

LOCAL UNIT LEAVES FOR YEAR OF TRAINING

National Guard Feted Tuesday Night; Committee Is Appointed

A committee, appointed by Mayor Frank Collins, to serve as a permanent group until the return of the guardsmen, met Tuesday night. The activities will be coordinated with the platoon of the guard and it will keep in contact with the battery while the unit is in the field.

Dr. John R. Downes was elected chairman of the group. Vernon C. Steele will act as executive secretary. Members of the committee, to which representatives of the various industries in town will be added are as follows:

Mr. Haney, Chamber of Commerce; Mr. Tomhave, Newark Lions Club; James Kirk, Newark Rotary Club; Dr. Downes, J. Allison O'Daniel Post No. 10, American Legion; Edwin Shakespear, Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Co.; Mr. Parsons, assistant superintendent of Newark schools, and Councilman C. Emerson Johnson.

Members of Battery "E," 198th Coast Artillery and its officers were feted Tuesday night at a theatre party given by Louis Handloff, owner of the State Theatre as a part of the send-off program arranged for men in the local unit who leave for a year's military service.

A short program at the armory preceded the parade to the theatre. Representing the various local organizations were the following: G. M. Haney, Chamber of Commerce; F. Allyn Cooch, Newark Rotary Club; Dr. J. R. Downes, American Legion; William Rupp, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Elmer Egan, Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Co.; Mr. James Parsons, assistant superintendent of schools and Councilman C. E. Robert.

Physical examinations and recitation of the articles of war occupied the men on Monday while courteous, military discipline and customs were given Tuesday. Infantry drill was held and recruit instructions given by Lieut. John E. Healey, a graduate of the University of Delaware.

Lieut. L. C. Barker, another graduate of the university, is attached to the local unit during the mobilization period. On Wednesday, instructions in the care and cleaning of equipment, packing and loading for departure were given.

Captain Richard E. Ramsey, heads the local unit. Subordinate officers are Lieutenants William B. Derrickson, Jr., Harry C. Powell, Healey and Barker.

COCA COLA TALK AT LIONS CLUB

Thirty-Nine Members In Attendance

Thirty-nine members of the Newark Lions Club attended the 100 percent attendance meeting in honor of President A. E. Tomhave at the Country Club Tuesday evening. This represented an attendance of 84.2 percent of the club's active membership list.

Post president Geo. M. Haney, program chairman for the evening, introduced E. Everett Regan, Coca Cola Company official and third vice president of the Wilmington Lions Club who spoke on "The History of the Carbonated Beverage Industry" and showed a technical movie on the same subject.

LOOKING AHEAD:

Representatives of four local industries were included on Mayor Frank Collins' special committee, appointed this week, as the group set up a program to solve the problem of re-employment of Battery E members upon their return.

The National Guard unit left early this morning for Camp Upton, N. Y., and as a spokesman for the committee pointed out, "It's not so much the send-off they're given now, but the reception they'll get a year hence."

Plans for a permanent fund, to be started by the various civic organizations and personal contributions, were made in order to furnish the men with cigarettes and other incidental supplies during the training period, and to remember them at Thanksgiving and Christmas with special contributions.

Industrial representatives added to the committee yesterday were: C. C. Hubert, Continental-Diamond Fibre Co.; E. E. Stone, Curtis Paper Co.; Alfred Deck, Danita Hosiery Mill, and D. A. McClintock, National Fibre Co.

MISSION SOCIETY TO MEET

Session To Be Held Here On Sept. 30

Mrs. Ira K. Steele, chairman of missionary education for the New Castle Presbyterian Society for Missions of the Presbytery of New Castle, is serving as chairman of the committee on arrangements for two missionary conferences, the second to be held at the First Presbyterian Church of Newark on Monday, Sept. 30. The first will be held this Monday at the Rehoboth Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. J. Harvey Dickey and Mrs. Harold S. Tiffany will act as hostesses for the local session. Mrs. Charles F. Eastman, president of the presbyterian society, will preside over the sessions which will get underway at 9:45 o'clock and continue through the afternoon. Luncheon will be served at one o'clock.

The Rev. H. Everett Hallman, pastor of the local church, will conduct the devotional. Committees in charge of arrangements are as follows: Flowers—Mrs. Walter Blackwell; luncheon—Mrs. Nora Bryan, Mrs. Carleton E. Douglass, Mrs. C. P. Hearn, Mrs. Paul D. Lovett, Miss Anna Frazer, and Mrs. Walter Newton; dining room—Mrs. R. W. Heim, and Mrs. J. Irvin Dayett.

Miss Leta M. Waters will act as registrar for the meeting while Mrs. Tiffany will be in charge of the music. "Dangerous Opportunities" will be the foreign subject under discussion while "Uprooted Americans" will be the home subject.

GARDEN CLUB MEETS

G. L. Schuster Is Guest Speaker Before Local Club

George L. Schuster, dean of the University of Delaware's School of Agriculture, was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Newark Garden Club, held Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Haney, Old Oak Road.

The speaker pointed out that this time of the year is a better time to plant lawns than in the spring when insects and weather conditions tended to make the job difficult.

C. O. Houghton, professor of botany at the university, displayed a garden of the various types of woodland plants enclosed in a glass box about two feet long. He explained its construction and care.

W. P. McCright discussed planting for next spring and summer and the various plants that should be moved for the winter, and told about a trip through West Virginia and Tennessee.

A general discussion was held and final plans for the ninth annual flower show to be held this weekend were made.

Historical Films Are Available For First Time

Supt. C. E. Douglass, of the Newark Public Schools, has announced that a series of fifteen inspiring and authentic chronicles of American history have been made available to local schools by an anonymous donor.

These chronicles, in the form of films, are considered to be of truly outstanding historical value, Mr. Douglass says, and local school authorities will be happy to make arrangements for showing them to the public, without charge, if there is sufficient interest shown. Persons interested should contact Mr. Douglass and let him have the benefit of their interest and views in this connection.

The films deal with a great variety of historical subjects beginning with the landing of the Pilgrims and were produced at Yale University under the direction of Yale instructors.

POSTMASTER TO ATTEND CONVENTION

Association To Meet At Columbus Starting Sept. 25

C. E. Rittenhouse, postmaster at Newark has been advised by Paul R. Younts, Charlotte, N. C., president of the National Association of Postmasters, that he has been appointed on the transportation committee, in conjunction with the national convention of this organization, which will be held in Columbus, Ohio, September 25th, 26th, 27th and 28th.

The organization is comprised of postmasters from every state, as well as Puerto Rico, Alaska and Hawaii and has a total membership of 28,000. The convention last year, held in Washington, was attended by 5,000 and from indications this year, the attendance in Columbus will be even greater.

James A. Farley, former postmaster general, and his successor, Frank C. Walker, as well as other department officials and post office inspectors will address the postmasters present.

The National Association of Postmasters was organized for the purpose of aiding the postal service and postmasters of the country. In 1938 it was instrumental in carrying out an intensified publicity campaign in connection with the Air Mail, as well as other postal facilities. Under Postmaster General Farley, legislation was enacted which placed 1st, 2nd and 3rd class postmasters under Civil Service. Postmasters will be in session on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, at which time the 1941 program of the organization will be adopted.

Postmaster Rittenhouse states he will leave for the convention on September 24th.

Mrs. T. R. Griffin, Mrs. Louis Staats, Mrs. Nora Bryan, Miss Carolyn Johnson, Miss Mary Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rohm, Mr. and Mrs. Mervin S. Dale, Mrs. J. D. Counahan, Mrs. Paul D. Lovett, Miss Harrington, Mrs. Raymond McMullen, Miss Ethel Johnston, Walter Newton, Robert Strahorn, Mr. and Mrs. Alex D. Cobb, Mrs. Richard Cooch, Mr. Dameron, Miss Nell Wilson, Mrs. W. A. Blackwell, Mrs. Stanley Gibbs, and Mrs. Thomas D. Mylrea, director.

Services Friday For John Clifford Walls, Age 47

John Clifford Walls, age 47 years, died at his home, 185 S. Chapel Street, Tuesday morning at two o'clock, as a result of a complication of diseases.

He is survived by his wife and one child, Clifton Walls; three sisters, Mrs. Joseph Kling, of Wyoming, Mrs. Emily Thompson, of Laurel, and Mrs. Gladys West, of Boothwyn, Pa.; and by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Walls, Newark.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon, two o'clock, from the R. T. Jones' funeral parlor.

RUMMAGE SALE

There will be a rummage sale given by the Business Women's Club of Newark on Saturday, September 28, at Richard's Garage.

INTEREST IN ANNUAL DOG SHOW MOUNTING

Valuable Awards To Be Displayed In Window Of M. S. Dale

All next week will be 'dog days' in Newark in connection with the local observance of National Dog Week from Monday through Saturday. Dedicated to the promotion of dog welfare, the entire week will be interspersed with interesting events.

Elsewhere in this paper appears a proclamation, issued by Mayor Collins, proclaiming the week's observance locally. Several display windows on Main Street will be appropriately decorated with dog pictures, supplies, ribbons and awards for past performances. Posters will be arrayed prominently throughout town and in the local schools.

Ralph D. Kellum, secretary of the Delaware Setter and Pointer Club will address the Newark Lions Club on Tuesday in the interest of Dog Week and announcements soliciting the cooperation of the populace will be made to other local gatherings.

The week will be climaxed by the second annual Newark Dog Show which is expected to have more than a hundred dogs entered in competition for the numerous valuable prizes to be awarded. Ribbons denoting first, second and third places in each group will be presented. In addition, there will be given a handsome, mounted loving cup inscribed with the name of the winner, for the best dog in the show. Useful, decorated, bronze ash-trays will be awarded winners of each group with other prizes donated by local merchants offered for the best of breed in several classes.

Gift packages of dog food will be given each entrant with the compliments of a nationally known dog food manufacturer.

The only cost of entering is fifty cents with each entry blank. Competition is open to all dogs, pedigreed or not, with entry blanks available at the Newark Post, Rhodes Drug Store, Fossett's Barber Shop or Jackson's Hardware Store. Dog owners are urged to fill out and send their entry blanks to the Newark Post BEFORE the show in order to eliminate loss of time and congestion at the entrance gate.

The Dog Show will be held on the Newark High School Athletic Field at two o'clock Saturday afternoon, September 28. In case of rain it will be held in the high school Play Court.

Huey Morris is in charge of preparations of the grounds and Frank H. Clark, secretary of the Delaware Gun Dog Club will be in charge of the show. Judges will be selected and their names published in this newspaper next week.

Mrs. F. Allyn Cooch is chairman of the ladies' committee which is being very helpful in furthering local interest in the event. Other members of the ladies' committee are: Mrs. Howard B. Jernee, Mrs. A. F. Fader, Mrs. Leon H. Ryan, Mrs. Horace B. McKay, Mrs. Paul D. Lovett, Mrs. J. P. Wright, Mrs. Harry C. Boden and Miss Nell B. Wilson.

DONALD FOSSETT PASSES

Local Youth Succumbs After Brief Illness

Donald Fossett, seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Fossett, of 17 Center Street, passed away in the Wilmington General Hospital early Friday morning, September 13, after a brief illness.

The untimely passing of the lovable youth is sadly mourned by his wide circle of friends whose lives were made brighter by the quick, cheerful smile and happy disposition of the lad who had endeared himself to all who knew him.

Confined to his home since Friday, September 6, he was taken to the hospital on Thursday where he expired early Friday morning.

Private funeral services were conducted from the residence on Sunday afternoon, by the Rev. H. Everett Hallman, with interment in the Newark Cemetery. The huge tribute of beautiful floral offerings bespoke his immense popularity.

Surviving the deceased in addition to his parents are one brother, Jack, and his grandmother, Mrs. S. A. Slack.

FLOWER SHOW AT NEWPORT

A. B. Eastman Acts As Judge At Display

By Miss Emma S. Maclary

Newport, Sept. 18—The seventh annual community flower show, sponsored by the Woman's Club of Newport, was held on Friday afternoon and evening in the Woman's Club Building. The show attracted 255 exhibits, and was a demonstration of the growing interest in this event, which is open to members of the club and friends in the surrounding community. The committee in charge of the show comprised Mrs. S. C. Lomax, Mrs. George R. Gotshell, Mrs. Alvin Ruth, Mrs. F. H. Webb, and Mrs. A. C. Hall. A. B. Eastman, president of the Newark Garden Club, assisted by his committee, judged the exhibits. Many flower lovers from the town and adjoining area visited the exhibit.

Mrs. George R. Gotshell exhibited the most outstanding arrangement in the flower show, and was awarded a large jardiniere. Mrs. S. C. Lomax, having nine first place awards, won the sweepstakes prize of $2 worth of seeds or bulbs. Mrs. Ella Woodward exhibiting the highest number of second place awards, received a prize of $1 for seeds or bulbs.

Mrs. J. Harry Taylor and Mrs. S. C. Lomax were tied for the third place awards, and each received an award of grass seed.

Mrs. Esther Johnston received an award of $2 worth of roses for the most exhibits and blue ribbon awards in the rose class.

Teachers from the eastern and western supervisory districts of New Castle County attended the conference in the Krebs School on Monday. Among the state officials and speakers attending the conference were: Dr. H. V. Holloway; Dr. H. B. King of the State Board of Education; Miss Ella J. Holley and Mrs. Phyllis Heck, supervisors of the eastern and western districts; Miss Etta J. Wilson, Delaware Citizens Association; Mrs. Martha Barnes, attendance officer; Miss Nellie Morton, Wilmington Institute Free Library, as well as supervisors of Art and music.

A general session and group meetings were held, with various supervisors addressing each group. George Ayers, state director of physical education, as well as a representative of the Delaware Anti-Tuberculosis Society addressed the group on general health topics. At noon, dinner was served the teachers by the Newport Methodist Church.

Arthur G. Craig, superintendent of the Newport Methodist Sunday School, announces that the week of Sept. 30 to Oct. 6 will be "Christian Education Week," and special services will be held, with Monday night designated as "Official Night," with various officials of the school in charge. Wednesday night will be "Parent's Night," at which time parents will be invited, and teachers will discuss plans for work during the year. Thursday evening there will be a banquet and rally, and on Sunday, Oct. 6th, the annual "Rally Day" service will be held with special services in the Sunday school, Men's Bible Class and church.

The Board of Directors of the Newport Cooperative Training School for church Sunday school workers met in the Newport Methodist Church this week to complete arrangements for the sessions of the school this fall. The Rev. Richard M. Green, of Hockessin, was named dean. Other officers are: Secretary, Miss Esther Rorer; treasurer, Arthur G. Craig, and publicity chairman, Otis Figgs. Sessions of the school will be held in the Newport Methodist Church on Monday evening for six consecutive weeks, beginning Oct. 21 and continuing until Nov. 25. The training school, in its third year, is open to Sunday school teachers of all protestant churches of the county. Approximately 200 are expected to enroll. Courses of study, faculty members and lecturers are to be named later.

Members of Girl Scout Troop No. 14 of Newport, spent the week-end at the "Top of the Hill" scout headquarters, near Newark. The group was accompanied by Miss Margaret Steinbaker and Miss Mabel Steinbaker, leaders of the troop.

ENROLLMENT AT SCHOOL INCREASES

Stanton, Sept. 18.—Miss Lora Little, principal of the Stanton School, stated this week that the enrollment of the school has increased to 171 pupils. Six have enrolled since the opening day.

The Rev. David W. Baker, pastor of the Stanton Methodist Church, has returned from vacation, and spoke on Sunday morning on "The Immovable Object." The Epworth League resumed services on Sunday evening. Rev. Baker returned today to Drew Theological Seminary of Madison, N. J., to resume his studies.

On Thursday afternoon, Mrs. J. Harold Mitchell was hostess to the Three-One Home Makers Club, at which some demonstrations were conducted in the preparing of sandwiches and cookies. Demonstrators for the day were Mrs. Robert P. Major and Miss Maude Mote.

The Young Women's Class of the Stanton Methodist Church resumed business sessions for the fall season on Monday evening, meeting at the home of Mrs. Mary Naylor. Officers were elected as follows: President—Mrs. Lillian Boulden; vice president, Mrs. Eleanor Trivitt; secretary, Mrs. Louise Leussure; treasurer, Mrs. Lillian Wilkinson, ways and means committee, Mrs. Emily Lucas, Mrs. Grace Hale and Mrs. Ethel Vanaman; sick, Mrs. Ruth Singler; absentee, Mrs. Alma Maloney; entertainment, Mrs. Sue Smith and Mrs. Mary Naylor; publicity, Mrs. Alma Boulden.

The next meeting of the class will be held at the home of Mrs. Eleanor Trivitt on Oct. 7th.

An informal tea and reception was held Thursday afternoon in the St. James P. E. Church parish house, Stanton, by members of the St. James churches, Stanton and Newport and St. Barnabas Church, Marshallton. Guests of honor were Bishop Arthur R. McKinstry and the Rev. and Mrs. Albaugh of Darlington, Md. The affair was arranged to afford members of these three churches the opportunity of meeting the Rev. Albaugh to whom they have issued a call for this circuit of churches. A committee had gone to Darlington, Md. on Sunday to hear the Rev. Albaugh preach, and have since invited him to fill the vacancy now existing in these churches.

Bishop McKinstry has recommended Rev. Albaugh for the circuit, and the invitation has been issued, but the Rev. Albaugh has not as yet informed the officials of his decision.

The Parish Aid of the St. James P. E. Church resumed its fall sessions this week and made plans for a turkey supper on Oct. 24.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the St. James P. E. Church held an all-day session on Tuesday in the parish house, at which time the Church Periodical Club work, including the making of calendars, posters, and scrapbooks for hospitals will be done. A covered fish luncheon was enjoyed at noon.

Broiler Meeting At Salisbury

In the Little Theatre of the State Teachers' College at Salisbury, Md., Delaware broiler growers will meet with other Pennsylvania broiler producers on Monday evening, September 23, at 8 o'clock.

Harry L. Richardson, poultry specialist for the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service, reports that Harry H. Beck, president of the Maryland Poultry Council, will tell the assembled breeders about the new live poultry terminal in New York City and will point out the effects the new terminal is likely to have on the marketing of Del-Mar-Va birds. Dr. W. D. Termohlen of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, will explain the expansion of the broiler industry into other sections and its significance to the Peninsula broiler business. The work and accomplishments of the poultry producers' councils will be reported on by Wade H. Rice, poultry specialist for the Maryland Agricultural Extension Service. Final session of the one-night meeting will see James M. Gwin, professor of poultry products marketing at the University of Maryland, leading a discussion on "The Possibilities of Co-operative Marketing of Del-Mar-Va Broilers."

Soil-Improving Materials Now Available To Farmers

Materials for agricultural conservation use under the 1941 Agricultural Adjustment Administration farm program which began in Delaware September 1, are now available to farmers taking part in the program. Farmers may order these materials at the county Agricultural Adjustment Administration offices immediately, to be used this fall in carrying out soil-building practices, reports R. O. Stelzer, executive officer of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration for Delaware.

Soil building materials now available include ground limestone, super-phosphate and Austrian winter pea seed. They are supplied in place of cash conservation payments to farmers who participate in the farm program. Farmers may use them in carrying out approved AAA soil-building practices.

Supplying conservation materials through the AAA farm program has enabled farmers to greatly expand the use of soil-building practices on land especially in need of them, Stelzer said. State extension agronomists have emphasized the value to farmers of having limestone and phosphate in their soil-building programs. They urge that farmers seed all their cultivated acres to a winter cover crop this fall to protect the soil from erosion and leaching.

Newark, Delaware, Thursday, September 19, 1940

HELP CELEBRATE

FROM SEPTEMBER 22 TO 28 INCLUSIVE

Plans for the local observance of National Dog Week, from Monday, September 23, through Saturday, September 28, are running in high gear this week with one of the best programs for local participation ever held here.

Colored placards bearing the sketch of a bird-dog are being placed in local display windows while windshield stickers and mailing stickers are also making their appearance.

Ralph D. Kellum, secretary of the Delaware Setter and Pointer Club, will be the guest speaker at the Newark Lions Club on Tuesday night in the interest of Dog Week. A display of the many valuable prizes to be awarded at the local Dog Show will be shown in the window of M. S. Dale, jeweler, and plans are under consideration for a parade to be held through the business section of town on Saturday preceding the actual Dog Show itself.

Displaying his usual fine spirit of cooperation and citizenship, Mayor Frank Collins has issued the following proclamation in the interest of the forthcoming observance.

Proclamation

In a spirit of cooperation with local and national committees endeavoring to promote greater observance of National Dog Week throughout these United States; and

WHEREAS, since time immemorial the dog has been one of the best friends of mankind and has served human beings not only as a companion and watch dog but also in many other useful fields; and

WHEREAS, dogs, in return for the devotion, help and companionship which they give must depend on human beings for care; and

WHEREAS, a number of public spirited men and women have banded together to focus the attention of every citizen on the need for thoughtfulness in the care of dogs and will conduct a national observance of Dog Week from September 23 to 28, inclusive; and

WHEREAS, every dog needs a good home

I, THEREFORE, hereby designate the period from September 23 to 28, inclusive, to be NATIONAL DOG WEEK IN NEWARK.

Signed Frank Collins
Mayor

GOOD WORK

Recent action of the Newark Chamber of Commerce in reducing the participating cost of merchants for the colored Christmas lights strung across Main Street for the past three years, during the Yule Season, was a commendable step and one which we feel sure will be appreciated by the merchants and business men who have contributed towards this project for the past three years.

While it is a bit difficult to talk about Christmas, snow and cold weather this far in advance, it isn't any too soon to be taking steps that may mean the extension of the Christmas lights this year. The possibility of extending the lights to Newark Center has already been discussed by Chamber officials and we sincerely hope that they will find it possible to carry this plan through to execution.

These persons and industries who have so generously contributed to this cause, each year, must also come in for a word of praise and we, as citizens, deeply appreciate the community spirit which has made these Christmas Lights possible.

The cheery glow of multi-colored lights during the period from Thanksgiving to New Year's Eve create a spirit of goodwill and fellowship that is well worth while. The continuance of these lights depends on each business house doing their share towards supporting it and we hope that every merchant will cheerfully contribute his assessment when contacted by member of the C. of C. Christmas Lighting Committee.

NO RESPONSE

It would seem that we were championing a lost cause when we published an editorial, two weeks ago, pertaining to the efforts to obtain a free, community parking lot for Newark. In this editorial we requested that persons of the opinion that such a lot was needed here write to us and outline their ideas on the subject.

Well, we batted a thousand percent, all right. We didn't even connect once... what we mean is, there wasn't a single response. Maybe we are the only ones of our 2,385 readers who think Newark needs a parking lot—maybe we're wrong about the whole thing so we won't bring it up again in a hurry.

But, right or wrong, we still are entitled to our own opinion and we fail to understand just how other communities—such as Elkton, Chestertown, Laurel—have gone to the trouble to provide free parking lots for their residents and visitors, while a thriving, bustling town like our own closes its eyes to present parking conditions on Main Street.

A scientist says the flight of time is an illusion. Tell that one to your banker when your note falls due.

POPULARITY OF FROZEN FOODS ON INCREASE

Benefits Cited By Mrs. Daugherty

The development of frosted foods has done much to remove the stigma from and put romance into the food freezing industry, according to Mrs. Kate Henley Daugherty, home demonstration agent at the University of Delaware.

She points out that the whole industry has been lifted to a higher plane. It is no longer necessary to thaw frozen products before homemakers will buy them. Farmers who have tasted frosted strawberries and peas in January, immediately have a desire to freeze their own fruits and vegetables and store in freezer lockers. This and the need of a steady meat supply has brought about the rapid expansion of the frozen food locker system throughout the nation.

Through research and experience, Mrs. Daugherty points out, it has been found that pork stored at zero temperatures will keep satisfactorily for nine months. After the ninth month, the flavor of the pork begins to be somewhat less desirable. They have found that lamb stores nicely for about six months. After that, it too becomes less palatable. Reports indicate that beef will keep longer even than pork or lamb, but not enough research work has been done with beef yet to know just how long it will keep at zero temperature.

They have learned a very interesting fact, though, about beef, according to the home demonstration agent, and that is that freezing will make it more tender. Experts say that it makes a noticeable difference. Meat that is to be stored in a freezer locker must be properly wrapped to keep it from drying out. Pork loins that have been stored nine months at zero without wrapping, lose about one pound in every sixteen, due to drying. Ordinary butcher paper won't do for wrapping meat for freezing. It is too porous. There are many special kinds of paper and other wrappings on the market for use in lockers.

Proper packaging is important for fruits, too, continues Mrs. Daugherty. Many of these are best packed in sugar syrup that protects them from the air. Vegetables are frozen dry or in a weak brine, but it is essential to pack them air-tight, in order to preserve the color and flavor.

200 SCOUTS IN ANNUAL PILGRIMAGE

Lieut.-Gov. E. W. Cooch Addresses Gathering

More than 200 scouts, representing troops from New Castle County and Cecil County, Md., participated in the annual Boy Scout pilgrimage held Sunday afternoon at Cooch's Bridge.

An address by Lieut.-Gov. Edward W. Cooch on the subject, "The Campaign in Cecil and New Castle Counties Prior to the Battle of Cooch's Bridge," highlighted the patriotic services.

"During the Revolution, there was practically the same difference as now exists between the army of the United States and the state militia," Mr. Cooch pointed out. "The regular army remained with Washington while the state militia were used for home defense and were called to the service of the United States only on special occasions, just as they are being called today," he said.

"It was a division of Washington's army which met the enemy at Cooch's Bridge, but it was the militia of Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Delaware which engaged in several minor clashes both on the Elk River and on land prior thereto.

"The British left New York with between 200 and 300 vessels with the intention of sailing up the Delaware Bay and river to Philadelphia. Instead, however, they sailed up the Chesapeake Bay, landing on Elk Neck, Md. This was not far from the Boy Scout's Camp Rodney. Here they made tents of fence rails and corn stalks. A part of the army later crossed the Elk River, where the Cecil County Court House was then located.

"During this time, Washington was in New Jersey. After a hurried march through Philadelphia he reached Wilmington on the day Howe landed on Elk Neck. A call had already been issued for the militia of Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Delaware. The Pennsylvania militia proceeded to Christiana to await further orders, while those of Maryland went to Elk Neck. The Kent County militia, under General Caesar Rodney encamped at Noxentown, near Middletown. Rodney, with the Delaware militia then proceeded to St. Augustine Church in Cecil County, carrying with him Delaware militia flags, which were left temporarily at St. Augustine Church. Rodney and the Delaware troops were driven from their position at the church and the flags fell into the hands of the British and were taken to England. One of them has since been purchased in London and now hangs on the wall of the Old Town Hall, Wilmington.

"General Greene recommended Cooch's Bridge as the place for decisive resistance," Mr. Cooch said, "and had his recommendation met with the approval of the War Council, a much larger battle would have taken place where we now stand.

"After the militia were forced to retreat, Washington formed a special detachment of expert marksmen from his regular army and placed them under General Maxwell who proceeded at once to Cooch's Bridge and occupied the place which Greene had recommended. Thus it was a small battle which occurred on the site which Greene had selected for the major engagement."

Troops from Newark, Brack-Ex, Perryville, Md., Middletown, Marshallton, Elkton, Md., North East, Md., Cedars, Elsmere, Richardson Park, Port Deposit, Md., and Providence, Md., participated in the ceremonies. John T. Sinclair, Perryville scoutmaster, headed the first division; I. W. Strahorn, Elkton scoutmaster, was commander of the second, and Hans Schillings, Cedars scoutmaster, led the third. The Newark High School band also marched in the parade.

Fremont Loeffel, district commissioner from New Castle County acted as grand marshal, while Otis McCaulley, district commissioner from Cecil County, was staff officer.

Invocation was pronounced by the Rev. R. A. Briggs, of Brack-Ex; benediction by the Rev. John Bolden, of Elkton.

LEWISVILLE MAN DIES

Funeral services for Harry T. McCleary, of Lewisville, Pa., who died on Sunday at the age of 64 years, will be held this afternoon at two o'clock at St. John's M. E. Cemetery.

Born on the old McCleary homestead at Lewisville, Mr. McCleary was a son of the late Robert Huggins McCleary and Wilhelmina Minerva McCleary. His entire life had been spent at Lewisville. For many years, he drove the U. S. mail wagon from Elkton, Md., to Lewisville and later was engaged in butchering and cattle dealing.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Joseph Martindale and three grand children; three brothers, Robert F. McCleary, of Lewisville, George M. McCleary, of Roeboro, and John B. McCleary, of Chester, Pa.; and two sisters, Mrs. Emma W. Gregg, of Newark, and Mrs. Margaret Creswell, of Cowentown, Md.

ART EXHIBIT

The Delaware Art Center has invited the state divisions of adult education to show work of art and craft groups from September 20 to October 5 at the Center. It is hoped that many may enjoy seeing the display of examples of various types of work done under the leadership of Miss Amy Gardner.

The Newark Parent-Teachers Association has sponsored several classes of this work in the past few years. The Center, which is located at the Park Drive and Woodlawn Avenue, Wilmington, will be open on weekdays from ten until five o'clock and on Sunday from two until six o'clock.

DELAWARE ALUMNI TO LAUNCH PROGRAM

Invitations to attend the Conference on Saturday have been extended by Mr. Newton to all of these committee members as well as to all members of the Alumni Council, the officers of the fourteen local alumni clubs, and to the secretaries of all classes.

Former Judge Hugh M. Morris, of Wilmington, a graduate of the University in 1898 and now president of the university's board of trustees, will be the principal speaker at the conference. He will address the alumni delegates at a dinner in Old College at 6:00 P.M. In his talk Judge Morris will outline to the alumni plans for the university's development program, pointing out the various ways in which the association can participate in this program.

Ernest E. McMahon, executive secretary of the Rutgers University Alumni Association and a captain in the U. S. Reserve Officers Corps, will be another guest speaker. At a luncheon session he will speak on "Alumni Work and the National Emergency."

Other subjects to be discussed at various sessions throughout the day include: the alumni organization structure, university-alumni relations and cooperation, the 1940-41 alumni program, and financing the association.

Birds

terior as Wildlife Research Bulletin 1, entitled "Food Habits of a Group of Shorebirds; Woodcock, Snipe, Knot, and Dowitcher." Released as a bulletin of the Bureau of Biological Survey, which on June 30, 1940, was consolidated with the Bureau of Fisheries to form the Fish and Wildlife Service, the publication inaugurates a new series of bulletins on wildlife subjects, to supersede contributions on wildlife to technical series formerly published by the Department of Agriculture.

Wildlife Research Bulletin 1, which is illustrated by 3 colored plates, is available to the public by purchase (at 25 cents a copy) from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. Author Charles C. Sperry, a biologist of the Fish and Wildlife Service, pointed out that all the 5 shorebirds studied formerly were popular objects of sport, but that their populations were depleted by pothunters who shot excessive numbers of them for the market. Now only the woodcock and the jacksnipe may be hunted, during short open seasons.

HOCKESSIN WEDDING WEDNESDAY

Miss Truitt, Samuel Moulton Married

Marshallton, Sept. 18—The wedding of Miss Sarah Olivebella Truitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Truitt, of Brookland Terrace, and Mr. Samuel Francis Moulton of Cranston Heights, took place last Wednesday night in Hockessin Methodist Church. The Rev. Richard M. Green officiated.

The bride wore a gown of wine velvet with matching accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Howard Parsons, of Yorklyn, a twin sister of the bride, and Miss Grace Wiley, of Glen Mills, Pa., were the bridesmaids. Mrs. Parsons wore black crepe with white accessories and a corsage of mixed flowers. Miss Wiley wore Navy Crepe with white accessories and a corsage of yellow rose buds.

Mr. Leon Truitt, a brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The wedding music was played by Miss Mildred E. Gebhart of Hockessin.

A reception followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Parsons.

The Rev. F. D. Milbury, pastor of Mt. Salem Methodist Church, Wilmington, and Miss Lily Grace Matheson, national field secretary of the Philadelphia W.C.T.U., will be the principal speakers at the annual convention of the Mill Creek Hundred Sunday School Association, Thursday in Marshallton Methodist Church.

The Rev. Milbury will speak at the morning session, and Miss Matheson in the afternoon.

Powell M. Ford of Marshallton, president in charge of the program, which will include selections by the Glee Club of the Delaware Industrial School for Colored Girls of Marshallton.
