Miss Alice Ruth Moore:

Since writing you, I have taken the managing editorship of the "World" and want to make it a good literary weekly. Will you help me? If you have any articles or poems to spare will you send them to me? While we cannot offer a financial return, we will do all that we can to assist those who give us their aid. I should be delighted to run your cut and a sketch of you at your earliest convenience.

I am interested in you and want all my western friends to know about you.

Send us several things if you have them to spare, but don't forget the cut and the poems for a sketch. Depend upon me to do all I can to boom your book, and if the "World" can help
