HOMEMAKERS ACHIEVEM'NT DAY HERE ON APRIL 3

Texas A & M Extension Editor To Discuss Farm Women's Problems

Homemakers who are members of the country's home demonstration clubs will hear Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham as the featured speaker at the 13th Annual New Castle County Home Demonstration-Achievement Day to be held in the social hall of the Newark Methodist Church on April 3. Mrs. Cunningham will talk on "Farm Women in a Changing World."

Both in the capacity of national chairman of urban-rural cooperation for the General Federation of Women's Clubs and in connection with her official position with the Division of Information of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, Mrs. Cunningham has been active in urging farm and city homemakers to work together for the in... of the American home in the interest of national unity, now so vital to the currently-operating defense program.

Before she went to Washington about two years ago, Mrs. Cunningham was for 8 years Extension Editor at the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College—the first woman in America to hold such a position.

Mrs. Kate Henley Daugherty, New Castle County home demonstration agent, reveals that Mrs. Cunningham was born on a farm in Texas and still considers herself first of all a farm woman. For several years she has successfully managed her large cotton and timber farm in Texas.

A worker in the suffrage movement when women were jailed for picketing the White House, Mrs. Cunningham, herself no picketer, is one of 87 American women whose names are engraved on a tablet in the headquarters of the League of Women Voters for distinguished service in the field of citizenship.

In her present position, Mrs. Cunningham is working to help farm families to better understand and use the AAA program on their farms. In the educational work she is doing with farm women, Mrs. Cunningham emphasizes the AAA program as a practical example of economic democracy at work.

WOMEN JOINING DEFENSE PROGRAM

W. C. D. Faculty And Students Assisting With War Relief

The Women's College, University of Delaware is organizing as a body for national defense under the leadership of a recently-named defense committee for the Women's College Faculty Club. All that women can do to take a responsible part in the present world situation is being investigated. Plans for the cooperation of students and faculty are broad in outline, including not only provision for individuals who wish to knit and sew for the Red Cross, the British War Relief Association, and other relief organizations, but also educational efforts to spread as sound and intelligent information as possible about the changing international situation.

Numerous committees have already been appointed by Miss Henrietta Fleck, Miss Elizabeth Child, and Miss Edna Frederick, who are in charge of the movement, to take care of as many different interests as have been expressed.

To investigate resources within the college, a suggestion is being followed of registering all members of the faculty and student body in respect to the individual abilities of each that might have any usefulness for defense purposes. Such information is being recorded as whether an individual has already had at any time a course in first aid, experience with small children, switchboard experience, typing, mechanical abilities like skilled in repairing an automobile, and even the ability to change a tire. Dean Marjorie Golder and Miss Quaesita Drake are in charge of making out the registration blank.

Work has already been started in first aid, knitting, and sewing and all of these efforts are evidence that the Women's College is anxious to do its share in satisfying the needs created by the gravity of the present war situation.

WOLLASTON FOOD STORE IS SOLD

One Of Town's Oldest Concerns Is Purchased

One of Newark's oldest business establishments, Wollaston's grocery store, will pass out of existence on April 5, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. William P. Wollaston, owner, who has operated the store since her husband's death about three years ago.

The entire property, located at 123 East Main Street, has been purchased by A. L. Geist, dealer in farm supplies and hardware, who will re-locate his business as soon as possible, probably by the end of summer. Now operating at 131 East Main Street, Mr. Geist plans to install a more complete line of hardware, an addition which will necessitate more space than is now available at his present site. In business here since 1925, Mr. Geist moved into his present store about three years ago.

One of the town's oldest grocery concerns, Wollaston's market has operated successfully for the past 34 years, 32 of which have been spent at the present location. It has been operated since Mr. Wollaston's death by his widow and a son, William T. Wollaston.

FERGUSON AND RAMSEY FILE FOR REELECTION

No Opposition Indicated At Town Election On April 8

Town Councilmen whose terms expire next month are C. Emerson Johnson, George E. Ramsey and George F. Ferguson and Mayor Frank Collins. All are expected to be candidates for re-election at the annual town election on Tuesday, April 8.

Only two of the incumbents have thus far filed intentions of seeking re-election, Mr. Ramsey and Mr. Ferguson, although Mr. Johnson and Mayor Collins are expected to file within the next few days. Mayor Collins was noncommittal when questioned about his intentions by a representative of this newspaper, several days ago.

With only eight days remaining for candidates to file their petitions, no opposition has yet developed in any district although it has been rumored that there would be opposition candidates in at least two districts. The deadline for filing is Saturday, March 29.

All retiring councilmen are veterans on the board. Mr. Johnson and Mr. Ramsey are completing their third consecutive terms while Mr. Ferguson is completing his fifth term and Mayor Collins his sixth.

Members of the board whose terms do not expire this year are: C. C. Hubert, John F. Richards and Herman Wollaston.

CIRCULAR OUTLINES PASTURE DISTRICTS

Good Pasture Should Provide Continuous Grazing

As a general topic of conversation, there's nothing so popular as the weather. And when it comes to pasture management on Delaware farms, the weather definitely becomes more important than just a topic for conversation.

For what might be good pasture management in lower Delaware wouldn't be worth the trouble of plowing the land in the northern part of the State.

C. E. Phillips, assistant agronomist of the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station, has written the new Extension Service Mimeo Circular No. 3 which is entitled "Delaware Pastures." Phillips says that the State might well be divided into four general districts as far as pasture production and its problems are concerned. And the new circular gives facts on pasture management in these four Delaware districts.

Among the facts contained in the 10-page mimeo circular on pastures, Phillips has outlined a set of seeding mixtures to be used by farmers according to their locations in relation to the four districts. He has also included a full-page map in the circular to clearly show just where the four pasture districts are located.

Under the heading, What is Good Pasture?, Phillips writes that "a good pasture is one that will supply continuous grazing of palatable grass from early in the spring until late in the fall . . . Since the factors influencing grass production are considerably different from one section of the country to another, so will the pasture management practices necessary to obtain good pasture be different. . . . In nearby sections, well-fertilized pastures have carried as high as 1½ cows per acre for the entire season."

The new circular can be obtained now from George Worrilow, New Castle County agricultural agent.

DIVERSION VICTIMS INCREASED

Motor Vehicle Ownership Up 5.69 Per Cent

Motor vehicle ownership increased approximately 5.69 percent in 1940, adding substantially to the number of citizens who will become new victims of the diversion of motor tax revenues, unless the Motor Fund is excluded from the provisions of the "One-Fund Merger Act", H. V. Daniel, secretary, Associated Petroleum Industries of Delaware, stated today.

"Motor vehicle ownership has expanded substantially in the past year," Mr. Daniel pointed out. "The increase is well above the 4,000 mark, making a total of over 76,000 motor vehicle owners in the state, all of whom are victims of the continual practice of diverting highway funds to purposes other than road improvement.

"The One-Fund Merger will not only encourage, but will undoubtedly amplify the diversions of what should be considered as trusteed funds. Public support of House Bill 45, introduced by Representative Johnston, however, is growing. This measure would exclude the Motor Fund from the provisions of the Merger Act. Highway users are united in supporting the Johnston proposal and see in it the only way in which motor funds can enjoy some measure of protection against any but highway use.

"Defense and its transportation problems center the spotlight on our highways and their normal importance is emphasized. Consequently, no effort should be spared which will give essential assurance that all motor revenues will be devoted to keeping our highway system adequately maintained to meet the full and growing demands set up by defense. Diversion inevitably slows down defense. It must be stopped.

"Over 76,000 Delaware citizens have a heavy investment in their motor vehicle equipment. They deserve to have legislative assurance that the taxes and fees they pay will be used exclusively for highway improvement. To withhold this assurance would be unfair to motor vehicle owners and in this belief the General Assembly will undoubtedly pass House Bill 45."

Kate A. (Nana) Fisher

CELEBRATES ANOTHER BIRTHDAY

Grandmother Of John E. Fisher 102 Years Old

Mrs. Kate A. (Nana) Fisher, grandmother of John E. Fisher, Jr., of Newark, celebrated her 102nd birthday last Sunday at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Harry Meyers, in Reading, Pa.

"By Jiminey, I made it!" Nana told a family gathering.

She will be remembered as the mother of the late John E. Fisher, Sr., of Port Deposit, Md., with whom she resided for many years.

Mrs. Fisher has for weeks been summoning all her strength to live for her celebration. Her physician and relatives said it was the anticipation of this celebration that helped her to keep alive in spite of ebbing strength. Although Nana is almost entirely confined to her bed, she sat at the head of the table and enjoyed a dinner which she requested—turkey and all the trimmin's.

A few weeks ago, it was doubtful whether Nana would have her party. Relatives feared that she would not be able to stand the excitement, but the white-haired old lady was firm. "I want a party," she insisted, and that was that.

Starting early Sunday morning, birthday cakes, telegrams, and gifts along with many friends, poured into the room where Nana sat. She has six grandchildren and the same number of great grandchildren.

Mrs. Mazie E. Fisher and Mr. and Mrs. John E. Fisher, Jr., of Newark, were among the guests.

LETTERS ON SPRAYING AVAILABLE

Service Offered Growers At No Expense

Hundreds of fruit growers throughout Delaware are studying over Edition No. 1 of the 1941 Orchard Spray Notes. Edition No. 1 is in the form of a letter and is the first in a series of letters which have become popularly known among Delaware fruit growers as the "spray service."

The spray service letters are prepared and issued by the departments of entomology, plant pathology and horticulture of the University of Delaware, the State Board of Agriculture and the county offices of the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service. The letters frequently contain facts on vegetable pest control. This year's first spray service letter contains latest control recommendations for codling moth, curculic, peach leaf curl, scale insects, aphids and red mites as compiled and presented by Dr. L. A. Stearns, entomologist for the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service, and Dr. K. J. Kadow, plant pathologist for the State Board of Agriculture. The first edition of Orchard Spray Notes also contains information on fertilizers for fruit trees, written by Dr. E. W. Greve, research horticulturist at the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station.

New Castle County farmers producing fruit can obtain the Orchard Spray Notes regularly by getting in touch with George Worrilow, New Castle County agricultural agent. Names and addresses of farmers desiring the spray service letters will be placed on Worrilow's mailing list for the letters when requests are sent to his office at the University of Delaware, Newark.

Copies of the recently-issued 1941 Spray Calendar are also available in Worrilow's office.

Newark, Delaware, Thursday, March 20, 1941

EIGHT MORE DAYS

The time is drawing nearer when voters of Newark will go to the polls to elect a councilman from each district and a mayor at large for two-year terms.

Only eight days remain for prospective candidates to file their intentions with the town clerk as the deadline for filing is March 29—ten days before the annual town election on Tuesday, April 8.

As often as not Newark has uncontested elections and such may well be the case this year as to date no opposition candidates have filed although some of the incumbents have declared their intentions of seeking reelection.

Newark is and has been fortunate in having thoroughly capable and efficient Town Council — its members have conscientously guided affairs of the town to financial stability to a point where Newark today is one of the most soundly operated towns in the State.

We don't know whether there will be any aspirants for the seats of Councilmen Ramsey, Ferguson and Johnson or Mayor Frank Collins or not. But, we do know that if there are they will be men of high calibre, capable of carrying on the efficient operation of town affairs; men who will continue to reflect credit upon themselves and their community by their actions as Town Councilmen.

AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION

Delaware's ancient Blue Laws are a thing of the past, after more than two hundred years of existence. Overwhelmingly passed in both houses of the Legislature, the bill repealing the outmoded statutes was signed by Governor Bacon last week.

His signature on the bill leaves incorporated towns and cities with no protection whatever against the operation of commercial enterprises on Sunday — anything goes on Sunday now, until and unless municipal governing boards take action to the contrary.

In Newark, there has not yet developed any indication that such action might be necessary. Sunday goes on as usual here. But, the bars are down and it might better be the part of discretion if the Town Council would consider the possibilities of enacting ordinances to prevent commercialization of Sunday in Newark before any issue arises.

SPRING IS HERE

The calendar says "Spring is Here" but the chill North wind still brings its wintry blasts to rattle windows and cause stokers to heave another shovel of coal in the furnace as Spring is officially ushered in, one day early, today.

Despite recent snows and cold winds, Spring is here. The sun is bright and warm and robins have already made their appearance hereabouts. We may still have an occassionaly cold snap but it will be only temporary and soon will give way to that season when plants begin to bud and the landscape takes on its brilliantly colored attire.

BUSINESS WOMEN IN SESSION

Newport, March 19—More than 125 members of the Business and Professional Women of the Y. W. C. A. of Delaware participated in the nation-wide observance by holding a banquet Tuesday evening in the Newport Methodist Church. The affair was held in the banquet room of the church, and the dinner was served by women of the church. The theme of the meeting was "Vitalizing Democracy".

Dr. Karl W. H. Scholz, professor of economics at the University of Pennsylvania Wharton School addressed the group. His subject was: "Economic Democracy".

Messages from Y. W. C. A. groups in other countries are an annual feature of the celebration, and although the war prevented the usual exchange, telegrams were received from many other American cities, and several were read from countries in South America, Mexico, Canada and New Zealand.

Miss Mary Ann Pardee, president of the Dover Business and Professional Club, was toastmistress. The invocation was made by Miss Marjorie Starkweather, general secretary of the District Y. W. C. A., which was followed by the friendship moment of silence and group songs.

Dean Marjorie S. Golder of the Women's College, University of Delaware, as chairman of the business girls board, brought greetings, and congratulated the girls upon the spirit of cooperation existing, stating that these little groups are the roots of democracy, and in them we learn to live, work and play together, and keep alive the democratic way of living in this country.

Group singing was led by Miss Ruth Duling, of New Castle, and Mrs. Edna Challenger, also of New Castle, pianist, provided the music.

Delaware Grange of Newport at its meeting this week contributed $5 to be sent to the Building Fund of the National Grange headquarters in Washington, D. C. Mrs. Chandler Gebhart, lecturer of the New Castle County Pomona Grange reported that the joint meetings of three Granges in one session would be continued this year, and that the host Grange will conduct the business session, with the visiting granges providing the program of entertainment. The lecturer also announced that the New Castle County Pomona Grange will again sponsor the Super Grange Program in the fall. Delaware Grange will hold its annual "Men's Night" program on March 24th, at which time the men will have complete charge of the meeting.

The Rev. Ralph Minker of the Ferris Industrial School, was the guest speaker at the morning service of the Newport Methodist Church on Sunday, substituting for the Rev. J. C. McCoy, who is a patient in the Methodist Hospital, Philadelphia. The Epworth League group was in charge of the evening service. E. E. Alexander, of Lyndalia, addressed the Men's Bible Class on Sunday.

Boy Scout Troop No. 73, under the direction of Charles Painter, scout master, conducted an investiture service Friday evening, and Robert Sacks joined the troop. A plan has been inaugurated by this troop whereby they will take in new members, and have parents of the boys attend their meetings as guests on the second Friday of the month. At the meeting Friday evening, William Alder, assistant scout executive of the Delmarva Council at the Boy Scout headquarters, showed motion pictures of Camp Rodney.

The local Girl Scouts, in the annual cookie sale conducted this week, sold approximately 300 dozen cookies, and are now delivering them.

The St. James P. E. Church of Newport will serve an oyster supper tomorrow night in the Woman's Club Building. Mrs. Fred Block is in charge of arrangements for the supper.

The W. P. A. Orchestra will furnish a program of music at the Parent-Teachers Association meeting on Thursday evening in the auditorium of the Krebs School. The public is invited to attend.

What do YOU do when the telephone rings on a cold, cold night?

Do you let it ring—and then lie awake for hours wondering who was calling? Do you make that shivering dash downstairs to the telephone?
Or do you just stretch out your arm, pick up the extension telephone beside your bed and talk in cozy comfort?

BLUE LAWS REPEALED

Gov. Bacon Signs Measure

Passed in the House of Representatives by a vote of 18 to 16 and in the Senate by 13 to 3, Representative Robert H. Richards' bill repealing Delaware's ancient and much publicized 'blue laws' was signed by Governor Walter W. Bacon on Friday, March 14.

Effective immediately upon the governor's signature the Richards bill automatically removes all restrictions on Sunday business in incorporated cities and towns between the hours of noon and 6 p. m., and 8 p. m. until midnight.

The bill provides that governing boards of incorporated towns have the privilege of enacting local ordinances prohibiting the operation of business in their communities on Sunday.

FOOD for THOUGHT

Charlotte Spencer,

"Signs of Spring"

Sulfur and molasses used to be as sure a sign of spring as the first robin. Old timers learned that this mixture was a cure for the lack of pep which occurred to them in February and March. Now we realize that iron rich molasses was probably responsible for the effectiveness of this tonic.

Winter meals are likely to be low in iron rich foods. Green leafy vegetables are not so plentiful in winter as in spring and summer, eggs are frequently double their summer price, and as a State we have not yet learned to use enough dark bread and cereal for that to be a reliable winter source of iron.

The body stores iron in the liver. Summer meals which have been plentiful in fresh vegetables and eggs may have stored a large enough supply to last a little while on a diet which contains much less of these iron rich foods. After a few months this stored supply is gone and a general laziness and lack of ambition may occur.

A VARIETY OF FOODS CONTAIN IRON.

In the spring we begin to crave those things which have not been so plentiful. Spring greens are here to satisfy this craving. Serve greens often, cooked, in a mixed green spring salad, in sandwiches.

Eggs have already started their spring decline in price. Begin now to use more eggs for breakfast, omelets or ham and eggs for supper, eggs in salads and in sandwiches.

Some iron rich foods are with us in plenty the year around. Prunes are very rich in iron and are cheap, too. Hot cooked oatmeal and cooked wheat cereal are most satisfying these crisp March mornings. Liver, whether pork, beef, lamb, chicken or the expensive calf, is another reliable year around supply of iron.

Check the meals which you are planning for your family to be sure that they contain several of these iron rich foods every day.

Flashes By Bill Fletcher

AS USUAL, SPRING SPORTS AT the University of Delaware and the high school will get off to a slow start due to a stubborn winter which always keeps coming back from its deathbed to harass tormented coaches with its late seasonal rains and snow flurries.

Unfortunately, there is no power in this section that can place a limit on the seasons and we're forced to take our orders direct from Washington where President Roosevelt has things under complete control.

Once underway, however, spring takes little time in giving us the hot, dry summer weather so ideal for baseball, but until that time comes, Coaches Gerald P. (Doc) Doherty and Ralph (Irish) O'Connell are in for their share of pre-seasonal headaches.

"DOC" WILL NOT BE WITHOUT his worries again this year, for the graduation of Earl Sheats has carved a huge niche in the Hens' resources. The Delaware backstop who was also the outstanding batter throughout most of his career, leaves a position open that can be filled by either Conrad Sadowski or Tom Skripps.

Sadowski is needed just as much in the outfield, however, and Skripps would certainly come in for plenty of action at the first base spot where Luke Selby will not be performing this year due to scholastic barricades.

BACK IN SCHOOL AFTER A year's absence due to a mysterious eye ailment, little Freddy Mitchell can be depended upon to do a man-sized job at shortstop, while Amos Crowley, another little man, and the plugging "Lunk" Apsley can be counted on to handle second and third base, respectively, in capable fashion.

Once the first-base slot is filled satisfactorily, the Hen's infield should leave little to be desired.

OUTSTANDING HITTERS HAVE been few and far between as far as the Hens have been concerned, and Coach Doherty has seldom been blessed with more than one man whom he could depend upon to come through in the "clutch".

But in the last three years, the local tossers have won most of their games and have chalked up an enviable record, due, not to their slugging, but the ability to make the "breaks" of the game break their way. In the first seven games of the 1939 season, the Delaware team, breezing along with a club batting average of .222, took five verdicts, dropping only one, and playing a 15-inning deadlock.

A GOOD MAN BOWED OUT OF the Blue and Gold's grid picture last week when John Grundy, veteran tackle, announced that he had decided to drop out of school.

Replacing the husky lineman who also performed at Newark High School, won't be an easy task for Coach Bill Murray, who is even now working like a newspaperman to field a winning team when the new season rolls around.

THE NEED FOR IMPROVED FAcilities for indoor sports is once again being emphasized by the present overcrowded conditions existing in outmoded Taylor Gymnasium.

Forced off Frazer Field by the cold weather, football candidates, being put through their spring training, and trackmen working out for the current season, are wedged into the small building. There's hardly room for these two squads—now what happens to the baseball team?

BLUE AND GOLD TOSSERS SWING INTO ACTION; FIRST GAME SLATED FOR APRIL 3

Dartmouth College To Invade Frazer Field For Opening Tilt; Athletic Council Approves Letters For Cagers, Tankmen

With their opening contest less than two weeks away, the University of Delaware diamondmen went into action yesterday, but sessions are expected to be limited for at least another week, due to poor weather conditions.

Slated to face Dartmouth College here on Thursday, April 3, the Hens will actually have just a little more than a week to work outdoors, unless a break in the cold spell occurs.

Coach Gerald P. (Doc) Doherty, with eight lettermen around which to build his diamond combine, is looking forward to another successful year. Forming the nucleus of this season's team will be Bill Tibbitt and John Daly, southpaw, two dependable hurlers, with Hugh Bogovich, a sophomore, in reserve for mound duty.

Other lettermen around which the team will be built are: Conrad Sadowski and Tom Skripps, catchers; Amos Crowley, second base; Freddy Mitchell, shortstop; Wilmer Apsley, third base, and Perry Burkett, outfielder. Skripps is also capable of handling the first base assignment left vacant due to the graduation of Earl Sheats and the ineligibility of Luke Selby. Sadowski has also had considerable experience in the outfield.

Coach Doherty announced that the southern trip tilt with Hampden-Sydney has been cancelled, but the open date will be filled by the U. S. Naval Training Station team at Richmond, Va.

Letters for swimming and basketball performers were approved at a meeting of the athletic council held Tuesday night.

The following members of the tank team will receive the awards: Dave Funk, Charles Weldin, Harry Neese, George Houchin, Ray Hecht, Clinton Schoolmaster, Charles Walton, Harry Huxford, Robert Dickey, Reverly Kent, David Marshall, and Manager Harold Gordy.

Basketball letters were voted as follows: Capt. William Gerow, Conrad Sadowski, Carleton Douglass, George Barlow, J. Frederick Mitchell, Edward Samuels, and Manager Robert Berry.

The Delaware golf team will play nine matches, five of which will be played on the Newark Country Club links. The schedule is as follows:

April 23—Dickinson, away; 29—Villanova, away; May 7—New Jersey State Teachers' College, away; 8—Rider College, away; 12—Franklin and Marshall, home; 14—Villanova, home; 17—Fordham, home; 19—Bucknell, home; 21—Seton Hall, home.

Dave Funk, a member of the swimming team, was elected to represent the class of 1944 on the council.

FAVORITES ADVANCE

Cue Tourneys At Academy To Be Concluded

Favorites advanced into the semi-final round of the Class A billiard tournament being conducted at the Newark Billiard Academy as Don Pierce and Dick Tweed both turned in easy triumphs.

Pierce handed Bob Mace a 100-36 drubbing to take his spot in the semis, while Tweed turned back Mose Reynolds, 100-74. The former will be pitted against Hip Tweed who eked out a 100-97 win over Fred Cote, while Tweed will match strokes with Charles (Spike) Daly, victorious over Herman T. Renshaw, 100-74, in the quarterfinal engagement.

In the Class B competition, Doug Robinson and Hugo Thomas loom as favorites to move into the final round. Thomas knocked off Art Smith, 50-43, while Robinson trounced Ray Ewing, 50-18, to grab spots in the semi-finals. In the other quarterfinal engagement, Charlie Weldin defeated J. Gray, 50-29, for the right to meet Robinson.

Both tournaments will be concluded next week.

McCORMICK FIXTURE IN REDS' OUTFIELD

Brilliant Plate Work At Close Of Season Nets Mike Dividends

About a year ago Mike McCormick was just another aspiring young outfielder on the roster of the Cincinnati Reds. The name McCormick, magic to the rabid baseball fans of Cincinnati, caused some attention to be shifted in his direction, but aside from that, very little was written and said about him.

The situation has changed greatly in a year. Today Mike is a fixture in the outfield of the Cincinnati Reds, champions of the world, and is regarded as one of the outstanding young men to enter the majors during the 1940 season.

Mike started the season as the Reds' leftfielder, was benched because of light hitting, then turned right around and won the centerfield job from Harry Craft. The process of winning the centerfield post was accomplished by some heavy clubbing during the last half of the season that raised his mark from an anaemic .245 to a healthy .300. Mike pelted at a .350 pace during the last month of the season, and continued his red hot pace during the world series when he averaged .310.

Bill McKechnie is strong for the 23-year-old coast boy, because of his aggressiveness. He plays to win. There's no fooling with him. He gives everything he's got out there on the ball field and he has the competitive spirit that helps him to do his best in times of stress. He seems to be a better hitter when the tying or winning run is on base, or when a crucial ball game is being played.

Though a great reputation did not precede McCormick to the Reds, there were quite a number of people not far from here who predicted he had a great chance to make the grade in the National League. These people were mostly from the vicinity of Indianapolis, where Mike played during the 1938 and 1939 seasons. Baseball writers who followed the Indians during those two seasons were particularly enthusiastic about the chances of their favorite.

Even after McCormick's first year at Indianapolis, when he batted only .250, he was being touted as a future big time star, to which major leaguers turned a deaf ear and responded with, "Must be a nice boy, but another one of those good field, no hit guys." He exploded the 'no hit' theory in 1939, when he raised his average to .318 and was selected by the Reds under the terms of the working agreement the club had with Indianapolis.

As things turned out, this was a fortunate selection. Here is a boy who won't be 24 years of age until May 6 with a full season of successful major league competition under his belt, and whose potentialities are terrific. There is no player who has greater physical qualifications than McCormick. He's a 6-foot, 200 pounder, who can run like the devil, and who has a great throwing arm. In school he set a northern California record for the 100-yard dash. He covered the distance in 9.9.

PINMEN DOWNED

Paced by Abe Cohen, representatives of the Charles Bowling Center, Baltimore, Md., sent a local contingent home on the short end of a 2,883-2,708 score, Sunday afternoon.

Cohen turned in a brilliant 647 total, leading off with an even 200 game which was followed by outstanding scores of 221 and 226. Charlie Tasker was the best performer for the locals, turning in a grand total of 607 pins. He climaxed games of 182 and 196 with a 229 total.

In The Doghouse With RAUL BRAM

Spring Trial Program . . .

This week a program announcing the 31st annual spring trial of the Delaware Setter & Pointer Club found its way to my desk and I was more than impressed with its entire contents, most especially by its aim as a dog conservation club. I will quote a part of the printed program. "The Delaware Setter and Pointer Club's aim is to 'Help Not Hinder'—'Encourage not Discourage' any organization or individual interested in the breeding and training of pure bred dogs, and in conservation and propogation of upland game birds."

This statement is proof enough why this time honored club has come through the ages, for thirty-one years and still prospers and carries on. Many of its charter members are still active in the business. One is president and another is a vice-president. I have never heard of this old organization ever taking sides in any factional disputes, nor have I heard them condemn any other similar organization, but I do know that this club goes into the field and feeds the birds, encourages with words and actions the planting of food strips, control of vermin and many other worthwhile conservation movements. They encourage law enforcement and practice it, and do not tolerate game law violators.

Glasgow Stakes . . .

Delaware's spring program includes of six stakes to be run on the 20th, 22nd and 23rd of this month. According to Miller D. Darrell of Newark, Del., the club's president and one of America's outstanding pointer handlers, some of the countries leading dogs will be at Glasgow these four days. He stated that at least ten of the dogs that competed in the National Championship, which was run early this month, will be entered in the Open All-Age stake which will run on Sunday, March 23rd. Dewey English, Fred Bell, George Crangel and Ed. Mack Fox, the young handler who developed the pointer "Air Pilot Sam", who is recognized as the greatest field champion that the world has ever known, will be at Glasgow.

In addition to the professionals, East's leading amateurs will be on hand. Such local dogs as "Dan Frank H." from the kennels of Chas. I. Hoch, "Tunlaw Ben" the young setter owned by J. Paul Rees, "Timberson Tim" another youngster that is coming fast at this time, owned by James Dorian of Elsmere, Delaware, is expected to be a contender in the Open Trophy All-Age stake. Then we have "Milligan's Stylish Lad" with his thirty or more wins at the class company, who is owned and will be handled by Miller D. Darrell. Mac's son, "Milligan's Stylish Lad" owned by Ralph D. Kellam. In addition there will be the usual array of dark horses making their bids for fame for the first time.

Field Trials do not charge admission and Mr. Darrell stated that the grounds have been so arranged this year that the gallery can stand at the farm house which is also used as a club house, and see at least two thirds of the running and all of the bird work.

The club's officers are chosen from the entire state. The Kent County directors are James Dorian of Smyrna, Del., George W. Robinson of Smyrna and J. Henry Hazel of Dover, Del., while the Sussex directors are Ogden German, Laurel, Del., Howard Pepper, Seaford, Del., and Thomas R. Postles of Georgetown, Del. Will see you next week.

AFTERNOON COOKING SESSIONS PROMISED

Women Invited To Culinary Sessions

With ninety percent of the floor space already contracted for by sixteen exhibitors, Newark's fourth annual Merchandise Show and Food Exhibit, at the Armory on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 3, 4 and 5, promises to be bigger and better than ever before.

All the features of previous years and several new ones will be added this year for the capacity crowds attracted daily to the Show. Mrs. Mary T. Cashman, culinary expert of the Delaware Power & Light Co., will again conduct cooking school sessions each afternoon for the benefit of the women of the community.

Extensive displays of industrial arts and home economics students of the Newark Public Schools will adorn the balcony and there will be the usual galaxy of prizes awarded to fortunate visitors.

Some of the outstanding exhibits will be the model kitchen, installed by Jackson's Hardware, 1941 model automobiles by Wilmington Auto Sales and Dennison Motor Co., striking exhibits by the two fire companies, the floral display of Reeves-Ferris, wholesale growers and the Betty's Flower Shop display that topped all honors last year.

Pilgrimage Motor Company and Randshaw and Trimble Diamond Service Station are newcomers this year but will undoubtedly attract much attention by their displays. Other exhibitors who have participated in previous Shows and who will be on hand with displays again are: S. J. Hollingsworth Co., Mobil's Garage, Boston Supply Co., Kell Motor Co., and Poole Electric Co.
