been incorporated in this State, and from a slight tax on corporations doing business in Delaware. There are a few other sources of income, but they are uncertain, as they are not always collected.

In Delaware we have a property tax of twenty-five cents on each hundred dollars assessed property; Maryland has sixty-seven cent property tax, Massachusetts higher. Delaware is unique that she has a State and not a county, system of administration and control over her schools, modified slightly by local conditions. The property tax is paid to the State Board of Education and the State holds title to school buildings, except in special districts. Each school sends a budget of its expenses, based on number of pupils, days of attendance, and teachers' salaries to the State Board. The State Board then makes up its budget every two years to cover expenses of all schools and this is presented to the Legislature in session, asking for an amount to cover these expenses. If the Legislature decides to reduce this sum, each school's appropriation is reduced accordingly. The only recourse then is to raise funds by bonding the district.

Dr. Cooper said that at the present time Delaware is spending less per capita than two-thirds of the States, and that we are about thirty-eighth in the advance we have made in school matters. Almost places where no outside help has been given we are still far behind in school-buildings.

UNIVERSITY NEWS NOTES

Dean Dutton to Attend Conference in Virginia This Week

Paul Binard and Fred Smith, representing the University Review, attended a conference of college newspapers at Haverford College on Saturday.

Dean George E. Dutton will attend the annual conference of the Association of Alumni Secretaries at the University of Virginia the last three days of this week.

Authorities Deadlocked On Post Office Site

Treasury Department Man in Town Again Monday—Curtis Property Ruled Out

As a result of a second visit of Mr. George Simon, representing the U. S. Treasury Department, to Newark Monday, Town, University and Government authorities appear to be completely deadlocked on the question of a suitable site for the proposed Federal building here. Mr. Simon went over the situation again with President Walter Hullahen of the University, A. G. Wilkinson, business administrator, Mayor Eben B. Frazer, and Councilman A. L. Beales. From advice received from an authoritative source after the conference, the problem is now divided into three salient features:

1. Support of the Curtis property on Main Street, opposite the Academy, as a possible site was rendered useless, when Mr. Simon asserted that the Government would not consider the purchase of another lot, although a suitable trade might be arranged.

2. The possibility of the University authorities buying the existing Government lot at the corner of South College and Delaware Avenues from the Treasury Department was given a setback when President Hullahen stated that there was no money whatsoever in sight for such a purchase.

3. Following Mr. Simon's official report to the head of his Department in Washington, the prospects of early action in building a Post Office here are fast waning. Unless the University can arrange a trade in lots which the Washington authorities deem equal in value to both parties, the Department will hold the present lot, and nothing except a direct purchase will keep the land for the "Campus Beautiful" scheme planned for Delaware.

Mayor Frazer in discussing the conference today stated that it looked very much as though the situation remains unchanged. "The Government," stated the Mayor, "has signified its unwillingness to enter into the purchase of a new lot, when they already have one here. The only way the University can help itself is to arrange a trade which will be pleasing to all parties concerned."

When approached for a statement on the conference, A. G. Wilkinson stated that "nothing was done." He would not comment on the possibility of the University buying the Government lot other than to say, "Where's

Edward J. Cattell To Speak at Dinner Here

Noted Philadelphian Guest of Chamber of Commerce on 24th

Edward James Cattell, chief statistician of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce and one of the ablest after dinner speakers in the country will address the members of the Newark Chamber of Commerce at their Spring Dinner on April 24th next, according to an announcement from officials of the organization Monday.

The visit of Dr. Cattell will be one of the high points in the history of the Chamber here, and it is expected that an overflow will be present to hear him. The dinner committee is busy arranging a supporting program for the evening and indications point to one of the best business men's dinners ever given in Newark.

"Will" White Coming
"Will" White, Song Leader for Delaware will be here with songs, good cheer and Harmonica.

Other surprises of talents—artists and vaudeville are in secret councils of the Committee.

Tickets for the occasion were placed on sale today by Chairman Heim and will be in the hands of himself and the members of the committee, J. E. Dougherty, W. H. Evans, T. R. Dantz and Fred W. Stierle. The dinner will be held in the Commons of Old College Hall and will start promptly at 6.30 o'clock.

Cattell An Able Man

THE POST is fortunate in receiving a sketch of Dr. Cattell for this week's issue. It is written by George Morgan active alumnus of old Delaware College, and a true friend of many Newark people. Mr. Morgan is at present Sunday editor of the Philadelphia "Record." He writes thus of E. J. Cattell:

"Newark will welcome a man after its own heart when it greets Edward James Cattell. As a wit he is a wonder; as a skilled enlivener of facts and figures he is a pastmaster; as a 'presence' he is a half-dozen Delaware granddaddies rolled into one. He is Benny Biggs and Chancellor Saulsbury put together, and now come back to life; and there is no spell-binder like him. The only thing lacking about Dr. Cattell is that he was born in the wrong State. Nature intended him to be a Delawarean; by a freak of fate, he became, December 8, 1856, a Philadelphian.

TOWN COUNCIL REFUSES PERMITS TO ERECT GAS PUMPS ON PAVEMENT LINES

The chief item of importance at an otherwise quiet meeting of Town Council Monday evening was the reopening of the question of allowing local merchants to erect gasoline pumping stations in front of their business houses.

George Singles, of East Main Street, who had been refused a permit recently, appeared before the Councilmen and petitioned for a reconsideration of his case. Among the arguments advanced was that gasoline cannot be purchased anywhere on the south side of Main Street. It was also pointed out that the Hearn Oil Co. of Wilmington is contemplating building a filling station on their property next to Renshaw's ice house, just back from the street. In all, five applications were made to Council for gas pumps within the past few weeks.

On motion of Councilman Colmery, the matter was settled when Council voted unanimously to refuse permits for any gasoline pumping station of any style to be erected on the town's streets, unless it be placed twelve feet back of the paving line. Both Mr. Singles and Henry F. Mote, another applicant, were consequently barred from erecting pumps at the points they designated, but it is thought that the Hearn Oil Co. will resume their plans for building at the required distance from the pavement.

Council at the same meeting also unanimously refused to donate funds to the Newark baseball team which has entered the County League this season. The matter was brought before the body by the Mayor, upon his being approached by an officer of the baseball organization.

LATE ELKTON NEWS

Fire in Howard Hotel Yesterday Morning; Little Damage Done

A fire, starting in the basement pool room of the Howard Hotel in Elkton, yesterday morning, about 2.30, caused some concern among the guests and management for a few minutes. Little damage was done, due to quick work by volunteer firemen.

One of the Huber Baking Co. trucks, serving Elkton and vicinity, was wrecked this morning about 7 o'clock, within a few hundred yards of the Iron Hill cross roads. The witnesses say the truck struck a pole, careened over to the side of the road, jumped a hedge and landed on its side in a field. The driver was not seriously hurt.

DELEGATE LIST NOT AVAILABLE TO-DAY

At 2 o'clock today, the County Committee met to pass on the list of names filed as candidates for delegates to the Republican State Convention. Inquiry made there for those filing from White Clay Hundred was without results. The Committee is reported as swamped with lists both in the City and in some sections of Rural New Castle.

Inquiries, consistently and honestly made here brought nothing but rumors—and THE POST, while young in political observations, is suspicious of Political Rumors. They often furnish ideas of the location of the trail but are inadequate and inaccurate charts of information and direct routes.

We have heard of several names but nothing with authority of Hundred Committee making it impossible to publish the list until announced officially by the County Committee.

4.30 P. M.—County Committee still in session. Report from chairman at 4.30 o'clock said the Committee was only half through the list and continuing in session.

BOWLING RECORD BROKEN

Charles Tasker is no wite crowned bowling champion of the Aetna Fire House here. Both he and Prof. H. E. Tiffany passed the former record of 181, held by Morris Ewing last week. Prof. Tiffany bowled 184 one evening, only to be displaced by Tasker a few days later, when the latter rolled a beautiful 187. Competition among the firemen is very keen and the alleys are crowded every evening.

Newark Man Critically Hurt In Fall From Auto

Linwood Wilson in Delaware Hospital With Fractured Skull Following Accident Monday

Linwood Wilson, colored, of Newark, suffered a fractured skull as the result of a fall from the running board of an automobile a few yards south of the College Library here, Monday afternoon. He is lying in a critical condition in the Delaware Hospital.

The accident occurred shortly before five o'clock and was witnessed by a number of passers by.

Wilson was riding on the step of a small Ford car, owned and driven by John O. Phelps, of Wilmington. Phelps and Wilson are both employed on the new Library operation here and were returning from the day's work. Phelps testified to witnesses that he had asked Wilson, who is a heavy man, to get off the running board when the car left the new Library, but Wilson jokingly remarked that he could stay on until they reached Main Street.

When within a few yards of his destination, the top "bow," by means of which Wilson was keeping his precarious position, broke and the unfortunate man fell backward to the street. Several people went to his assistance, and found him unconscious with blood flowing from his ears and from a crushed spot at the back of the head. He was placed in a passing car and rushed to the hospital at once. The surgeons there immediately operated. Wilson had not regained consciousness up to a late hour last night.

Immediately after the accident, Phelps appeared at Magistrate Thompson's office, and submitted his name and car identification. Several witnesses of the accident aver that Phelps was in no wise to blame, as he had warned Wilson that it was not safe to ride on car step.

Wilson is about twenty-five years old and a resident of New London Avenue. He formerly worked for A. C. Stiltz on the moving van, and was well known among the residents of the town.

Later inquiries at the hospital revealed that the patient's condition remained unchanged. His recovery is doubtful.

STUDENT ASSEMBLY HEARS OF JEFFERSON

Dean Robinson and Several Students Speak on Great American Yesterday

The weekly student assembly in Wolf Hall yesterday morning was devoted exclusively to the memory of Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, and one of the great Americans of history. The affair marked Delaware's participation in Jefferson Week, now going on throughout the country. Dr. E. B. Crooks presided at the student meeting.

Dean Winifred J. Robinson headed the list of five minute speakers during the hour's program. Her remarks were well chosen and in them she urged a more close study of the great men of the early United States. Numbered among the student speakers were Paul Binard, Miss Louise Jackson and Clifford A. Smith.

MOVING HEISER HOUSE

The strange spectacle of a full size two and a half story house being gently moved along the ground on rollers has absorbed the attention of many Main Street strollers during the early part of the week. The Heiser house, recently purchased from the University by William P. Wollaston, is being moved to its new site along Delaware Avenue. The work is in charge of George Moore. No accidents have thus far marked the moving.

MISS SNYDER HONORED

Miss Agnes Snyder, formerly of the Women's College but now engaged in psychological research at Johns Hopkins University, has been granted a fellowship of $1,000 by the Pi Lambda Theta Fraternity. She will continue her work at Johns Hopkins University.

Colonel John D. Markey, of the First Regiment, N. G. M., and Captain Johns of the Regular Army, paid a visit of inspection to the Company E Armory in Elkton this week. They found the splendid building in good condition, but the company itself not up to required strength.

For several months, the officials of the Elkton Company under the leadership of Lieut. Russell George have been bending every effort to obtain recruits and build up the organization, but as the enlistments run out the men drop off the rolls and do not care to re-enlist. Just what the future disposition of the Elkton company will be is still a problem. Several business men and organizations about the town are said to be supporting an effort to keep the company intact.

RUINED HOME WAS INTERESTING LANDMARK

The fire which almost caught three aged people near Elkton Sunday, destroyed one of the finest old homes in Cecil County. It was called "Cedar Vale," and was erected prior to 1800.

The house was constructed of logs, with beautiful paneling in the dining room. The doors had wooden latches with leather "latch-strings." A stone building adjoining had the roof burned off. This building was used by a number of Elkton residents during the War of 1812 to store household furniture when the British were coming up Elk River.

Over $4000 Subscribed by Elkton M. E. Congregation For Mitchell Property

At the Sunday service held in the Elkton Methodist Episcopal Church, subscriptions were taken towards paying for the Mitchell property, recently purchased for $11,000 for a community house and playground. As a beginning $4,665.50 was subscribed toward paying for the building.

Another canvass will be made among the members of the church who were absent owing to the inclement weather on Sunday. The members of the church will devise other means to complete raising the required amount.

FERTILIZERS HELP PEACHES

The application of fertilizers high in ammonia (nitrogen), to peaches has proven so profitable in Missouri, that the practice has become quite general in that state. Winter injury is one of the serious detriments to peach growing and fertilizers have shown a distinct tendency to increase the hardness of the trees. The importance of this may be gathered from the fact that in some parts of the State, winter injury is so severe that a crop is not looked for more than once in three or four years.

Who Knows?

I have a profound respect for boys. Grimy, ragged, tousled boys in the street often attract me strangely.

A boy is a man in the cocoon—you do not know what it is going to become—his life is big with many possibilities.

He may make or unmake kings, change boundary lines between states, write books that will mold characters, or invent machines that will revolutionize the commerce of the world.

Every man was once a boy. I trust I shall not be contradicted; it is really so.

Very distinctly and vividly I remember a slim, freckled boy; who was born in the "Patch," and used to pick up coal along the railroad tracks in Buffalo. A few months ago I had a motion to make before the Supreme Court, and the boy from the "Patch" was the judge who wrote the opinion granting my petition.

Yesterday I rode horseback past a field where a boy was plowing. The lad's hair stuck out through the top of his hat; his form was bony and awkward; one suspender held his trousers in place; his bare legs and arms were brown and sunburned and briar-scarred.

He swung his horses around just as I passed by, and from under the flapping brim of his hat he cast a quick glance out of the dark, half bashful eyes and modestly returned my salute. His back turned, I took off my hat and sent a God-bless-you down the furrow after him. Who knows?—I may go to that boy to borrow money, or to hear him preach, or to beg him to defend me in a lawsuit; or he may stand with pulse unshaken, bare of arm, in white apron, ready to do his duty, while the cone is placed over my face, and Night and Death come creeping into my veins.

Be patient with the boys—you are dealing with soulstuff. Destiny awaits just around the corner. Be patient with the boys!

DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL TIMBER LISTED

In an Effort to Outguess The New York Convention
(Frank R. Kent in the Baltimore Sun)

GRIEVOUS OMISSION OF BAYARD AND SAULSBURY

Bayard—Unavailable because suggestion came from London—necktie complications.
Saulsbury—Been tried once, and Marvel-ous objections locally.

One thing reasonably clear about Democratic Presidential material is that some man among "those mentioned" must be nominated.

There is slight chance the field will be broadened. No new names will be sprung on the convention. The woods have been combed for available candidates and they are all listed. One of them is going to be nominated.

The ideal selection, of course, would be a man of integrity, ability and reputation who clashes with none of the popular prejudices and has no flaw of record which, reasonably or unreasonably, weighs against him.

There is none such available. Every man mentioned, whatever his assets, has certain more or less substantial liabilities from the political angle. What it comes down to is that the Democrats will be unable to find a single candidate wholly free from objection on some ground or from some quarter. Yet one of them has to be named.

The thing gets to be a joke. In the light of the "objections" one of the easiest things in the world is to eliminate any man on the list with a simple stroke of the pen. It is an illuminating experience to get into a group of Democrats discussing candidates and hear them throw one after the other into the discard.

It may be interesting to give the full list of possibilities—some of them very remote indeed, together with the "reasons" advanced why each is unavailable. This does not come from Democrats who are for one particular candidate and, therefore, ready with reasons against the others, but represents the thought of detached Democrats anxious to win. Here they are:

John W. Davis—His clients are too rich.

Oscar W. Underwood—Too far South, too wet, too anti-labor.

Senator Samuel M. Ralston, of Indiana—Too old.

William G. McAdoo—Sprinkled with oil and opposed by the business interests.

Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York—A political lightweight and a newspaper doctor.

Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia—An able but unadvertised Southerner with a testy temper.

Governor Jonathan Davis, of Kansas—Merely a local Kansan who got to be Governor.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson—He is from Arkansas.

Mayor William E. Dever, of Chicago—A Catholic.

Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York—A wet Catholic.

Homer Cummings, of Connecticut—No record, except he was once chairman of the National Committee.

Gov. Charles W. Bryan, of Nebraska—Brother of W. J. Bryan and an echo.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie—Too wet and from too small a State.

James M. Cox, of Ohio—Defeated by 7,000,000 majority.

Senator A. O. Stanley, of Kentucky—Too wet and too little known.

Cordell Hull, of Tennessee—A Southerner with a local reputation.

John Barton Payne, of Illinois—No local support, and no other support either.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana—A Catholic.

Governor Sweet, of Colorado—A local lightweight spoken well of by Col. E. M. House.

Governor Neff, of Texas—Not big enough to be seriously discussed.

Senator James A. Reed—Rejected by his own State of Missouri.

Joseph Daniels—Impossible. That is the list, but, unless all precedents are broken, some one on it will be nominated.

It does seem the sensible thing for Democrats to pick the best man, regardless of the "objection" to him, and let his assets offset his liability. That would be the sensible thing to do—but one of the great assets of the Republicans is the singular and consistent inability of the Democrats to do the sensible thing more than once every decade or so.

But they are about due this time.

Mrs. Samuel J. Smith Dead At Home Here

Provide Military Escort for Coffin of Former Army Chaplain's Wife

Minnie E., wife of Lt. Col. Samuel Smith, U. S. A., retired, of Newark, died at her home on Depot Road Monday morning, following a serious illness resulting from a series of strokes suffered within the past few months. Col. Smith and their only son, Artisan Smith, were at the bedside when death came. She was sixty years old.

A simple and dignified service was conducted by Chaplain D. H. Southard, 1st Eng., Ft. Dupont, Delaware, Reverend Frank Herson, pastor of the local Methodist Church, and Dr. E. B. Crooks, of the University of Delaware.

Many local people, who became fast friends with the deceased during her short residence here, attended the simple ceremonies.

The body was sent to Amsterdam, N. Y., for interment from the B. and O. Station here this morning. The transferring of the coffin from the house to the hearse and again from the hearse to the train platform was in charge of a military escort, composed of the officers and enlisted men attached to the R. O. T. C. Corps of the University. They are Major Lathe B. Row, Captain William P. Morse, Captain Roy Sparks, and Sergeants Prazer, Greene and Davis. Small pieces of mourning were draped across the sabres and side arms of the escort.

Col. and Mrs. Smith moved here from Virginia early last Fall, immediately after his retirement from the Army. They were well acquainted with the town, their son, Artisan, having been a graduate from Delaware College.

Both became interested in civic, Masonic and social affairs of the town and enjoyed scores of newly made friends. Mrs. Smith was exceptionally well liked by all who met her, and her residence here had all prospects of being a very pleasant one. During the past few weeks, her condition had become serious and, although she occasionally rallied, her strength became greatly exhausted, and it was only a question of days until the end should come.

Mrs. Smith was born February 11th, 1864, at Pownal, Vermont. She and Colonel Smith were married at Amsterdam, N. Y., December 25th, 1886. She is survived by her husband and one son, Artisan, of the class of 1913, Univ. of Del., by a sister, Mrs. Charles Thomas, of Schenectady, N. Y., and by a brother, Louis Atzroth, of Delanson, N. Y.

E. J. CATTELL SPEAKS AT DINNER

"It cannot be said that he was City Statistician at that time; nor is he now; yet all speak of him as such. His father was Elijah G., and his mother Catherine Hardy Cattell, and they saw to it that Edward James got good schooling in the home country and in England and Germany as well. Temple University, June 1917, gave him his D. Sc. degree. It will be observed that it took three countries to educate Dr. Cattell; but not all the countries combined have been able to get him married. Traveling for ten years and living in many lands, he has eluded more matrimonial traps and snares than any other distinguished American.

"As an editor and writer on commercial topics, Dr. Cattell has been long before the public.

"For 22 years, until July 17, 1922, he served Philadelphia as its City Statistician; and on that date became affiliated with the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce. While city boosted, he made 22,000 speeches—all good.

"I have been making speeches ever since I was a boy a hundred years ago," said he the other day. "I have even been known to talk in my sleep. Sometimes the audiences have been tolerant and sometimes indulgent, but in less charitable circles they have proven the efficacy of carrots for other than eating purposes by actual demonstration."

"The fact is," writes one who knows him, "that Edward James Cattell—he refuses to be called Doctor Cattell in spite of the fact that at least a half dozen universities have given him the right—is one of the most enthusiastically applauded orators in America. At more than one banquet he has been carried about on the shoulders of the diners, like a football hero after a Thanksgiving Day contest. To enumerate all of the organizations that have elected him honorary member after hearing him speak would be a usurpation of space in the columns of The Post that should be devoted to the laudation of Newark."

"All hail to a man who is as brainy as he is bald; as silver-haired as he is silver-tongued!"

"Good Roads, Flowers, Parks, Better Schools, Trees, Pure Water, Fresh Air, Sunshine and Work for Everybody."

OPEN SEASON FOR POLITICS; LAW OUT TO-DAY

Claringbold Rumored as Candidate For Levy Court

This week marks the beginning of the Open Season for Politics. All winter Old Trapper Politicians have been discussing old campaigns, looking over trails of other hunts and cleaning up guns and tackle. Gunning Parties, private and public, have been arranged, so from now on we shall see the various catches and trophies of these Political sports and sportsmen. At 12 o'clock noon today, the law is out. The season opens with the filing of candidates for delegates to the State Republican Convention on April 22—Primaries April 19th.

The first name heard as candidate for local office this fall is Thomas Claringbold, who is understood to be a candidate for Levy Court from this District. Mr. Claringbold is now living in Mill Creek Hundred but will probably move into the district before the legal date for filing his name.

COUNCIL TAKES IT EASY AT MEETING

Little Business Brought Before Town Government

Little business of importance, other than the action on gasoline filling stations, mentioned in another column, came before Town Council at their regular April meeting Monday evening.

The secretary reported $3264.20 in the treasury on April 1st.

The milk report for March was read and approved by Council, together with the Alderman's report, showing fines to the amount of $20 collected during the month.

The report of the finances of the town of Newark were ordered approved and the auditor George W. Rhodes and Franklin Anderson, relieved from duty. The complete report will be found in another column of The Post this week.

After disposing of minor business matters, Council adjourned.

SIGNS OF SMOKE

If you see smoke on the Political Horizon, you can be sure it is either a Camp or a Still—and the better part of valor to approach cautiously. Better to get a gun and raid.

URGE BONDING OF STATE FOR SCHOOLS

in many instances the original buildings erected still serve. Two generations have built few new school buildings; hence the burden falls on this generation. Bonding the State for ten million dollars, Dr. Cooper stated, will supply new school-buildings in every district, and equip them properly.

AUTHORITIES DEAD-LOCKED ON POST OFFICE

the money coming from?" From general street comment, the situation is—1st, that the Government will hold its present lot, which does not meet with the approval of the University authorities, or 2nd—That the proposed trade approved by Council, for a lot on Delaware Avenue, will be consummated, which does not meet with general approval in the town.

If the question of the site were left to a vote of the people, which of course is impossible, the one Federal building of Newark would probably be placed on Main Street in the center of the business section, according to the policies of other towns and cities.

Most important of all, relative to the situation here at present, is the necessity for a new site or a new building, but just sufficient space for a Postmaster to conduct a reasonable and rather important piece of business, to which the present quarters are inadequate. Government post authorities or whoever is responsible are very derelict in their public duty in not effecting such change as Newark is suffering in this respect from an epidemic of ill-wrapped patience.

"LADY OF SHALOTT"

Women's College Glee Club Gives Concert in Wolf Hall

Despite the fact that only a small crowd was in attendance, the Spring Concert given by the Women's College Glee Club in Wolf Hall on Friday evening last was a distinct success.

The feature number on the program was a cantata, "The Lady of Shalott," which combined some splendid chorus as well as solo work. The assisting soloists were Mrs. Mary Breame Seasholtz, Miss Eleanor Vineyard, and Miss Mildred Tolson. Miss Dora Wilcox directed the cantata.

During the early part of the evening's program, the newly organized Ukelele Club rendered several selections under the direction of their leader, Miss Martha Barrow. In addition Misses Katherine Krause and Marthe Charbonneau played piano solos, and Mrs. Seasholtz sang.

The members of the Glee Club are: First Soprano—Margaret E. Ellis, Amy G. Lloyd, Mary B. Seasholtz, Eleanor Vineyard, President; Tacy F. Hurst, Eleanor A. Jones, Frances Worthington.

NEW CENTURY CLUB

Postponed Meeting Held Yesterday Afternoon

The Newark New Century Club held its postponed regular meeting in the Club House, on Tuesday afternoon, April 8th, at 2.30.

There was a business meeting, after which Mrs. Lasher played two piano solos, a "Arpeggio Study," by a pupil of Liszt, and "Study for Left Hand," by Leshetzky, and an encore.

Dr. Patterson, of the University of Delaware, gave a delightfully interesting talk on his travels through certain places in South America.

The attention of the members is particularly called to the date of the next meeting, which will be April 15th, it being the regular time for the club meeting.

FIRST HOME MUSICAL WELL ATTENDED

The first home musicale, under the auspices of the Newark Music Society, was given last evening in the home of Mayor Eben B. Frazer, on West Main Street.

About fifty members of the Society were present to enjoy the affair.

The artists who entertained were Miss Anne Lois Ritz, soprano; Miss Dora Wilcox, piano; and Orville W. Mosher, Jr., violin. All three are Newark people and their playing and singing was a delight to their hearers. It is believed that the "home musical" idea will be continued throughout the year. Judging from the enthusiasm last night, the novel form of entertainment has taken a firm hold upon music lovers of the community.

HOCKESSIN GRANGE IN 50th ANNIVERSARY

State Masters Address Over 200 Members at Meeting Monday Night

The fiftieth anniversary of Hockessin Grange No. 4, was celebrated in Grange Hall Monday night. About 200 Grangers were in attendance. Robert P. Robinson, Master of Delaware State Grange, and John A. McSparran, Master of Pennsylvania State Grange, made addresses. Frank F. Yearsley, Worthy Master of Hockessin Grange, presided and delivered the address of welcome. Mr. Yearsley in his address told something of the founding of Hockessin Grange. The first master of the Grange was Chandler Lamborn and the first secretary was Lewis Derickson. Big Business

A real estate man was plainly worried, and his wife asked him to tell her about the deal. It seems that he had it fixed up to sell a man a loft building, a marble yard, with dock privileges; a factory site and a summer garden and to take in part payment a block of frame tenements, a small subdivision, an abandoned lime kiln and a farm.

"He assumes a $20,000 mortgage on the loft building," explained the real estate man, "and I take over a second mortgage on the subdivision. Get me?" "I guess I get you," responded his wife. "But what is the hitch about?" "Well, I want $4 in cash."—Pittsburgh Sun.

SCHOOL

The little crossroads schoolhouse held only a score of pupils. In case of fire, exit was easy for all.

Today our schools literally turn away pupils, often working many classes in morning and afternoon shifts. Despite constant fire drills we frequently have appalling disasters from such crowded buildings. Suppose one of the victims was your child.

A school building of concrete being fireproof is not only safe for children, but also safe for the taxpayer's money—for it is permanent. And in first cost it is but 6% more than one of impermanent materials. Ask your building material dealer to demonstrate to you what is true building economy. He knows.

BY WAY OF EXPLANATION

Plant food makes the fertilizer. In other words, fertilizer is important largely for the plant food it contains. Thus, it has become the custom to speak of a fertilizer as a "2-12-2" or a "4-8-4," referring to the proportion of plant food it carries. Doubtless there are few, outside of the wholly uninitiated, who do not already know that fact. Still it may be helpful to state again that in the symbol, for example, "2-12-2," the first figure designates the per cent of ammonia, the second the per cent of phosphoric acid, and the third the per cent of potash, in the fertilizer.

Permanent Economy

You expect to live a long time in your home. For this reason the heating system should be purchased with a thought to its lasting qualities.

Stoves, of course, are not satisfactory; because they, like other antiquated heating methods, are hard to regulate and are therefore wasteful of fuel. Steam, hot water or vapor heating systems are built and installed with the knowledge that they are a permanent part of the building's equipment. Years of satisfactory service and economy make them the ideal method of heating any building—large or small.

Radiator heat is easy to control. Fuel waste, through over-heating need never happen. The fuel saved, through long years of service from radiator heating systems, amounts to much more than they cost.

We will plan economical radiator heat for any building or residence—gladly.

A phone call or post card will bring you prompt, competent attention.

AN APPRECIATION OF DELAWARE CONSTITUTION AS VIEWED BY A MARYLAND AUTHORITY

Had it not been for the patriotic and statesmanlike ability of the sons of Delaware, the Constitution of the United States would not be the reality it is today. More, it is doubtful if July 4th could be celebrated as a national holiday were it not for the will to conquer physical suffering of the most excruciating kind for the sake of his country.

We have all heard of the famous midnight ride of Paul Revere. The story has been so dramatically told that we can follow him in imagination urging his steed on and on and arousing the countryside with his cry, "The British are coming!" We can see the embattled farmers leaving their homes and gathering on the commons at Lexington, preparing to fire their shot heard around the world. This is the fruit of the efforts of one patriot, Paul Revere. The people of Massachusetts and the people of America are proud of his patriotic deed. His name is inscribed among the immortals.

Has Delaware a son who in this historic time can claim an equal place in history? Let us see. A year and three months have passed since Paul Revere's ride. The conflict has thickened and more blood has been shed. Many of the Colonies are urging that these United States; that a Declaration of Independence ought to proclaim to the world that the American people are sovereign of their own fate. But there is hesitation and doubt among many of the Colonists. Reconciliation with England is the way out such Colonists are saying. Time is not propitious to engage in strife with another country. We shall all hang if we attempt revolutionary measures. He who signs the proposed Declaration of Independence does so with the halter about his neck.

Delaware is represented at a gathering of patriots in Independence Hall in early July, 1776, by Thomas McKean, George Reed and Caesar Rodney. Reed, although a fearless and able man, was at first openly opposed to the adoption of the Declaration. He insists that the time has not come for such action. McKean is for "stop talking and act." It looks as though his efforts will be parried by Reed for Rodney is mortally sick in bed. If only Rodney could come to the Convention, for he will sign the Declaration of Independence. But Independence Hall is eighty miles away. Rodney lay stricken with a fatal malady and a wild storm makes the possibility of his being at the Convention seem humanly impossible. But "stop talking and act" McKean, knowing the stuff out of which Rodney is made, sends a secret messenger to the afflicted man telling him of the split in the Delaware unit. Rodney arises from what is considered his deathbed and mounting his horse, although suffering with fever, he rides through the mud and rain, spurring his horse on until, just as the name of Delaware is being called in the Hall of Congress, he arrives in time to exclaim, "I vote Yes!" and then sinks exhausted. All Delaware delegates sign.

The ride of Paul Revere of twenty miles has a rightful place in history. But what of the ride of that brave son of Delaware who made the Colonies a unit for independence and the Declaration of Independence the voice of the people? It is a noble thing to inform the people that the oppressor is coming. But what shall be said of him who risks his life to "pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor" to do the actual resisting?

The Constitution, we all know, is the most wonderful work ever struck off at a given time by the brain and purpose of man. It is based upon principles that are eternal. The enviable distinction of being the first State to publicly acknowledge these facts belongs to the people of Delaware. Delaware is in a very real sense the first State of the United States. Her people blazed the way for the others to follow.

And why shouldn't she? Her sons took a very prominent part in framing this immortal instrument. There is some confusion in the minds of some of our citizens in regard to the facts of the framing and adoption of the Constitution. Many believe that the Constitution is the work of a few men—Madison, of Virginia, and Alexander Hamilton, of New York. But this is not true. The sons of Delaware played an important and indispensable part in the deliberation of the Constitutional Convention.

We all know that the most formidable of the many rocks on which the Federal Convention all but broke was the question of representation in the new National Government set up by the Constitution. For weeks, failure to find a solution for this problem threatened to dissolve the Federal Convention without accomplishing anything. Anarchy and ruin were to be the lot of our forefathers. Yet, in the suggestion made early in the Convention by a son of Delaware, John Dickinson, the way out was found. As early as June 2nd, the first week of the Convention, he proposed that representatives to Congress be elected by the people and the Senate chosen by State legislatures. Dickinson's influence in the Convention was very great. Being a scholar and a man of very extensive information, indeed, being famed throughout all America for the Farmers Letters, he was always paid the greatest attention whenever he spoke. It was the ability of such men as Dickinson to see clearly that experience must be the guide, for "reason may mislead us," which made it possible for the Constitution to be founded upon principles that are eternal.

So too, George Reed, who, as pointed out, at first thought the time had not come for such action as set forth in the Declaration of Independence, was in the work of the Constitutional Convention a leader of first importance. He was among the few who from the very beginning saw clearly that unless the delegates established a good government on principles different from the Articles of Confederation, notwithstanding their instructions, the country would go to ruin or would summons another convention to do the work all over again. Such a clear-sighted and fearless presentation of the truth in the early stages of the Convention was most remarkable, especially when we know that the Legislature of Delaware had instructed her delegates not to vote for any provision altering that part of the articles of Confederation giving each State one vote in Congress. With the possible exceptions found among the delegates from Delaware, none of the delegates from the smaller States were willing to entertain, at first, any plan which did not give their State an equal vote. Had not the delegates from the other States been willing to compromise as the sons of Delaware were, the effect would have been a breaking up of the Constitutional Convention.

Another delegate from Delaware, Bedford, was conspicuous in the Convention. He was a bold speaker with a very commanding and striking manner, and led the fight for the rights of the smaller States. He brought the Convention face to face with reality when he told the delegates from the larger States that unless they were willing to treat the smaller States fairly, the smaller States would be taken in hand by foreign powers.

The remaining delegates, Bassett and Broom, played their part in the Convention but not as conspicuously as the other three. All, however, were able and courageous enough to see that the Constitution had set up a political system in which the few could not be dominated by the many, or the many by the few. In fact, the political system established is such that every citizen, whether in a large or small State, can find protection against the arbitrary acts of any individual or group of individuals, or even the Government itself. The vital thread running through it all is that no one shall do to another what he would not have done to himself. The Constitution is the Golden Rule of the civilized man.

The delegates from Delaware felt justified therefore, in violating their instructions by signing the Constitution, for they knew full well that the people of Delaware would approve and endorse their act. It seems hardly possible that any one of them had expected Delaware to so promptly ratify what they did as to become the first State of the Union. When the great crisis of Civil War came upon the country to decide whether this Nation shall live under the Constitution, the sons of Delaware were found standing firm by it and Abraham Lincoln.

By historic right, then, the sons and daughters of Delaware stand close to the sacred altar of pure Americanism. They are in a peculiar and distinctive sense the first trustees of the "faith of our fathers." They have never broken faith. They have the right to be the first to restrain any profane hand that would destroy the political edifice of liberty our forefathers so firmly erected upon this land.

American citizens are again being called upon to stand for the Constitution. Again the sons and daughters of Delaware are to take the lead in this vital movement.

Rodney, Dickinson, Reed and the other early leaders call upon every child of Delaware to defend that which it has taken so much of sacrifice to secure. This defense is the spreading of an intelligent and accurate understanding of the Constitution. To make this possible, arrangements have been made to enable schools, clubs, churches and citizens in general, easily and without cost to obtain pamphlets written by present day defenders of our Constitution. These pamphlets are written in plain and simple language. They bring to all citizens such an understanding of our Constitution and of the polity set up by it, as explains why this country has become the sanctuary for all the oppressed people of the world and a haven of joy for all of us.

These pamphlets can be obtained wherever signs to that effect appear in stores, schools, churches or other places. There is no charge for these pamphlets. Those who would cooperate in their distribution, have but to address their communications to the Editor of this paper to receive full instructions and directions. There is no charge in any way, shape and form, connected with the work. Individuals can help in the distribution by, after reading a pamphlet, passing it on to some one else and asking them to pass it on to some one else.

Delaware never fails to do what it undertakes to do. And again Delaware is to declare itself for the Constitution and all that it implies.

SCOUT NEWS

A friend of the Boy Scouts has had designed and printed for the local Scouts a handsome and useful little book of the "Constitution of America." This book, a copy of which every Scout received, is appreciated not only for its value, but also for the feeling which prompted the donor.

The meeting last Thursday was given solely to Scout Tests, as is the first Thursday of every month. Several Scouts passed Semaphore Signalling, others Thrift, Judging, Nature Study, etc. The Nature hike was postponed because of unfit weather conditions, and because Assistant Scoutmaster Houghton was ill. Professor Houghton said that it would not be advisable to take the hike for sometime yet, as Spring has had a serious setback by the recent storm. Anyhow, with the woods in their present condition, all we would get would be wet feet. However, we intend to go as soon as possible.—Scribe.

"GYM" MEET SATURDAY

Under the direction of Miss May Pruegger, the girls of the Women's College will give their annual exhibition of indoor gymnastics at the Armory here on Saturday evening next. Marching, wand and club drills, folk dances and interclass competition on gymnasium apparatus will feature the exhibition.

HIGH BALL TOSSERS WORK

Under the tutelage of Coach Robert Elder, himself a former player at Penn State, the Newark High School baseball squad started intensive practice this week. The material is up to par and a strong team is anticipated by followers of the school boys.

Program of Work of New Castle County Extension Service Outlined for 1924

The following outline of work planned for the year 1924 by the Extension Service here will be presented to the Executive Committee of the Farm Bureau at their meeting in Wilmington next Saturday afternoon.

The outline should be of particular interest to the farmers of the county and is herewith published in full by permission of the Extension Department.

I. METHODS OF EXTENDING PROGRAM

1. Cooperative Programs

A cooperative program of work has been established with all the organizations of the county of an agricultural nature and those interested in agriculture. It is the desire that these programs be made more effective through closer relations with these organizations so long as it does not jeopardize the policies of the Extension Service.

2. Motion Pictures

The motion picture has proven to be an effective medium of extending to the farmers the various phases of the program of work. Extensive use will be made of this medium during the fiscal year.

3. Publicity

(a) Pictorial publicity. The pictorial report recently prepared has proven to be a good form of publicity. Pictures will play an important part in supplementing publicity for the year.

(b) News articles in the county dailies and weeklies have been a most effective medium of publicity. The use of these organs will be continued.

II. DAIRYING

As dairying is one of the major agricultural industries in the county the county Extension Service has considered it policy to carry on several projects bearing on the economic status of the industry. The most important of these follow:

1. Junior Dairy Cattle Club.
2. Junior Dairy Cattle Judging Team.
3. Pure bred bull campaign.
4. Annual assignment sale.
5. Annual auto tour.
6. Cow Testing Associations.

These projects will be continued along similar lines during the year 1924. To these six projects, however, will be added the seventh, "Improved Quality of Milk." This work will be conducted in cooperation with the Inter-State Dairy Council.

III. FARM CROPS

Due to the varying topography of the soil and to the Wilmington curb market, the cropping system in the county is quite diversified. The following demonstrations and projects will have a bearing upon the most important problems relating to growing feed for the dairy herds and general crop culture:

1. Potato demonstrations: A series of demonstrations showing the value of certified seed over the home grown seed and determining the varieties best suited to our different soil types. Attention will also be given to the value of spraying. The Extension Service is rendering a service in advising with the committee in charge of the certified seed potato pool relative to proper varieties and quality of potatoes.
2. Automobile potato tour.
3. Corn Show. The annual county corn show has been an impetus in the growing of higher yielding strains of corn.
4. Japan clover demonstrations. Japan clover as a pasture crop has not as yet demonstrated its practicality in this county. However, the conditions have been adverse and the demonstrations will be continued.
5. Sweet clover demonstrations. One of our outstanding problems is growing pasture crops for dairy cattle, especially in the southern part of the county. A demonstration will be arranged using sweet clover with oats. The oats furnish early pasture and the clover should be coming on when the oats is gone.
6. Soy beans are past the demonstration stage as a hay crop. The Extension Service, however, advises with the committee in charge of the soy bean pool relative to sources of beans of proper variety and quality.

IV. HORTICULTURE

One home orchard demonstration will be conducted.

V. SOIL FERTILITY

Wheat fertilizer demonstration. A series of demonstrations covering fertilizers for wheat conducted in the State of Pennsylvania suggest some economic factors which may be applicable to conditions in Delaware. To determine this demonstrations have been arranged on two farms, one Sassafras type of soil, and the Other Chester Loam type of soil. The purpose of the demonstrations is to compare the economic value of a complete fertilizer such as a 2-12-4 fertilizer on soil which received manure in the rotation as against straight acid phosphate under the same conditions. Plots in each demonstration will receive applications of the following fertilizers: 350 lbs. of 0-15-5 (check), 350 lbs. of 2-12-4, 200 lbs. of 16% acid phosphate, 300 lbs. of 16% acid phosphate.

VI. FARM MANAGEMENT

1. Farm Loans. To encourage our farmers in taking advantage of loans through the Federal Farm Loan Banks.

2. Farm Tenancy. To collect farm tenancy agreements which have proven themselves of value. These agreements will be made available for study of landlords and tenants interested in a better system.

VII. MARKETING

1. Milk. To make a study of a marketing organization for milk which will best serve the milk producers of the county especially those in the northern part.

2. Grain. Marketing grain is a project of state-wide importance. Delaware produces an average of 1 1/2 million bushels of wheat per year and six million bushels of corn. Although much of the corn is fed on the farms, yet a large volume finds a market outside the state. The value of the annual wheat and corn crop exceeds by a wide margin that of any other two crops produced in the state, yet probably less progress has been made in developing a rational system of marketing grain than any other of our farm crops. "A study of the factors influencing the grades of wheat and their influence upon a more rational system of marketing the Delaware wheat crop," is one of the important projects of the 1924 program.

The project has been divided into two phases. The first has been outlined with the thought of making a study of the individual farmer's problems in producing and marketing wheat. Seventy samples of wheat were taken, for the most part from cars ready to be billed for the terminal market. These cars represented individual crops and samples were taken from cars at each of the main shipping points of the state. It is the idea that these samples be representative of the wheat crop of the state for the year 1923. Grading analyses of these 70 samples show that the individual farmer's problem resolves itself into two parts, first, one of production; second, one of marketing. The high percentage of samples the grade of which his affected by weight per bushel indicates that there is much educational work to be done in the seeding of selected varieties of wheat and the use of more balanced fertilizers. The fact that the large majority of the samples carried enough garlic bulbets to make them grade "heavy garlicky," and the high percentage of samples the grade of which was affected by foreign material, mostly corn cobs, no appreciable amount of which can be removed by cleaning machinery, indicate that there is much to be done on the part of the individual farmer in the control of noxious weeds.

After grading, the 70 samples were cleaned by a local miller and the samples were then regraded. The object of this phase of the work is to determine with a greater degree of accuracy the value of an improved system of marketing wheat possibly through farmers' cooperative grain elevators located at the main shipping points. The fact that on the original grading the grades of practically 50 per cent of the samples were affected by moisture content demonstrated the value in this humid region of grain dryers operated in conjunction with grain elevators. At this early stage of the work it is safe to say that due to the cleaning operation that on the average the samples were improved at least one grade. There are many cases where the quality was raised from a No. 3 heavy garlicky to No. 1 light garlicky and not a few where the grade was raised from No. 4 heavy garlicky to No. 2 and even No. 1 light garlicky, adding a value to the crop of from 7 to 10 cents per bushel.

On the average 75 to 80 of the garlic bulbets were removed, often times changing the grade from heavy garlicky to light garlicky and occasionally eliminating all garlic bulbets. Removing a percentage of the garlic contents also improves weight per bushel. The discount on wheat with the word garlicky attached to grade averaged 11 cents on the Philadelphia Exchange in 1921. This discount is in addition to the regular grade discounts just mentioned. This work will be continued with the 1924 crop.

The purpose of the second phase of the work is to make a study of the grades of Delaware wheat under the actual commercial inspection system on the Philadelphia Grain Exchange. Information has been obtained from the railroads covering the car initials, car number, and point of origin of all the cars of wheat shipped out of the State during the years 1922 and 1923. This information will make it possible to secure from the office of Federal Grain Supervision at Philadelphia the inspection certificates of the cars of Delaware wheat. From these certificates a compilation will be made of the factor or factors which determined the grade of every car of wheat shipped out of the State during 1922 and '23. This phase of the work has only been begun, but it is evident from the data compiled covering on the month of July, 1922, that moisture content and weight per bushel are the two chief factors in limiting grades. Through proper marketing facilities moisture content can be controlled completely, and through proper marketing facilities and improved cultural methods weight per bushel can be materially improved.

NORTH EAST DRUGGIST SELLS TO WILMINGTON MAN

Dr. Vernon McKnight Reported To Be Moving to Elkton This Week

Dr. Vernon McKnight, prominent citizen of North East, has sold his drug store business to Paul Sweet of Wilmington, it was announced late last week.

Dr. McKnight will remove to Elkton, where he has bought the home formerly occupied by the late Mayor George B. Kerfoot, on Bridge Street. Dr. McKnight will continue his medical practice in Elkton.

Spectacles 150 Years Old

Mrs. Joseph E. Holland, whose hobby is the collection of antique furniture and other old antiques, has come into possession of a pair of very old spectacles. They are not only old, but the manner in which they are designed is novel. The frames and bows on the glasses are made out of iron which had been beaten flat by the maker. Each one of the bows is made so that it will fold into three small sections. On the end, designed so that it can be folded so as to stick in the hair at the back of the head is a large ring. The glass in the spectacles seems to be convex on both inside and outside. It looks as if two pieces of glass had been used in each lens. Mrs. Holland says that her information is that the glasses are well over 150 years of age—Milford Chronicle.

A POLITICAL PLAYLET

Written by an ex-student of the Department of English at Delaware

THE PLAYLET

PLACE—The Minority Room of the Senate Office Building.
 TIME—Tuesdays and Fridays.
 SETTING—A Senate Committee is investigating an alleged fraud in the sale of spark plugs to the Government. Senator Pickle, chairman, and nine other senators seated at a table. Room is crowded with witnesses, spectators and newspapermen. Spectators mostly women; women mostly with their knitting. A witness in the chair.

SENATOR PICKLE — "What, if any, are your politics?"
 WITNESS—"I am a Democrat."
 SEN. PICKLE—"You are excused; next witness."
 ANOTHER SENATOR—"But, Mr. Chairman, the witness should be questioned, don't you think?"
 SENATOR PICKLE—"We've got to have Republican witnesses to make this inquiry a success. Objection overruled."

(Another witness is sworn in.)
 SEN. PICKLE—"Are you a Republican?"
 ANOTHER WITNESS—"Yes."
 SEN. PICKLE—"What were you doing on August 17th, 1921?"
 ANOTHER WITNESS—"Making spark plugs."

SEN. PICKLE—"For whom were you making spark plugs?"
 ANOTHER WITNESS—"For the government."
 SEN. PICKLE—"For what government?"
 ANOTHER SENATOR—"It is perfectly evident, Mr. Chairman, that the witness means our government."
 SENATOR PICKLE—"Everybody knows, my dear Senator, that witnesses must be questioned in facit profundo; that nothing must be hidden from this committee." (Turning to witness.) "Now, do you or don't you mean the U. S. Government?"

WITNESS (slightly confused)—"Yes."
 SEN. PICKLE—"According to our informant, Mr. Vanderlip, it has been shown that you received a bank draft for $50,000 from the Secretary of the Treasury, on January 4th, 1923. Now tell the committee what you know of this draft."

WITNESS—"I would rather not discuss that today, sir."
 SENATOR PICKLE—"What? You refuse to testify? If so, you will be immediately served with in cumbro cumbro proceedings. So there."

WITNESS—"Well, sir, it was this way. I got a contract from the government for 150,000 double-edged, repeating spark plugs for use on employees' Ford's. I delivered the plugs two days before the contract called for delivery. Since that date I have been bankrupt, and—"

THE END

THE SEQUEL

And thus it is we read in the papers next morning, the following black headlines:
WITNESS ADMITS GETTING $50,000 FROM MELLON; HAS SECRETARY'S PICTURE ON OFFICE DESK
 Senator Pickle, Expert Cross-Examined of Senate Spark Plug Committee, Worms Reluctant Admission from Close-Mouthed Witness in Most Sensational Day of Inquiry.

THE MORAL

We would rather not go into detail in discussing the present epidemic of investigation, which is making Capitol Hill resemble the Ringling Side Show. Even doorkeepers and sergeants-at-arms turn up their noses and register disgust, when they see the senseless, morbid crowds that each day flock to the committee rooms, overflow the corridors, fight for seats and get a great thrill when they rub elbows with some great or near-great man. Surely this cannot be the seat of the greatest government on earth. These cannot be the rooms and corridors where once strode Clay and Marshall, and Lincoln, and Roosevelt; these cannot be Senators, who sit and smirk and puff and viciously attack. It's like a bad dream when you see it, you can't get rid of it. Yet there is humor in it—just the humor you would find in watching kids feed

State Convention Of Sunday Schools To Be Held In Dover On 23rd

Nationally Known Speakers Will Address Sessions in Wesley M. E. Church

301 WHITE SCHOOLS WILL SEND DELEGATES

The thirty-seventh annual convention of the Delaware Sunday School Association will be held in Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church at Georgetown, April 23-24.

There are three hundred and one white Sunday schools in the state, each of which is entitled to send one elected delegate to the convention. In addition to the school delegates, there are more than a hundred state, county and hundred association officers who are ex-officio delegates and very many of them will be in attendance.

While a school may have but one official representative, there is no limit to the number of visitors that may attend, and many visitors are expected to be present.

The general secretary, Mr. Abner B. Brown, has secured speakers of a very high order, a number of them having a nation-wide reputation. They are specialists well versed in the lines of work that they will present. The convention will be both educational and inspirational and delegates and visitors will be enabled to carry back valuable help to their respective schools.

The separate conferences on Cradle Roll, Beginners, Primary, Junior, Young People's and Adult work will be of greatest value, the leader of each of these conferences being an expert in that department of Sunday school work. The conference on Cradle Roll work will be led by Miss Grace Baird, president of the Graded Union of Sunday school workers of Wilmington. Miss Minnie L. Davis, a member of the faculty of the Maryland State Normal School at Towson and a noted Sunday school worker of Baltimore, will conduct the conference on work with Beginners. Miss Lillian E. McCormick, a graduate of the Religious Education Department of Boston University, and Children's Division Superintendent for Maryland and Delaware, will have charge of the conference on Primary work.

Miss Meme Brockway, Superintendent of Children's work for the American Baptist Association, a worker of national reputation, will direct the conference on Junior work. Col. Joseph H. Cudlipp, of Baltimore, Superintendent of Young People's work for Maryland and Delaware, will be the leader of the conference on Young People's work. Rev. Maurice R. Hamm, also of Baltimore and Superintendent of Adult work for both Maryland and Delaware, is to conduct the conference on Adult work. Many local workers will assist in these conferences.

The general program includes such speakers as Mr. A. M. Locker, of Chicago, a representative of the International Sunday School Council of Religious Education; Mrs. A. W. Karnell of Philadelphia, a member of the Pennsylvania Staff of Sunday school specialists; Rev. E. LeRoy Dakin, pastor of the Baptist Temple of Brooklyn, New York; Rev. R. P. Nichols, until recently Religious Education Director for the Methodist Episcopal Church, and Miss Ellen Samworth, a teacher in the public schools of Wilmington and a worker in the Daily Vacation Bible schools of that city.

Dover's Easter Dance

The annual Easter Dance, given under the auspices of Walter L. Fox Post No. 2, the American Legion, at the Dover State Armory on the evening of April 21st, at nine o'clock, will close the winter's social season.

In previous years, these dances have been wonderful successes and greatly enjoyed. This year's program promises more success and a much better time for everyone.

STUDEBAKER LIGHT-SIX TOURING CAR

$1045

Mark This Example of what Studebaker alone can do

STUDEBAKER is the world's largest maker of quality cars. Our assets are $90,000,000. We have $50,000,000 in model plants. Our sales have almost trebled in three years, because of our matchless values. Last year, 145,167 people paid $201,000,000 for Studebaker cars.

Come and learn why

Come and see, before you buy a car, the reasons for this success. See this Light-Six Touring Car, for instance.

Built of the finest steels. Of the very same steels we use in the costliest of our cars. On some we pay makers 15% premium to get just the quality specified.

Built under an engineering department which costs us $500,000 yearly.

Each car subjected in the building to 32,000 separate inspections.

Same steels, same workmanship as in the costliest Studebaker models.

Two great features

There are many features in this Light-Six found in no rival car. But we want to mention two in particular.

The motor is perfectly balanced. That means long life and freedom from vibration.

The reason is this: We machine all surfaces of our crankshafts and connecting rods by 61 operations. Just as was done in Liberty Airplane Motors. This is done in no other car at our prices. Then we use more Timken bearings in this car than are used in any competitive car within $1,500 of our price. And Timken bearings take up wear as no other bearings do.

Why this price?

This Light-Six Touring Car is priced at $1,045. Built under ordinary conditions such a car would cost you from $200 to $400 more.

How It Excels

Steels are identical with the steels in the costliest car we make.

More Timken bearings than in any competitive car within $1,500 of its price.

Genuine leather cushions, 10 inches deep. Curled hair filling.

All-steel body.

One-piece windshield—rainproof.

Attractive cowl lights.

Quick-action cowl ventilator.

Non-skid cord tires.

Transmission and ignition locks.

Perfect motor balance.

The supreme car of its class.

ELKTON PROPOSES A "CLEAN UP WEEK" SOON

Organizations and Newspapers Rally To Cause of Cleanliness

The week of May 7th-13 has been suggested as a fitting period for Elkton's first "clean-up, paint-up" week, and considerable activity along this line has been noticed within the past week.

The Chamber of Commerce, Town Council, and the newly formed Rotary Club have signified their willingness to boost the movement and have put their stamp of approval on it.

As is the custom in most small towns, the residents will be asked to clean up their premises, touch up old walls, fences and garages with paint and clear out all rubbish and trash which may have accumulated. It is also expected that the Town will assist the householders, by providing wagons to haul away the rubbish. There is no doubt but that one week of intensive cleaning and painting will most assuredly brighten up the County Seat.

As an example of the newspaper support, we quote from a current issue of the Cecil Whig:

"A 'Clean-Up, Paint-Up Week' for Elkton is a real, live and up-to-date movement. The week of May 7-13, as suggested, will in all probability, be an ideal time for cleaning up. By that date the weather will have become settled, and all trash and ashes from the winter's fires can be removed. Such a movement ought not to be confined to Elkton alone, but should be made by the whole county, both town and rural communities, with all working to make their premises a little more tidy. We join with the Cecil County News in endorsing this movement."

Over $600 Worth Of Roads To Be Built

Uncompleted Contracts and New Ones in This County Total Over $78,000

With about two-thirds of a million dollars worth of road building contracts, contracted for by the three counties in the state, of which sum the counties are called upon to pay half, officials of the State Highway Department are exercising due caution to see that the amount of money the department will have to expend on new work this year is not exceeded.

In exact figures, the roads contracted for now will cost $642,307.43. These will be added to in the next month or two by the awarding of additional contracts. Up to the present, Kent county with more than a quarter of a million dollars leads the list. New Castle is next and Sussex third.

To taxpayers the cost of these roads is a very important item, because they are the bills they will have to meet. In New Castle county the roads uncompleted from last year and the costs are:

- Marsh road, $24,080.20.
- Townsend-Coldwell, $5,000.
- Glasgow-Maryland line, $28,284.80.
- Kirkwood-Tybout's Corner, $92,077.07.

To this total must be added $3,500 for right of way and engineering costs making a grand total of $78,221.03 as the county's half.

The roads already contracted for this year are:

- Mt. Pleasant-Summit Bridge, $82,737.50.
 - Bear-Christiana, $82,280.
 - New Castle-Bason Corner, $69,705.
- The uncompleted contracts and new road contracts awarded so far brings New Castle county's obligations to date up to $195,582.28.

DOVER BALL CLUB TO SELL EXCESS STOCK

$4000 Expected To Be Raised To Start Season's Activities

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Dover Base Ball Association last week plans were discussed for the launching of a drive for the sale of the balance of the stock of the Association in the near future.

A meeting of the stockholders may be held during this week at which time the plans for the drive will be perfected and the work started.

During the drive an effort will be made to impress upon the business men of Dover what value the base ball team was last year to the community. They will be shown that the city received more advertising during the base ball season than it has from any other source for some time.

The Association has on hand about four thousand dollars worth of stock to be disposed of and they expect to sell this stock within a very short time after the drive starts.

Solving the Problem
A young salesman had embezzled from his kind-hearted employer a considerable sum of money and had lost every cent of it on the races. He was apprehended, and the boss didn't know just what to do about it.
"Keep him on the job and deduct what he owes you from his pay," counseled an adviser.
"But," wailed the victim, "the amount is too large. He could never make it up that way. His wages are too small."
The other ruminated for a moment. Then his face cleared.
"Well, then, raise his salary," he suggested.—American Legion Weekly.

FAMOUS ARGENTINE RACE TO STUDEBAKER FOR THIRD TIME

Hazardous Roads Force Out 12 Entries in Spectacular Motoring Event

Buenos Aires, April 3—Pushing ahead of a field of twenty-five American and European contestants, a Studebaker Special-Six won, for the third consecutive year, the spectacular Gran Premio of Argentine, South America's foremost racing event.

Sr. Mariano de la Fuente drove the Studebaker to victory over a course twice the distance of former years and along roads in so hazardous condition that only thirteen of the twenty-five entries finished the complete distance.

Distance Was Doubled
De la Fuente has driven in a number of previous Gran Premios, but this was his first year behind the wheel of a Studebaker. In the 1922 race he was beaten out for first place by a Special-Six and last year again finished unsuccessful. So he concluded that this year he would cast his lot with Studebaker.

Third and fourth prizes went to Gianini and Ferreyra respectively, both of whom also drove Studebaker Special-Sixes, making a total of three places won by Studebaker in this year's race.

Studebaker's winning time was 24 hours and 45 minutes over a treacherous course of 1,520 kilometers (about 950 miles). The race last year was 750 kilometers (465 miles). The racers started from here and made their way to Rosario; thence to Cordoba, and returned by the same route to Buenos Aires.

The Gran Premio is held annually under the auspices of the Argentine Automobile Club. The hard service to which cars are subjected in this grind is greater than many months of ordinary driving.

So gruelling was the race this year that nearly half the entries were compelled to drop out, due to mechanical difficulties brought about by the road conditions over which the race was run. The famous Gran Premio is more than a test for speed. South American motorists consider it a final contest for gauging motor car endurance.

Wins for Third Time
The fact that a Studebaker, for the third time, won this speed-flight against some of the most expensive European and American makes was commented on by the judges.

In 1922 the race was won by Antonio Ovides in a Studebaker. William T. Burke's Special-Six was the first car over the line last year. The Studebaker victory here comes on the heels of similar achievements in South Africa, the Syrian Desert, Australia and Florida.

SHALL SCHOOLS BAN EXEMPTIONS?

(From The Delaware State News)

In an interesting letter written to the Dover Index, Irving H. Boggs, a graduate of the Dover High School and of the University of Delaware, sheds some light upon the mystery of why graduates of the local High School are apparently not capable of taking up the higher studies at the University.

Mr. Boggs, who writes from North Carolina, blames the trouble upon the exemption system as practiced in the Dover High School. He believed the exemption system should be abandoned, and the students be made to pass regular periodical examinations, and gives a number of very logical reasons to support his contentions.

We believe Mr. Boggs' suggestions should be considered seriously by the local school authorities and if it should be deemed possible that the exemption system contributes in any degree whatever to the difficulties experienced by the High School graduates in passing the tests at the University, then the exemption system should by all means be eliminated, and at once.

WHOSE TO BLAME?

Usually the boy or girl who fails to make good in college is blamed. More often some teacher back in the grades or in High School is to blame. Some of the leading educators declare that if a High School allows its students to slip through the courses in such a way that when the students get to college they find themselves unqualified for the work, the public school teachers are to blame.

They have fallen down in their responsibility. It is their duty to help the students master their subjects in public school so that when the students get to college they will be equal to the task awaiting them.

It is not fair to the students nor to the school nor to the community for teachers to let the students slip through their courses and graduate from High School unless the students have mastered the work assigned them. The process of elimination, if such must be made, should take place during the High School course. But nine times out of ten the student who fails to pass his grades is not altogether to blame. Those who teach him have their share to blame.

It is not only their duty to teach the subjects, but to seek to make the subject matter so interesting that the student will be anxious to make good. Poor scholars often become good scholars when under good teachers. We believe that not only should the "exemption policy" be discontinued in our schools, but that the responsibility in a larger measure should be placed upon the teachers. It is not only a reflection upon the student who fails. It is also a reflection upon his teachers who fail to inspire him not to fail.

No Such Car

The teacher was trying to give her pupils an illustration of the word "perseverance."

"What is it," she asked, "that carries a man along rough roads and smooth roads, up hills and down, through jungles and swamps and raging torrents?"

There was a silence, and then Tommy, whose father was a motor dealer, spoke up: "Please, miss," he said, "there ain't no such car."—Youth's Companion.
