NEWARK, DELAWARE, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1913

NAME CHOSEN FOR WOMEN'S COLLEGE

CONTRACT AWARDED—WORK TO BE PUSHED RAPIDLY

"Delaware College for Women" is the name. Or at least, that has been selected by the Commission and will probably be approved by the Board of Trustees. This name was selected by the Commission at its meeting held here on Monday.

The revised plans were gone over and practically adopted. L. C. Rogers was selected as the architect to prepare definite plans and specifications, carrying out the ideas of the Commission. As soon as this work is complete the Commission will receive estimates for building. Although the Commission has spent considerable time on the plans, the members feel that they have now designed a plant that will not only afford the needs of the new institution but be within the appropriation. The tentative plans were shown a representative of The Post and the result of their work is most surprising. Utility and service are the dominating features but in addition to this, the architectural lines promise to be most pleasing. The lines are simple but effective and it is the unanimous opinion of the Commission that those sincerely interested in the new institution, will be more than satisfied.

The Commission spent most of the morning on the grounds and the positions of the buildings have been practically decided. In speaking of the site, a member of the Commission said, "We are more enthusiastic over the possibilities of the site, every time we see it. From the standpoint of convenience, and utility, it can't be excelled, and the beauty of the setting has not yet been realized."

With all the enthusiasm over the site and buildings, the question the public wants most to have answered is, "Will the buildings be ready for occupancy September 1914?"

A representative of The Post put this question to several members of the Commission—The Public wants to know, has a right to know whether in your judgement this institution will be ready to be opened as specified in the bill. They realize, of course, that something unforeseen might interfere, that would be excusable. But just what they desire to know now is whether in your judgement, it will be ready by the time specified?"

The reply will be of interest and cancel the effect of doubting rumors. The Commission has had the date of completion always in mind. This point has been discussed with the architects and contractors with whom we have been in consultation. All have agreed that there is no reasonable doubt but that the time specified by the bill will find the buildings ready to be turned over to the Board of Trustees, for the use of the State. We ourselves, feel confident that we shall be able to meet fully the requirements."

With this statement voiced by the Commission parents, teachers and all those interested in the Delaware College for Women can begin work for an effective opening and successful career. The Commission will meet again in a short time to say the final word on the architects drawings, after which real construction will begin.

RED MEN'S HOME PRO-NOUNCED SUCCESS

Board Of Managers Holds Meeting

The Board of Managers of the Red Men's Home at Newark held its annual meeting on Saturday evening. A pleasing report was given of the condition of the Home. At present there are five inmates, and after all expenses are paid, the Board has a balance of $880.12. $1,000 has been spent in improvements on the buildings and grounds.

Those who attended the meeting were: William T. Toppin, Charles McIntyre, William H. Ferguson, Harry B. Sinclair, Harry Dempsey, James McGlothen, George Otwell, Charles M. McName and John F. Lynn.

SMOKER IN ORATORY

Preparations For Saturday's Game

"Do it for Delaware" will be the theme next Friday night when a student smoker will be held in the College oratory. Saturday will be a great day for old Delaware—the occasion of its first game on Frazer Field. Realizing the possibilities of this great event,—possibilities to College athletics, the whole institution—a smoker is to be held. This will be in the nature of a training for boosters. Songs and yells will be practiced; an attempt will be made to coach the red-capped woodpeckers—the Freshmen, in the songs and yells of Old Delaware.

Josiah Marvel, President of the Chamber of Commerce, an honored alumnus of Delaware, will be invited to give a talk. And when it comes to boosting anything worth while, he's the man. Other talks will be made by enthusiasm generators. This is to be a Boost Fest and some there are who think that at this very meeting and Saturday game Delaware will enter upon a new era. The decision will be made that night anyway.

STUDENT COMMITTEE ADOPTS RULES

Defacing And Destroying Property Condemned

At a meeting of the Student Discipline Committee several resolutions were passed. One of these resolutions which will be of special interest to the citizens of Newark is that property shall not be defaced or destroyed. This rule applies to placing of posters and painting of numerals on buildings throughout the town. Following this date the order of dealing with offenders shall be as follows:

"That, if a student, after committing an offense, confesses and apologizes to a member of the committee and repairs the damages, his name shall not be made public; but if he is detected by the committee, his name shall be made public and if the offense is deemed great enough, he shall be recommended to the faculty for suspension or expulsion."

In the event of any violation of these rules information leading to the conviction of the offenders will be received by the members of the Student Discipline Committee.

Newark High School Alumni To Organize

The Alumni of Newark High School will meet in the High School building on Thursday evening, October 9th, at 8 p. m. A constitution will be adopted and permanent organization effected. At the meeting held two weeks ago representatives from the classes graduated from the school were appointed to compile lists of names of their respective classes, and forward same to Miss Bessie Whittingham. All who are eligible for membership are urged to attend.

NEWARK CANNERY RUNNING FULL FORCE

CROP HEAVY—SHORTAGE OF HELP EMBARRASSES PLANT

The glut at the Gilbert cannery near the Old Depot which has been on since the first of last week will probably be broken this week. This is the opinion of Frank Williams, manager of the plant. Mr. Williams states, however, that providing there is no frost the tomato season will not end for two weeks.

There were two reasons for the glut this season. One reason given at the cannery is the large crop and the other a scarcity of experienced peelers. The season was started last year with 65 peelers and this year Mr. Gilbert had but 35. Although he has been trying to get this class of help for some days there are now only 42 peelers at work. The total number of employees in the cannery at this time is about 55.

The season opened this year the first week of September and will close about October 15. Mr. Williams, in discussing the tomato season today, stated that the crop is nearly three times as large in this locality as it was in 1912 and that there is also a better quality of tomatoes.

Mr. Gilbert last year contracted for 260 acres and he put up 11,000 cases of 24 cans to a case. This year he contracted for 230 acres which will turn out 20,000 cases the same size as last season. The contract price is $9 a ton, the same as in 1912. The average yield of the 230 acres will be about 5 tons to the acre although some few growers will have a yield of 12 to 15 tons to the acre.

While there has been a glut for some days it is claimed at the cannery that few of those contracted for have been rejected. The tomatoes have been delivered at the cannery in unusually good condition. At one time there was 8000 baskets on the ground in front of the plant and the capacity at the present time is 2000 to 2200 baskets per day. Up until 10 days ago some tomatoes were received that had not been contracted for, but this was stopped when the glut started. In an effort to work out of the glut the cannery has been operated some over time this week.

DELAWARE'S FOOT BALL SEASON OPENS

Will Be Played On Frazer Field—New Era In Athletic History

Local foot ball enthusiasts are looking forward to Saturday with eager interest when Delaware opens the season with Haverford. This game is of special interest when it is recognized that it will be the christening game of the Frazer Field. Coach McAvoy is keyed up to high pitch and is working hard with his squad. Haverford usually plays good ball and this year promises to be no exception. The visiting team has been down on the seashore for a week practicing. This is of great advantage but the home boys are expecting to give them a good game and put one over on them.

The Athletic Association has invited the Chamber of Commerce of Wilmington to attend the game.

Also, complimentary tickets will be given the local members of the Tri-County base ball league and the Newark Field Club.

It is expected that a big crowd of the old boys will be back and there is every assurance of something doing at Delaware on next Saturday.

Don't forget the hour—2.30 P. M.

AS TO RURAL PUPILS

Local Board Of Education Makes Statement

Inquiries have reached this office from the rural districts relative to the rules affecting scholars from outside districts in attendance at the Newark High School. Owing to the action of the Wilmington Board of Education as reported in the daily papers, a misunderstanding has arisen in the minds of many.

A member of the Board of Education when interviewed this morning concerning the action of the Board stated that the quota apportioned by the county for this High School to be paid for by the State, has been filled. All entering in the future shall be accepted on a free basis, or rejected at the discretion of the local Board.

The Board feels inclined, wherever possible, to admit applicants, but in many cases find themselves in a ramp for room. Those who have entered to date will not be required to pay tuition, as provision has been made for those by the State.

A number of schools in New Castle county are likely to lose State aid this year owing to the failure of clerks to send teachers' contracts to County Superintendent Cross and also in some cases the lists of pupils attending.

BOY SCOUTS HOLD FIRST FIELD MEET

VISITING TEAMS COMPETE WITH NEWARK IN SCOUT SPORTS

The first Boy Scout Field Day ever held in Delaware was held here last Saturday in the presence of a large number of visitors, and was voted a huge success by Scouts and visitors alike. Newark Troop, No. 1, were the hosts and visiting Scouts and Scout representatives were present from Philadelphia, Wilmington and North East. About 100 Scouts were present. Owing to the haste with which the affair was arranged a number of Troops in other towns could not be notified definitely far enough in advance to permit them to prepare for the event, otherwise there would have been a much larger attendance.

The visitors included about 35 of Old Swedes Troop, No. 2, Scout Master, Garrick Mallory, Jr., Wilmington; 20 of Harrison street M. E. Church Troop, No. 6, Scout Master, Mr. Porter, Wilmington; 6 of North East, Md., Scout Master, Rev. J. P. Otis; also a delegation from Troop No. 6, the crack troop of Philadelphia, accompanied by Mr. W. W. Rubeneame, office secretary of the Philadelphia headquarters, and Henry M. Neely, Scout editor of the Philadelphia Evening Telegraph. About 50 Newark Scouts under Scout Master Manns were on the field.

Most of the Scouts were on the field by noon when mess was prepared, this being in the form of a cooking contest. Following mess the Scouts paraded through the town, and returning to the field entered the various contests. Prof. T. F. Manns, Scoutmaster of the local Troop, had charge of the program and was greatly assisted by Mr. Rubeneame and Mr. Neely. Rev. H. B. Phelps, Rev. W. J. Rowan, Prof. C. A. Short, Prof. Howard K. Preston and Lieutenant Charles C. Herman were the judges. The contests were of special interest to the visitors as demonstrating some of the Scout activities, and were greatly enjoyed. The water boiling contest and dressing race afforded the greatest amusement to the visitors. The boys entered into the contests with good-natured rivalry and the clean, sportsmanlike manner in which the contests were conducted won the approbation of all and set an example older folks would profit by following, especially in the matter of co-operation.

The contests, winners and prizes were as follows: Dog tent pitching contest, conducted by one full patrol in full marching order, accompanied by troop leader, and four tents. Newark won both first and second prizes, these being a pedometer and knife.

Water boiling contest, between teams of two boys each, the object being to bring a pint of water to the boiling point in the shortest space of time. Warren Cooper and James Morford, team from Old Swedes, first, time 3 minutes and 19 seconds; Barrett Connor and William Johnson from same troop, second; and Raymond Fader and Gilbert Chambers from Newark Troop, third. Prizes were, first, base ball glove; second, book, "Camp and Trail."

Verbal relay race, which consisted of teams of four boys each, relaying a verbal message to each other and the fourth boy delivering the message to the judge. Accuracy counted first and speed second. Newark won both first and second prizes, Scout axe and haversack.

Signalling, Morse and Semaphore. Each signal team consisted of sender and assistant and receiver and assistant. Old Swedes won for both speed and accuracy in (continued on page 4)

APPROPRIATE SERVICES MARK ANNIVERSARY

The 208th anniversary of old St. Anne's P. E. Church, near Middletown, on last Sunday was an event filled with interest for all who appreciate the old land marks of the commonwealth.

The service, which was largely attended began at 10.30 in the morning. The sermon was preached by the Rt. Rev. Lewis W. Burton, bishop of the Diocese of Lexington, Ky. Bishop Frederick J. Kinsman of Delaware was also present and assisted in the service. Rev. Percy L. Donaghy, rector, also officiated. Special music was furnished by St. Anne's choir.

Old St. Anne's is one of the oldest of the very old churches of the state. Its 200th anniversary was celebrated in 1905, during the pastorate of the Rev. W. J. Wilkie, now of Stamford, N. Y., making this year the 208th anniversary. It has been generally agreed that 1705 should be assigned as the birth year of the parish, while there were parishes existing not far away in Maryland. What led to the movement in 1705 is not known, but it is hard not to connect it with the memorable journey of George Kieft, the pioneer missionary of the S. P. G. Kieft journeyed from New England to North Carolina, about 800 miles, to ascertain the spiritual conditions of the colonists. It is probable that Mr. Kieft visited St. Anne's, as it is known that he was in New Castle in 1703.

The first structure was of wood, and built before the people had any settled minister, but very early they applied for a missionary for themselves; and the Rev. Mr. Jenkins was sent to them from England. This pastor gathered together a congregation of 200 persons. In the early days of Mr. Jenkins' ministry, Queen Anne expressed her interest in the parish by sending an embroidered altar cloth, a portion of which, bearing her initials, A. R., is still preserved.

Different pastors were stationed here until 1746, when the Rev. Philip Reading came from England and began a pastorate, which lasted thirty years. At the breaking out of the Revolution, Mr. Reading, who was a staunch royalist, refused to read the service with out including the prayers for the king, and was obliged to desist from his ministrations. He died in 1778 and was buried near the door of the church.

The Rev. John Coleman, father of the late Bishop Coleman, was rector of the church in 1835.

On May 19, 1847, a lockwood, consisting of Richard C. Lockwood, Captain John H. Smith and George Derrielson, was appointed to consider the propriety of making extensive alterations in the interior of the church. Sixty-three square perches of land were presented to the parish by John Smith, a rector, who was built and furniture for the latter was bequeathed to the vestry by Mrs. Natalie Green.

The new St. Anne's Church with in the town limits was built in 1892 and on April 4 was consecrated by the bishop of the diocese. The new church is used for all the services except the annual anniversary meeting, which is held at the old church.

Equal Suffrage Convention

The State Equal Suffrage Association and the Wilmington Equal Suffrage Association met in joint session Monday afternoon when arrangements were made for the State Suffrage convention which will be held in Wilmington Thursday, November 6. It is planned to have a demonstration late in November, previous to the regular session of Congress. The arrangements will be made in the near future. Two thousand more of the "Votes for Women" cards which the members are having signed, were ordered to be printed.

"Along The Kennebec"

Well Known Company To Present Play

Love and pathos, intermingled with contagious humor, framed in a picture of rural simplicity, are the ingredients of success of "Along the Kennebec," the newest New England play which will be the attraction at the Newark Opera House.

No play written on this popular theme has proven more successful and it bids fair to rival in popularity the most attractive plays of modern times. Special care has been taken securing the company and the scenic production is unsurpassed. The piece is full of god laughter. The company carry an unusually good band and orchestra this season.

Don't forget the date—Oct. 6! —Adv.

The Marvels Of The Newspaper

What a wonderful work is a newspaper—a work of art and science! Six ages have not been enough to complete the Cathedral at Cologne, and one day suffices to finish the immense labor of a newspaper. We are unable to measure the degrees of life, of light, of progress that are to be found in each leaf of progress that are to be found in each leaf of the immortal book which forms the press. We find in a journal everything, from the notices relating to the most obscure individuals, to the speech which is delivered from the highest tribunal, and which affects all intelligence; from the passing thought excited by the account of a ball, to the criticism of those works of art destined to immortality. This marvelous sheet is the encyclopedia of our time; an encyclopedia which necessitates an incalculable knowledge—a knowledge whose power our generation cannot deny—a knowledge which is the condensation of the learning of a century.

The Philosophy Of Living

It is but lately that botanists have convinced the public of the true significance of the gorgeous foliage of autumn. People have been wont to think and to speak of it as a sign of decay. We recognize now in the beautiful garments Mother Earth puts on in October the natural and glorious ripening of the year. Fall is the fulfillment of the promise of springtide; the apotheosis of summer.

Some one asked a student of botany why she should be so fond of studying weeds and wild flowers.

"It reminds me of the trick I used to see practised upon my grandfather's farm", she answered. "When the bees took a notion to hive in some outlandish place, the hired man used to beat a tin pan with a stick to keep them from hearing the buzzing of the queen bee. My weeds and wild flowers keep me from hearing the worries that would otherwise upset my nerves and temper. They can't settle, you see!"

That was sound philosophy. By the time you have reached the top of the hill, you ought not to hear the buzzing of the petty cares, for you know then how contemptible they are in themselves, and how slight and temporary will be their effect upon you.

We hear daily of men and women who are "working themselves to death." But work is as surely the friend of man as worry is his deadliest foe. Unless caring care and sickening foreboding are blest with labor, work never kills. Yet worry slays its tens and hundreds of thousands every year.

The person who wishes to live long and beneficently should cultivate the desire to see others as comfortable as he wishes to be himself. He must not regret that others are better off in what makes living pleasant.

Here is a fact that some so-called philanthropists never learn: there lives not the human creature who is wholly uninteresting. Be on the alert to spy something in those whom you meet that will commend them to your regard. Listlessness and the capacity for being bored bring more old people to the grave than disease or actual sorrow. If you have no other "job" in life, make one by forcing yourself to be interested in the welfare of your associates.

From "The Sugar in the Bottom of the Cup," by Marion Harland.

STATE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE

Getting Diseases of Stock Under Control

The State Board of Agriculture is fighting a number of diseases among stock, trying to cope with the damage of the chestnut blight, and striving to generally benefit the farmers throughout the State.

Recently two diseases of stock have been called to the attention of the board as being quite prevalent. One is hog cholera and the other is black leg. So long as its funds are available the board is offering free to farmers expensive serum to fight both diseases and the aid of the board may be obtained by any farmer desiring it by applying to his veterinarian who will procure the serum free of charge from the board.

A number of cases of hog cholera have been reported to the board. To fight this particular disease the board has supplied itself with a quantity of hog cholera serum, which costs $148 a gallon. This is furnished to veterinarians free so that the farmers whose cattle they treat may be relieved of this cost.

Black leg, a disease which is peculiar to young cattle, has also made some inroads. One farmer, whose name cannot be given out at this time, has lost nine of eleven of his young cattle from the disease. His cattle are now under quarantine. For this disease, also, the board is willing to supply all whom they can with black leg serum while funds remain, through the veterinarians engaged by the applicants. This disease is very quick in its action. Cattle in many cases die a few days after taken with it. It caught in time the disease can be prevented from causing death, but the remedy must be applied promptly. Cattle under six months and over two years old are not usually subject to black leg. Horses and mules also seem to be proof from it. This disease cannot be transmitted to persons, either, as is the case with anthrax.

Black leg may be detected by passing the hand over the cattle. If affected a sort of crackling feeling under the skin of the cattle can be detected. The part of the cattle affected is very sensitive to pressure.

The board is also receiving a number of reports of chestnut blight in many vicinities surrounding Wilmington, particularly in Brandywine hundred and Delaware county, Pa. The blight is more easily detected at this time of the year, when the leaves are still

Concerning Postage Stamps

The Post Office Department will not ordinarily redeem postage-stamps that are torn, mutilated, or stuck together; but if you have bought one of the little stamp-books that contain a dozen or two stamps separated by paraffin paper and then find any of them stuck together, you can have them redeemed by forwarding them to the Postmaster-General at Washington.

The recount of ballots cast for nominee for Sheriff at the recent Democratic primaries in Cecil county was completed on Wednesday. On the official returns John A. Morgan of Elkton received 1043 votes and Richard K. Barnes of Charlestown 1042. Barnes asked for the recount which was conducted by the Election Supervisors who found a total of 1012 for Morgan and 980 for Barnes. V. B. Algard got 49 votes on the official count and 46 on the recount. Morgan's plurality 32. The vote of the Eighth district, 39 for Barnes, 17 for Morgan and 2 for Algard, was thrown out as the election judge had placed his initials on the ballots instead of the envelopes. But if the district had been counted Morgan would have had 10 plurality.

The recent frequent burglaries in Wilmington has led to a demand for an increase of the police force. It is said that 10 or perhaps 20 additional officers will be employed, some to serve as detectives. The City Council will, it is expected, take action upon the matter tonight or tomorrow night.

The Wilmington Savings Fund Society made the best of eleven offered for the $100,000 bond issue, the first of a total of $900,000 to be made to defray the cost of the new City Hall. The Society offered to take $60,000 worth of the bonds at par and accrued interest and the remaining $40,000 worth on the same terms in November. The other bids, mostly of bond brokers, were slightly below par.

A rat gnawing his arm as lay in bed aroused Harry Brubaker, employed at the home Dr. E. P. Burnham, at Tenth and Jefferson streets Wilmington, one morning last week. He attacked the rat with a cane but it bit him on the leg before he managed to throw a bath robe over it and killing it with the cane.

Harvey Whittington, 24 years old, Edward Hastings, 23, and William Wilson, 25, chauffeurs, of Wilmington were hurled out of an automobile owned by Michael Sexton of Ninth and Van Buren streets when it swerved and struck a telegraph pole on the Concord pike, near Lombardy Cemetery on Friday. Whittington had been repairing the car and had taken Hastings and Wilson with him for a test run. The car was going at high speed and dropped into the side ditch. Trying to guide it back upon the road Whittington failed to avoid the pole. He and Hastings are at Delaware Hospital with their skulls fractured and suffering from other injuries. Wilson was able to go to his home but has a leg and arm crushed, a cut on his arm and gashes on his face.

Senator Sandbury is said to regard the chances as still good for the choice of Alfred Raughley of Harrington for Collector of Internal Revenue for the Maryland Delaware district. The Maryland Democratic leaders find difficulty in agreeing upon the choice of a man for the place and if they do not soon unite on a selection the plum may go to Delaware.

Left in charge of a three-year old child, one day last week, the 16 months old baby of Earl Rogers of Sycamore, Sussex county, was drowned in a tub of water set in the yard for horses to drink from. The child dropped a cup in the tub and in trying to recover it the baby was drowned.

Hynson Anderson, known as "Blinky," a tough young negro of Elkton, who, some time ago, escaped conviction for breaking open and robbing Theodore Panaretos' Candy Kitchen, was found guilty in Court on Friday of assault with intent to kill David Anderson, colored, on the night of September 4. They each fired several shots at each other but David was used as a State witness against "Blinky," who was given three years in the penitentiary as an example to other brawlers who frequently raise rows in the colored quarter of the town.

The Basis Of Choice

In the September Atlantic Monthly some one inquires as to the preferences we show for certain kinds of low animal life; he asks why man cares nothing for the grasshopper, but will take pains not to kill a cricket; why the fable was written to show the grasshopper, instead of some other creature living the same kind of life, as wasteful. Our favoring of the squirrel while we hate rats, of the dogs while all mankind except naturalists and gardeners alike dislike the toads, and the liking we have for the snail while the equally patient crawler, the caterpillar, is disliked, causes this writer only wonderment; he plainly does not understand it. But the answer is obvious. The whole matter is economic. For a thousand generations man has suffered from the grasshopper which came to devour his property. The cricket, cheerful and sleek looking, seldom if ever does any noticeable damage. We like squirrels because our ancestors liked them—in the soup kettle. But we do not like the rats because they have not only been poor eating, but have cunningly managed to destroy food so as to prevent man from eating. The snail is seen with pleasure; millions of our ancestors saw the creature with more pleasure; they have meant dinners, and still mean food in Switzerland, France and other countries. In early times the cave-dwelling and tree-dwelling children crawled around and ate snails and similar small packages of meat whenever they found them. The most beautiful child in the most luxurious palace of today shows where the race came from as to earthly wealth, by putting everything into its mouth to see if it is good; that habit used to keep babies from starving to death in famine times. But the caterpillar is always destroying food for man; naturally man does not like to see him. The toad is disliked because he is disagreeable to deal with and to ancestors of ours they were poor food. Our dislike of the snake is an illustration of inherited tendencies, though the Atlantic writer does not mention that creature. When our great-grand-grandmothers lived in trees and "woman's place" was the home, because the beasts of prey liked young children the snake could make an afternoon call and diminish the population in spite of the women. To this day a woman seeing a snake unexpectedly will scream, and the scream is vibrant with a million tragedies of days now past. If you would understand why the animal, bird or insect world acts as it does, and why man acts as he does in most cases, just find out the material basis for the acts. The beaver submerges poles to have plenty of green bark, makes his dam or shelter of water around his house, and for a private fish pond. The robin builds on your window ledge for a material reason, using your house as a warship captain uses a land fort to protect him from his enemies. The likes and dislikes of all domestic animals are recognizable, for the most part, as examples of financial affairs. Economic determinism, as it is called, is the explanation of everything that does not proceed from the higher faculties of the soul or of character. Iron Hill, Md. O. R. Washburn.

That Touch of Refinement

No matter how expensive the furnishings of your home may be if the feeling of appropriateness and refinement is lacking, you cannot be satisfied.

This is especially true of the bathroom as it should accord with the rest of the home in the quiet appropriate design of its furnishings, and here good taste is so evident.

Good health, as well as appearances, must be considered, for true refinement is shown by that deeper unobtrusive feeling which pervades the home, but is best and chiefly shown by the appointments for the health and comfort of the household.

SPORTSMANSHIP

One of the prides of Delaware College is clean athletics. She has won some games and lost many on both gridiron and diamond. But ever, at least in our recollection, the ideal set forth has been clean sport. There is perhaps no institution in the country where the regulations, tending toward real sport, are so rigidly enforced. The man who plays on the Delaware Varsity is a good sport. His position there has been won and is maintained, not only by his prowess on the field but by his standing in the class rooms. In this we who are acquainted look at the Delaware player with a peculiar sense of pride. He is, in every sense of the word, an honor man.

At times, we drift old-fashionedly into opposing the game of football as too rough for manly sport. But that is not the issue, just now. When we see Delaware play, we wax enthusiastic. Lack of unfair play and advantage, leads us to think it makes for strong men rather than weaklings.

Just while we are talking of clean sport, it is pertinent that we mention Coach McAvoy. Friends of the College, Alumni and student body expect him to develop a winning team and are far too prone to criticize defeats. He plays, and plays hard to win but first he has imbued the whole student body with that first and greater requirement—"Be a good, clean Sport."

Let us, who know his code, his methods, herald it abroad that Delaware stands first for sportsmanship, in very fact as well as in name. Luck to you, Delaware!

LET WAGNER LIVE WHERE HE PLEASES

What's all this hullabaloo over where the Commissioner of Education Wagner shall live? The Dover Index has simply raised old Ned because he didn't rent one of their vacant houses. In an editorial column and then some long, by this lack of charity on Wagner's part, the Index has proven conclusively that he's not equal to the job—they always wanted a Delawarean any way. Then here comes the Evening Journal with a column (extra wide) of statistics showing where every body lives.

Let the man live where he pleases. If the State had designated his place of residence, Newark without doubt would have been selected. Senator Furness would agree with us in this stand. At the last session of the Legislature, he remarked in the Senate one day that it might be wise to turn the whole State machinery over to Newark and every body go home. Senator Rinehardt showed similar symptoms of wisdom.

Newark is the head of the educational system of the State. In granting the recent new charter for the College by the General Assembly, specific mention is made of the relation of the College to the Public School System. This is an expression of the College on the wisdom of co-operation whereby both would be better able to serve the needs of the State.

Commissioner Wagner was invited by College authorities to make his headquarters at Newark with the view of close relationship between the institution and the Public School System. He decided otherwise and for reasons, personal to himself perhaps. At least it is none of our business where he lives. It's his service with which we are concerned. And from observation of his work at the Summer School we'll miss our guess if he doesn't wake things up in Delaware. And this "crying provincialism" (quoting the Journal) about why he should live in Dover is the most conclusive proof that we need it. In fact the Dover "provincialism" (quoting Journal again) is the best argument that he should be in specially close touch with conditions there. By way of parenthesis it might be said that the reason he did not vote to Newark is probably because there wasn't a vacant house in town. Seems Newark has struck such a gait, we can't supply the demand.

PEOPLES' COLUMN

Houses Without Water

Editor of The Post: Will not the Post use its influence to abate the very serious inconvenience to which house holders are put during the sewer work in the town. As the huge digging machine progresses it tears up all pipes connecting houses with the water main on the north side of Main street and until workmen can replace the pipes two or three hours later the houses are without a drop of running water. Of course it is impossible to avoid short interruption of the water service but if Contractor Jacobs would order some of his employes to notify each householder a half-hour before the water connection was broken so that a sufficient supply for cooking and washing could be drawn in advance how much discomfort and carrying of water from neighbors could be prevented! No doubt the Contractor will extend this little act of courtesy to householders if you call his attention to the complaints heard all through the town. One of the Sufferers.

We are confident that this inconvenience is the result of oversight on the part of some of the workmen, not of Contractor Jacobs.

Our reason for this interpretation is that Contractor Jacobs stopped in the office of the Post when the digger was first put in service and asked that we mention this particular point. He said at that time that all households would be notified previous to cutting off the supply of water and that he had given instructions to that effect. We say this in fairness to Mr. Jacobs and feel sure the remedy will be forthcoming.—Ed.

SQUIBS

"Delaware College for Women Affiliated with Delaware College" has been changed to "Delaware College for Women." A sensible change. The former one sounded like Lancaster County yet.

If you see a Bird with a red cap, it may be a woodpecker—or it may not, as the case may be.

If color denotes any thing, this Freshman Class will be a hot bunch.

A good College Professor is a man who works harder, gets less money and credit than any one I know—unless it be—

Let's go to the game Saturday and whoop it up for Delaware.

It was rumored on the street but we think it merely gossip that every member of the Faculty who fails to be on the Athletic Field next Saturday to witness the Foot Ball Game will be docked 3 months salary. As we said, we believe it is only a rumor—yet it might be a good thing to be on the safe side.

I saw a map of Delaware the other day that had Ogletown marked but not Newark. How's that for Fate?

Of course there are several places in Delaware where good printing is done—but about the best place I know is the Shop of The Post.

A man came in recently and was inquiring about the rates of advertising. He said he wanted space in the paper edited by the biggest crank in town. Through the open door, we heard our man say, "Well, that's us. The Post meets your every requirement." How's that for loyal service!

Injured In Runaway

William Hardy, who carries the mail from the Newark postoffice to the trains, was slightly injured in a runaway accident last Saturday afternoon on Main street, when he was thrown from the carriage.

Freshmen Elect Officers

At a meeting held last Monday the Freshman class elected the following officers: President, Wilson O'Daniel; vice-president, Harold W. Horsey; secretary, Harvey W. Ewing; treasurer, Robert H. Pepper.

both codes. Prizes, Scout axe, watch and haversack.

Antelope race, consisting of teams of seven Scouts, each holding to the belt of Scout in front of him, running down field to troop leader holding staff, the object being to seize this staff, the troop leader then grabbing on to belt of last Scout and the eight returning to starting point without a break. Old Swedes won first prize, a base ball bat; Harrison street, second, book; and Newark third.

The prizes for the dressing race, in which the Scouts successively place on the ground their hats, coats, puttees, and shoes, then race to see which one can dress quickest, was won by Newark, first prize, serroll saw, and second, Scout manual.

A base ball mitt, donated by Cofer, Price and Co., to be awarded to troop winning highest number of points, was awarded to Newark Troop with 31 points, Old Swedes being second with 29.

The First Aid was in the nature of an exhibition and no prizes were awarded in these numbers. In the Stretcher race a stretcher was improvised from coats and staves and the patient brought in. Newark came in first, and North East second. In the Fireman's Lift Newark came in first and Old Swedes second. Resuscitation of a drowned person was demonstrated by Old Swedes Troop, and was a highly interesting and instructive exhibition. They also gave an exhibition with the heliograph, probably the only one owned by Scouts in the State.

A very enthusiastic letter was received from Scoutmaster Mallery of Old Swedes, praising the splendid location of the field and the sportsmanlike manner in which the contests were conducted, and declaring that he and his Scouts had a "mighty fine time from start to finish."

The North East Troop, though not very old, showed up splendidly, the boys entering with zest into all the contests.

This was the first time the townspeople as a whole have been given an opportunity to witness the Scouts at their various activities and it was a pleasant surprise and revelation to them to learn to what a splendid organization the boys belong. Nothing but praise for the organization and the Scouts has been heard on all sides and many promises of assistance and co-operation have been given. Persons attending the Field Day Meet could not be otherwise than greatly impressed with the wonderful educational value of the organization. It is only necessary to attend some such Scout affair to become enthusiastic as the Scouts themselves.

The First Aid is an especially valuable feature of the Scouts' education and is of sufficient importance to warrant the support of the movement by everyone. It may mean the saving of many lives that would otherwise be lost because of lack of this very knowledge. And this is but one of the many valuable things taught the Scouts. Merit badges are awarded the boys for passing examinations in various useful subjects.

The local boys are very enthusiastic over the success of the affair and declare that next year's shall be as the circus posters declare—"bigger and better than ever."

The thanks of the local troop and of the visiting troops is extended to the judges and the authorities who permitted the use of the field and to Mr. Rubenecame and Mr. Neely, and to all those who so kindly assisted in any way to make the affair such a fine success.

A Good Investment For The Family

In these days of wide vision and broad interests, when what happens at a distance is often of as much concern to intelligent folk as what happens in their own communities, every family ought to subscribe for at least one well-edited city newspaper. For people who measure newspaper value by quality rather than by bulk, there is none better for the purpose of keeping in touch with the progress of events at home and abroad than "The Philadelphia Record."

"The Philadelphia Record" is clean, alert and reliable. It prints the news without color or distortion, as concisely as possible, but always readably. Its daily departments cater to a wide range of interests and tastes. It is a recognized authority on sports, household affairs and fashions. Its market quotations are the standard by which transactions in farm products are governed throughout the territory it serves. Thorough covering of the new fields of its own and neighboring States has always been a valuable "Record" feature, and one which its army of readers in the smaller cities and towns of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland appreciate. There is information and entertainment in "The Philadelphia Record" for every member of the family, and a subscription to that newspaper is a profitable investment in the interest of the home.—Adv.

AROUND HOCKESSIN

The invitation extended by Harmony Grange to Diamond State of Stanton, was accepted last Monday evening by about forty members of the latter organization. The guests furnished the literary program of the evening which was thoroughly enjoyed by the hundred persons present.

The opening number, a grange melody, sung in unison, was followed by a reading by Mrs. Benjamin Groves; a vocal duet by Mrs. Dieckoy and Miss McCoy; a reading by Mrs. John Mitchell; recitation by Benjamin Groves; vocal duet Lora and Elizabeth Little. Messrs. Hoeffeker and Snyder of Delaware Grange gave short talks, also Mr. Yearsley of Hockessin Grange.

A feature of the program which created much laughter was the charade, acted by members of the visiting Grange. The word "pageant" was cleverly illustrated to the delight of the audience. The program closed with the singing of "Old Oaken Bucket" by a selected quartette. Refreshments of cake, fruit punch and candies were served by Harmony Grange. The room had been attractively decorated with rare and beautiful dahlias grown by Mrs. Hervey Walker and Mrs. William Peach.

THE CONSOLIDATED HIGH SCHOOLS A PROBLEM LESSON FROM NEW ENGLAND

While superintendent in Sussex County, I was anathematized because I favored the consolidation of the rural schools. Fate worked a peculiar trick with me when she transferred me from Sussex county, Delaware, to a superintendency in Middlesex county, Massachusetts where the idea of consolidation originated and where it is practically universal.

The summer after my arrival here, and before I had had time to get familiar with educational conditions, one of my principals came to me and said that it would be necessary for him to have employment during the summer vacation. He asked my advice as to what he should do. I had just investigated a new schoolroom stove that ventilated a one room building and heated it equally throughout. I suggested that he sell this stove. It would be profitable to him and a god-send to the school children.

He returned in about a week very much discouraged. "Mr. Brooks, there are no one-room school buildings in Middlesex county. They are all consolidated. The commissioners get indignant at the idea of the school-buildings being improperly heated and ventilated. They have the most modern, up-to-date systems."

One lady commissioner in the town of Lincoln was especially incensed and demanded if he thought they were barbarians enough to keep their children in one room pens with insufficient air and improper heat.

I determined to visit Lincoln. I was all the more interested because I recalled that the first experiment in consolidation in the United States was in Lincoln, Mass., when they became one of several towns that conveyed their pupils to the Central High School at Concord.

Lincoln, Mass., has a population about equal in number to Greenwood, Delaware. It was scattered however, over an area about half the size of Cedar Creek. There is practically no central village.

I found the building a beautiful one of red brick. Nice walks bordered by flower beds led up to it from the road. Back of it was about three acres of playgrounds. This had a base ball diamond, a foot ball gridiron and various other play apparatus. A part of the ground was devoted to growing flowers and vegetables. Here the children were taught scientific agriculture in the only practical way.

The school had an enrollment of one hundred and fifty pupils classified in eight grades. About twenty-five per cent of the children walked to school, the best were conveyed by three two-horse barges, and an automobile which brought those most distant. School called at 8.45 a. m. and dismissed at 1.15 p. m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. On Tuesday and Thursday they dismissed at 2.15 p. m. Each day a half hour intermission is given for lunch.

The building had five class-rooms. There were four regular teachers and an assistant. The assistant had the fifth room. To her were sent all backward pupils, all pupils that by reason of sickness or absence or other causes were behind their grades. She gave them special aid and instruction. When they got in step with the grade work they were returned to their regular classes. The building had a neat office for the school commissioners.

The Output Of American Colleges

The original purpose of American colleges was mainly to train men for the ministry, but so it is no longer. Harvard, founded chiefly to educate clergymen, now gives to this profession barely 2 per cent of her graduates; Yale, begun under similar impulses, now contributes a meagre 3 per cent. This and other interesting changes in the professions favored by college graduates are described in a bulletin by Bailey B. Buritt on "Professional Distribution of University and College Graduates," just issued by the United States bureau of education.

The decline in the numbers going into the ministry has been accompanied by a rise in the professions of teaching, law and business. All three have been more or less consistent gainers at the expense of the ministry.

When the older colleges were established boys who expected to be the business men of the community rarely gave much thought to "higher education." That was for the "learned professions," most often, in the early days, the ministry. It is only of recent years that men with business careers ahead of them have taken advantage of college opportunities.

At Harvard the ministry yielded the leadership to law after the Revolutionary War, and law remained the dominant profession of Harvard graduates until 1880, when business took the lead. At Yale the ministry competed successfully with law until after the middle of the nineteenth century, when law took the ascendancy and kept it until 1895, being then displaced by business. At the University of Pennsylvania one-fourth of the graduates used to go into the ministry; now about one-fifth do so. Oberlin College, founded with strong denominational tendencies, shows the same story of the decline in numbers of men going into the ministry. At the University of Michigan, out of an army of over 15,000 graduates only 188 have become ministers.

Aside from their contributions to the clergy, most of the universities have had favorite professions. At Columbia, Dartmouth, and Michigan for instance, it is law; at Pennsylvania it is medicine; at Oberlin, Wisconsin and many others, particularly the co-educational institutions, it is teaching; while a few of the universities, Brown for example, have shown an impartial spirit, dividing up their strength almost equally among four leading professions.

A final summary of 37 representative colleges shows that teaching is now the dominant profession of college graduates, with 25 per cent; business takes 20 per cent; law, which took one third of all the graduates at the beginning of the nineteenth century, now claims but 15 per cent; medicine takes between 6 and 7 per cent and seems to be slightly on the decline; engineering is slowly going up, but still takes only 3 or 4 per cent; while the ministry, with its present 5 or 6 per cent of the total, has reached the lowest mark for that profession in two and a half centuries of American college history.

Speak Distinctly When Telephoning

Many errors in telephone calls are due to indistinct enunciation and to the confusion of numbers which sound so much alike over the telephone—for example: Eighty-three and thirty-three, seven and eleven.

In calling a number speak plainly with your lips close to the telephone mouthpiece. Separate the number as one-two-oh-three. Correct the operator if she repeats the wrong number.

Never take a number from a card or memorandum, for numbers are occasionally changed. The current issue of the directory is the surest—the only guide.

YALE Is Only Another Way Of Spelling SECURITY

It is without doubt the Final Word in Locks To have a Yale Lock means you can rest contented.

The world is not quite good enough to leave every thing unlocked. And when you turn the key at night why not have a lock that is really secure?

If you just want a padlock, any kind of a padlock will do.

If you want security, then look for the name Yale on the padlock you buy.

For 40 years the name Yale on a padlock has meant greatest security, best design for each purpose, most value for what you pay.

What do you want to lock up? We have the right Yale Padlock for it.

"Please close that door."

Ever say that? You won't have to do it again if you use Blount or Yale Door Checks.

They close doors silently and firmly. All you hear is the click of the latch.

Better drop in and see our work.

side of the bowl with the deftness of forty instead of four.
 At supper time Hannah May was grinding meat in the chopping machine. She helped her mother wipe the dishes. She hulled berries and shelled peas. She even sifted flour for biscuits. A few days later the mistress found her alone in the dining room.
 "What are you doing here?" she asked her.

"I'm settin' the table, ma'am," replied Hannah May with great matter-of-factness.
 "Indeed she was. It took her a long time to do it, but she set the table like a grown-up person. Later in the day she was found cutting out cookies and biscuits and putting them in the pan. She was teaching the other children to perform this fascinating work. Hannah May was busy all the time at something.

"No'm," her mother told her employer, "I don't ax her to do nothin' she don't hanker to do. She's too little to be made to work, but she mostly likes doin' somethin' and she just is natchul gift-ed."

Of course, other children in the house had never been allowed to do any useful work in the kitchen, but Sarah didn't mind children musing up the kitchen for her and it presently appeared that Hannah May's natural gift for kitchen work was catching. The children pared potatoes with unbelievable patience. Sarah would repeat, "No, honey, don't you hold your knife like that. Your sure cut your self that away. Catch a hold on it like this," and she would wait until the child had realized how it should take hold of the knife.

This woman was a natural teacher, and by her willingness to show children how to do work of various sorts she differed from most grown-up people who, "while they love children, don't want to be bothered with them underfoot while they are working." The things these children were learning under the direction of Sarah was work admirably adapted for young children. They were learning to do things for themselves. And all natural children who have not been badly trained love to do things by themselves. They love to do everything that makes their bodies serviceable to them in the highest degree.

But public sentiment is slow, uncertain in its movements if not guided and led by a definite and logical aim. We need to crystallize sentiment. We need action! Each year means billions of dollars wasted. We need a well defined plan to follow and public sentiment will push it along.

The National Highways Association has devised, after an exhaustive study, a plan and the only plan yet advanced for a comprehensive and unified system of Good Roads. Everywhere in these United States at no permanent expense to the nation but a source of revenue.

This system of National Highways of not to exceed 50,000 miles (only 2 per cent of our mileage) is so located as to serve over fifty (50) per cent of our population. At the high figure of $10,000 per mile, this system would cost $500,000,000. A lot of money, but it will all come back many times over. The United States Government gave $1,000,000,000, twice this amount, to our privately owned railroads to help build them which will never come back (except indirectly). Cannot it afford to spend one-half the amount in building our highways when it will be returned? Would not this do more good to more people? Yes, a thousand times over.

To say nothing of the fact that such expenditures would in years to come be returned to the whole people in the ultimate earnings thus brought about, paying for themselves and bringing in a larger income than is coming into the nation today from all sources.

Major Richard S. Rodney was elected on Saturday to succeed his father, who died recently, as a trustee of the New Castle Commons by 13 votes in a contest with A. M. Gallagher and Dr. R. R. Roth.

MASONIC LODGE IN ANNUAL SESSION
 Pleasing Report From Masonic Home

The Grand Lodge of Delaware, A. F. & A. M. met in annual session in Wilmington today. One of the interesting features of the meeting was the financial condition of the new Masonic Home on Lancaster turnpike.

The report not only shows the home entirely free from debt, but it presents figures as to the amount of money which has been set aside for endowment purposes. Considering that the time has been so short since the opening of the beautiful building, the public no doubt is proud of the fact that the order has established this institution so firmly.

While practically all the large improvements to the property were complete when the home was dedicated, many smaller improvements have since been made. The beautiful grounds surrounding the home have been beautified, improved lanes leading from the turnpike to the buildings have been completed, bronze sign to designate the property has been erected at the entrance and other improvements have been made.

There are now seven persons living in the home and three more are to go there. Accommodations are available for about 18. Detailed announcements concerning the affairs of the home to be made at the meeting of the Grand Lodge will be awaited with interest not only by the Masons themselves, but the public as well.

Novel Detective Stories
 Series To Appear In Philadelphia North American

A new writer of detective stories who within the last year has startled English and American readers by producing an entirely new line of stories of crime mysteries, is about to be exploited by the Sunday North American.
 Sax Rohmer is the name of the new writer, and the stories of the series relate the battle of wits between Neyland Smith, one of Scotland Yard's brightest mystery solvers, and Dr. Fu Manchu, a mysterious Oriental, whose resourcefulness and courage in the committing of crime are enough to test the ability of the world's greatest sleuths.

The Fu Manchu stories represent the biggest thing in detective fiction since the Sherlock Holmes productions. They are absolutely new and altogether different from any other detective stories ever written. They will prove diverting to any reader of modern fiction, because they represent the very best of the novelties.

The first of the series of ten stories will be printed in the Sunday North American for October 5.

MONTESSORI METHODS IN THE HOME

Old Mammy's Philosophy Of Child Life

In an article, "The New Freedom for Little Children," by Mary Heaton Vorse, published in the October number of the Woman's Home Companion, the following conversation with Sarah, a colored cook is given as illustrative of the opportunities that come to the American mother for the application of the Montessori method in the home:

"Hannah May, she's my little girl. She's four years old an' 'tain't good for no four-year-old child to be lef' home when her mammy's out workin'. So when I engage for a place I jes' natchally bring Hannah May 'long with me."

Sarah was told Hannah May might come, provided she did not interfere with the work.

"Law, ma'am, Hannah May he'ps me. Hannah May she's got a natchul gift fo' kitchen work an' housework."

Next day when the mistress went out in the kitchen, Hannah May, black as a coal, was preparing to beat eggs for a pudding.

"Hannah May," her mother admonished, "don't you beat no mo' eggs than what yo' got fingers on yo' hands. Yo' got five fingers on yo' hands. Hold yo' hand up so Mammy can look at 'em. Now yo' tell off one egg fo' every one finger—five."

"Won't she spoil those eggs," the mistress inquired.

"Law, ma'am," Sarah replied, "I learned Hannah May to break an egg right deft long ago. Nothin' small children like so much as to bus' an egg out an egg shell. All they got to do is to be learned how to hit 'em right."

Hannah May, it seemed, adored beating eggs. The only difficulty was in preventing Hannah May from beating all the eggs in the house. She broke them over the

GOVERNMENT ROADS

T. C. duPont's Views On The Subject

Writing on government roads, T. Coleman duPont says:

National Highways, built, owned, maintained and controlled by the Federal government under the direction of a National Highway Commission, that will pay for themselves and ultimately be a source of income, constitute the one and only logical plan so far suggested to bring about a unified and effective system of highways throughout the entire country. But next in importance to a strong national sentiment to push ahead the cause of National Highways and good roads everywhere in some comprehensive plan of action. Public spirit is awakening to our overwhelming lack of good road facilities and their attendant evils.

Cars Run Over B. & O. Road

Many of our citizens noticed through trains marked "Pennsylvania" running over the B. & O. road on Sunday afternoon. This was an account of a freight wreck near Bengies, Md., 12 miles north of Baltimore.

An axle broke on one of the cars of an extra freight running north, and south bound tracks were so badly derailed that both north and south bound tracks were blocked for several hours. The accident occurred at 11.30 and the train service had not become normal before 7.30.

When the railroad officials saw that the tie-up would be lengthy they arranged to run trains over the B. & O. tracks around the wrecked train. Eight south-bound trains and six north-bound were derailed over the tracks of the other company.

The road bed was torn up and there was considerable damage to the contents of the cars. That the accident was not more serious was due to the fact that the train was running only about twenty miles an hour.

Hundred S. S. Convention In Christiansa

The 13th annual convention of the White Clay Creek Hundred Sunday School Association will be held in the Christiansa Presbyterian church on Tuesday afternoon and evening, October 14th. The program will be announced in a later issue.

An Appeal

The New Century Club is collecting newspapers and magazines for the benefit of the Building Fund and as the fall housecleaning is at hand beg to ask the housekeepers of Newark to save those they wish to dispose of for the Club.

Arrangements will be made to collect them, the date to be announced later. Those having papers, etc., will confer a favor by phoning 109L and to facilitate handling may we ask those kind enough to save them to tie together the papers and magazines in separate bundles.

Agricultural Club Plays Host

Tomorrow evening the Agricultural Club will informally entertain the Freshmen in Agriculture. Speeches by the various members of the Faculty and of the Experimental Station staff will be interspersed with songs and stories. An orchestra of ten pieces will add pleasure to the evening. The club has received a barrel of the best apples produced by Kent county, specimens of what some boys, lately of the Agricultural department at Delaware are doing in the fruit-growing world. The Agricultural Club reception is an annual affair and introduces the winter schedule of work done by the club. This year all the notebook paper used in the agricultural courses has been standardized. Before the year is out the club will begin publishing "The Delaware Farmer," the new agricultural journal of the students.

New Organ Expected Soon

The Organ Committee of the M. E. Church, Newark, is daily expecting word from the factory telling of the shipment of the new pipe organ, which they hope to have ready for use by Sunday, October 13th. Mr. Frank B. Hills, instructor in Animal Husbandry at Delaware College, has been engaged as organist and choir master.

Popular Play To Be Presented At Opera House

The piece is now in its third successful season and has met with popular approval wherever presented, and has been used as a text by two ministers in their sermons. The play is full of comedy hits. It is comedy that a girl or woman can laugh at and not blush at the same time. The burlesque duel scene in the third act between Zeke Dasher and Bunlick Tubbs is said to be one scream from start to finish and five other comedy characters keep the audience in a happy frame of mind. All special scenery is carried for the production, and it is said to be strictly a scenic production from first act to last. Some pleasing singing and character specialties are introduced during the action of the piece, and "Along the Kennebec" sends its audience home feeling pleased and satisfied that "Along the Kennebec" had been in town.

Don't forget the date—Oct. 6! —Adv.

Old Man Praises Boy Scouts

Newark, at it again! This enthusiasm is simply as contagious as the measles. Staid old Newark, got to be first or simply lose interest in the game. The latest is the Boy Scout Field Day. I have been interested in them since their organization but failed to realize the extent of the work they are doing. And before I knew it, they have a Field Day Meet with invited guests—the first ever held in Delaware, too, mind you. Without blare of trumpets, in fact scarcely enough noise, they simply up and did the thing without asking odds of any body. Sort of a stinging lesson to some of us older sports, sitting around talky-talky and never doing the thing.

Hey, you Company E! Where's that Army! The Boy Scouts'll catch you if you don't watch out.

And the Meet! Well, I should say so. And as clean as a whistle. Not a whimper or kick at decisions—perfect harmony. Reminded one of a meeting of some Ladies' Club.

Newark win! Of course she won. But that was not the point, not the real game. They entertained royally and gave the visitors an example of real sportsmanship. Ask them. They appreciated it for they were true blue, too. Hats off to you, Scouts! Our enthusiasm was boiling before the water and that's going some, isn't it!

Luck, and when you want any printing done, you chase around to the Shop of The Post—salute and you'll get it. At least that's my guess from what I heard 'em saying up there yesterday.

The Old Man.

To Boom Celery Industry

Pennsylvania Railroad officials, it is reported, will endeavor to promote the growing of celery on the Peninsula and will call meetings to hear talks by an expert on the best methods of growing and handling the crop.

All But Farmers Vacate

By direction of Wilmington City Council, Clerk of the Markets Parris on Saturday notified all holders of stands in the King and Madison streets markets who are not farmers to vacate. Many of those warned to vacate, it is said, purpose a test of their right to hold the stands in the courts.

Sentenced To Penitentiary

Iemo Louiana, the supposed demented Italian who wandered about the Newark, Glasgow and nearby sections early in the summer and was caught by Edward B. McCoy in his bedroom at his home near Chesapeake City early on the morning of June 2d, was tried in the Cecil Court on Thursday for burglary and was found guilty although his counsel pleaded insanity. He was given a term of five years in the penitentiary but Judge Constable stated that the managers of the prison would be advised to have his sanity tested by experts so that if found insane, he could be sent to an asylum for treatment. If declared sane he will serve out his sentence.

Escapes Horrible Death

Louise, the six-year old daughter of Charles H. Simmons, escaped a horrible fate in his cannery at Farmington, one day last week. Her dress was caught in the belting and all her clothing was stripped from her. She was badly bruised but escaped any serious injury.

Uniform Auto Laws

Governor Miller has appointed Judge Philip Q. Churchman, S. D. Townsend, Jr., and Charles G. Guyer, commissioners to confer with those from other states in drafting uniform laws regulating automobile traffic. Commissioners from the New England States, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland will meet in New York in November to consider the subject.

Return After Studying Styles

THE NEW APPLE PACKING SCHOOL

A Standard Box For The Delaware Peninsula

The Apple Packing School which has been in progress at Camden, Delaware, during the week from September 29 to October 4, has had a distinct purpose, namely, to forward the movement to establish for this Peninsula a standard for box apples. No better apples are grown anywhere in the world than those grown here, none better in flavor; none better in appearance, and none higher in color than is easily possible to grow here. Some favored valleys may have more sunshine than we have, but with proper syringing, pruning and tillage, we can develop our apples to the highest possible color, and most beautiful appearance. Such apples, when of high quality, as many of our varieties are, are strictly fancy and should command a strictly fancy price. They should never be sold on the city market for less than $4 a bushel box. It may not always be possible to get this price, but it will always be possible to get a fancy price—a price far above the best price possible for apples packed in barrels.

To assure this result organization is absolutely necessary—organization that will secure the co-operation of every successful apple grower on the Peninsula. This is the aim of the movement now in progress.

Every city of any considerable size has a large number of people who are willing to pay a fancy price for strictly fancy article. Apples have become one of the indispensable articles of diet for city people. The poor must be content with the poorer grades of fruit. The rich and well-to-do will buy the fancy fruit. This fruit must be handsome in appearance, without blemish, every package uniform as to size and quality and size, so grown and packed that it will keep for a long time in perfect condition. When a man buys a box of fancy apples, he should be certain that that box is standard and has not an imperfect apple in it. If an apple is slightly bruised at any time before it is placed in the box a bruise so slight as to escape detection, such an apple will not come out in perfect condition. Boxes are so constructed that they hold a definite quantity of fruit, namely, an even bushel, and the fruit is so packed that it is possible to stamp on the packages the number of apples in each box.

Mr. John M. Steitz, who is conducting the Apple Packing School says that Delaware has a number of peculiar and very remarkable advantages which make it one of the best apple growing sections in the world, independent of the fact that it is close to all the big markets of the eastern United States. We have a long growing season so that trees properly managed come into bearing at a very early age. The soil is easily tilled, and by means of crimson clover and other legumes, it can be quickly and cheaply built up to a high state of fertility and productivity. It is so easily tilled and so level that it can be cultivated thoroughly every week by the use of the proper wide-spreading harrows and other implements. The climate is almost ideal. Rains are frequent enough so that an apple orchard properly filled need never suffer seriously for the want of moisture. Land is low in price. In some sections much less favorably situated, raw land is selling for several hundred dollars per acre. It will be easy to secure an abundance of labor from the cities during the fruit packing season, labor that can be trained to a high degree of skill and efficiency. With all these advantages Delaware apple growers should be able to make as much as any apple growers in the world.

Country papers are often looked upon as poor advertising—and not without reason. For the ordinary country weekly is a poorly printed sheet with patent inside, splashed with patent medicine displays, telling how some society belle of Skedunk Park or some G. A. R. hero was saved. A picture of the fair young thing before and after, a be-medalled photo while the savior of mankind, dressed in Prince Albert points heavenward like a divinity student in the first pastoral warning—adorn the pages.

These with a personal or two run in with foot case and Butt's pills and things that babies and most editors say for; perhaps an item that "Ike Jones has come out with his buggy newly painted. Congratulations, Ike," or "Miss Sally Smythe has announced her intention to appear at Hyman's Bower sometime during the coming fall. A good catch, Sam, but there's many a slip between cup—etc." These, with an editorial begging subscribers to support the home paper, a word on foreign missions and announcement of weekly prayer meeting and the ever present oyster supper make up the usual country weekly.

Oh, you have seen it—excuse it, laugh at it but as an advertising medium for a bona fide business house, it is no good, you say. And about right you are.

But The Post—well that's different. I know this is an Ad going after business, but unless I stick to facts, you'll catch me, then I am lost. The Post is an 8 page paper, all home print. It has news that you want to read. The Post says things sometimes that may not be much but impudence (at least our enemies say so) but there's one virtue—you know about where we stand.

Aside from this, which is all right, the Post is read. All the leading citizens take it (that is, all except one or two—and they borrow it). Then lots of the Common Folks. Good folks those folks that Lincoln said the Lord loved so well.

These things make it a good advertising medium. Look over a copy and judge for yourself.

Then call up the Ad Man and let us get together.
