Personal

Dear Raymond:

I have your note of May 8 with regard to your visit to Vienna and Dunn, Moffat and Flack have been as interested as I was to hear what you have to say and it is, of course, very helpful to us for background. It is a sad story and I fear that we are only at the beginning rather than at the end. I fear our protection problems are going to become constantly more serious and difficult as I wrote you the other day. I am confident that your visit to Vienna was very helpful. Wiley has been doing a good job but he is not as resourceful as you are and does not have that wealth of background and experience which are so essential. I am sure that the indications which you were able to give to him will prove to be precious.

Cordially and sincerely yours,

Raymond H. Geist, Esquire,
American Consul,
Berlin, Germany.
