HOLD COMMEMORATIVE EXERCISES AT COOCH'S BRIDGE

Program Arranged By American Legion

A commemorative service was held at the Cooch's Bridge Battle monument Tuesday evening in observance of the 156th anniversary of the battle in which the Stars and Stripes were said to have been unfurled for the first time. Following a few brief introductory remarks by Ira S. Brinser, Commander of the J. Allison O'Daniel Post of the American Legion, and an invocation by Legionnaire Paul Lovett, of Newark, Edward W. Cooch traced some of the interesting history of the Pencader and the White Clay Creek region of Delaware, from the early transactions of William Penn and Lord Baltimore down to and including the Revolutionary War days.

It is a historical fact that the Cooch homestead, near the monument, was used by General Cornwallis during the campaign in this region. Officers' horses were quartered in the present front reading room of the Cooch home. The hoof prints were still visible in the wooden floor until after the time of the Civil War. Major Andre of Revolutionary fame, lived at the Cooch homestead and Mr. Cooch now has photostatic maps of this region drawn by Major Andre, who was an engineer.
Colonel Thomas W. Miller, State Commander of the American Legion, reviewed some of the historic facts dealing with the time and the place and especially emphasized Delaware's leadership in those days of the formation of the republic. Turning to the present he emphasized the great need of an adequate national defense by having a well trained and well equipped army and navy. Quoting General Washington as favoring adequate defense even in a time when transportation and communication was almost isolation in comparison with today, Colonel Miller pleaded for a defense which would continue to hold secure the principles of the flag which was here first unfurled not only to the little brave band of American soldiers—but to a nation and to the world.
Following expressions of appreciation to Colonel Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Cooch by Vice Commander Wayne C. Brewer, taps were sounded by Mr. Brinser.

NEWARK DIVIDES WITH NEW CASTLE OVER WEEK-END

Drops New Castle Out of League Lead; Physive Beaten on Return From South

A combination of good pitching, good fielding and good hitting sent New Castle out of the Del-Mar League lead. "Lefty" Rawley received excellent support from his team mates as he set the Castlemen back with five scattered hits. Only in one inning did they get more than one hit. Stewart collected three of the five hits and scored the lone run. Two double plays helped the Newark pitcher come out of two tough spots. On the other hand, Newark got the Percy Hall in the early innings to score three runs and to hold the lead until the end. "Nimny" Charshee lead Newark with the stick, getting three hits out of four times at bat. Barrow, Chalmers and Bland turned in a nice exhibit of fielding when they fielded 14 chances between them without a slip. On Sunday it was a different story. After getting one run in the first inning off Smith, Newark was held scoreless the rest of the game. New Castle tied the score in the third at 1 all. Then in the fourth New Castle scored 10 runs on 6 hits, 3 errors and 5 walks. In the inning "Steve" Physive was driven from the mound. In the 6th inning "Bony" Jackson replaced "Slim" Chalmers as the pitcher and held the New Castle batters to two hits and no runs for the last 3 innings. Auster was the batting star of the game, getting 5 for 5 for a perfect day at bat.

THOSE USEFUL BONES

Did you ever hear through your teeth? Or your nose? Did you know you could hear music through your shoulder blade?

We have become so accustomed to using our ears for hearing, that the possibility of receiving sound impressions through other mediums seldom occurs to us.

It now is believed that almost complete and normal hearing can be restored to most of the 10,000,000 deafened in this country by proper application of this bone conduction principle.

Scientists have found that few people are totally deaf; also that virtually none have 100 per cent hearing.

BLONDE ADVENTURER RELEASED FROM JAIL

Released pending action by the Federal government in his case, Carl Iver Sandburg, blonde adventurer and seaman, arrested two weeks ago aboard his yacht at Chesapeake City on charges that he was a resident of Germany and had entered this country illegally, sailed down the Chesapeake Bay Tuesday, while Federal authorities investigated his story that he was an American citizen.

Sandburg, who is tall and lithe, and wears a beard and pointed mustache, said he was born in San Francisco, 48 years ago. He speaks all languages and is familiar with every civilized port in the world.

"Credit Where Credit Is Due" Under the heading, "Credit Where Credit Is Due," the Meridian, Idaho, Times recently carried an interesting article on their local county tax situation.

"It should be observed that the public utilities have paid their 1932 taxes in full, and without their 100 per cent support another story would be told, and public schools and other public necessities would be severely handicapped.

The largest contribution to the county treasury is from the Union Pacific Railroad, with $93,344 for the year. The others include: Idaho Power Co., $46,304; smaller railroads, $1,601.34; Bell Telephone Co., $41,780.71; Telegraph Co., $1,048.87; Pullman Car Co., $1,071.84.

This makes a total of $187,536.03. These payments made in a time of depression, when the individual in many cases defaults in his payment, are a valuable help and mean that the balance in the general fund is held up to a figure that means no registration of warrants is necessary.

"If the utilities had not paid their taxes promptly and when due, many schools in the county would find it necessary to close for want of funds.

"When we hear criticism of public utilities we should recall that there has been no default in their tax payments in Ada County for the 'worst year of the depression.'"

This particular Idaho county is not an exception. In thousands of cities and counties throughout the country, taxes are in arrears. Farmers, property-owners and businesses have been unable to pay. Yet taxes of utilities have been paid when due, even though investors had to go without dividends and interest payments.

Guinea Pigs — Pro and Con

THOSE hundred million or so friendly little guinea pigs, without which we mere humans would hardly be able to get along, are again the subject of controversy in the current news. The controversy started recently when Arthur Kallet and F. J. Schlink came into the spotlight with the publication of their book, "100,000,000 Guinea Pigs."

Milk Troubles

"How not to do things" is illustrated in the troubles in the New York Milk Shed where a comparatively small, but organized group of farmers has engaged in a milk strike.

In its official publication, the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, which covers that territory, states that it and its members will continue, to the best of their ability, to deliver milk.

The League is one of the many organizations fighting the farmers' battle. Through cooperation it is strengthening the agricultural situation. Strikers offer the farmer nothing, save ruin.

The majority of farmers in the milk shed are law abiding. They have stuck with the League. But all farmers will have to pay dearly for radical action by the few.

It is in the interest of all that agricultural warfare be stopped.

schools to the public. This committee will meet and report at the Cleveland convention of the Department of Superintendence, February 24th to March 1st, 1934.

The appointment of this committee is an important item in a fundamental reorganization of the convention plan followed by the educational leaders in their national professional organization for many years. The change was made to extend greater responsibility to individual members in the Department's attempt to plan more effectively for meeting the current crisis in education.

Seven such committees have been appointed by President Stetson. These groups will give their attention respectively to problems of teacher training, a comprehensive program of public education, financing the schools, education for the new America, public education and public welfare, a national outlook on education, and the interpretation of the schools to the public.
