Shoots Negro Thug Who Had Robbed Him On Country Road

James H. Hollingsworth Puts Three Bullets In Bandit, Who Had Held Up Car And Taken Wallet; One Of Numer- ous Similar Hold-Ups

NEGRO RECOVERING

James H. Hollingsworth, aged 32, who is the Newark manager for the E. J. Hollingsworth Company, last Wednesday night, shot a negro thug who had held him up and robbed him on a country road between Mendin- hall and Rosedale. The negro, who was identified as John Willis, aged 42, of Kennett Square, Pa., is in the West Chester, Pa., Hospital, suffering from three wounds, but is expected to recover.

Mr. Hollingsworth and his wife, who live in Wilmington, had gone out for a drive late Wednesday afternoon, and stopping their car on a dirt road between Mendin-hall and Rosedale, had locked it and walked down the road for about a mile. As darkness and rain threatened, they returned to the car, a coupe, just as it became dark. They had seated themselves in the car, when Mrs. Hollingsworth remarked that she thought she heard rain and Mr. Hollingsworth rolled down the window and stuck out his hand. He felt no rain and pulled his hand in, and in that instant a man grabbed the door of the car on Mr. Hollingsworth's side and shook it violently. In another second he had thrust a flashlight full in Mr. Hollingsworth's face and shouted, "Have you got any money? Hand it over and put up your hands."

Mr. Hollingsworth, because of the light in his face, could not see his assailant, but Mrs. Hollingsworth could make out the man's form and noted that he wore a large slouch hat. Mr. Hollingsworth replied that he did have some money and with his left hand pulled out his wallet and handed it to the bandit. At the same time he grasped in his right hand a .25 calibre (Continued on Page 2.)

Dr. Paine Dies After A Protracted Illness

Newark was greatly shocked late yesterday afternoon to hear of the death of Dr. George Porter Paine in the University of Pennsylvania Hospital, Philadelphia, after a protracted illness, which seemed to be a baffling case of meningitis. Dr. Paine was 32 years of age, and for the past five years had been head of the physics department of the University of Delaware.

Funeral services will be held at his late residence, on Orchard Ridge, Friday morning at 9 o'clock. Immediately after the services, Mrs. Paine, with her eldest son, George Porter Paine, Jr., will leave for Lamoine Point, Maine, where Dr. Paine's family lives, and where his body will be interred.

Friends are asked to call after 1 o'clock tomorrow to view the deceased, and a special invitation is extended to students in his classes.

As Dr. Paine was a Unitarian, and there is no Unitarian Church in Newark, the Reverend W. A. Vrooman, pastor of the Wilmington Unitarian Church, will conduct the services at Dr. Paine's home, here. Pall bearers will be members of the faculty of the University and will include Messrs. Lynch and Cordrey, who are instructors in his department.

Dr. Paine is survived by his wife; three sons, George, Jr., Edward and William Paine, all of whom attend the Wilmington High School; a step-father, the Reverend S. W. Sutton, and a step-sister, Miss Eleanor Sutton, both of whom live in Lamoine Point, Maine.

CORRECTION

An omission was made in the article on the Presbyterian Sunday School building in last week's Post. In the paragraph concerning the memorial windows, the words "and members of the family of Charles A. Bryan" should have followed the name of Mrs. Nora Bryan.

Legion Will Canvas Town For Flag Orders

The executive committee of the Newark Post, American Legion, has mapped the town of Newark into small districts and plans to make an intensive canvass of every private home and business house in the town to provide United States flags where there are none. The entire membership of the Legion Post will take part in the canvass.

The Legion is doing this as a service to the town, and will not make a cent of profit on any orders it takes for flags, as the flags will be sold to the buyers at cost. The canvass will start immediately so that flags can be ordered and delivered for use on Flag Day, June 14. The executive committee of the Legion is composed of: Orville Little, chairman, Frederick Strickland, Harvey Dickey, T. A. Baker and John Fader.

Only 10 Days To Make Connections To Sewer

Houses On Street Program Must Connect In That Time; Rubbish Collection June 12 and 13;

Protests Use Of Ditch; Legion Turned Down

At the regular monthly meeting of the Council of Newark, held Monday night, it was voted that all houses on the streets that are to be paved this summer should be connected with the water and sewer systems within the next ten days, and that owners of the houses be notified to that effect. After the streets have been paved, there will be a charge of $25 made to open the street to make a connection. It was also voted that the sewer and water lines be brought to the curb on all properties on these streets before the streets are paved, and that property holders be charged when connections are made to the lines.

At a special meeting of the Council, held last Thursday night, A. Petrillo, of Wilmington, with a low bid of $77,775.60, was awarded the contract for paving the streets. The streets to be paved are Orchard Row from Delaware avenue to Park Place, Park Place from Orchard Row to Academy street, and South College avenue from the old town line to the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Other bidders were: W. H. Hollingsworth Company, Wilmington; Martin Contracting Company, Philadelphia; D. E. O'Conner and Sons, Ridley Park, Pa.; Oliver Paving and Construction Company, Wilmington; R. H. Johnson Company, Wilmington. This is probably the largest single paving contract ever awarded in any town in the State outside of Wilmington.

At the Monday meeting, Mayor Frazer appointed Tuesday and Wednesday, June 12 and 13, as the (Continued on Page 9.)

D. A. R. SUMMER CONFERENCE

The summer conference of the D. A. R. of Delaware will be held on Flag Day, June 14, at Bannister Hall, the home of Mrs. W. T. Anthony, one mile from Smyrna, on the Kenton Road.

The business meeting will start promptly at 10:30, standard time, and will be followed by an informal box luncheon. All the members of the various chapters are invited. Mrs. Anthony wishes to have the names of those who expect to attend by June 12.

FIRE DAMAGES HOUSE

Fire starting in a defective chimney, and spreading to the roof, caused about $100 damage to the house of Henry Cotton, on Iron Hill, last Friday. A quick response by the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company saved the house from destruction.

PAVING MATERIALS

Contractors' supplies have arrived for macadamizing Orchard Road and Park Place, and it is expected that the work will be started next week.

BAKE

A bake will be held in the M. E. Church, Saturday, June 9, 1928, starting at 9:00 a. m., standard time.

Newark Alumni Ass'n Has Annual Banquet

Professor Crooks Makes Address; Francis Lindell Elected Presi- dent. High School Gradu- ation Exercises

Ninety-eight attended the annual banquet of the Alumni Association of the Newark High School, held in the New School Building, last Saturday night. Professor E. B. Crooks, of the University of Delaware, gave the main address and spoke of the rapid growth of the Newark Schools over the past few years.

Robert Thoroughgood, president of the Association, was the toastmaster, and introduced the speakers. Professor Ira S. Brinser, superintendent of the Newark Schools was asked for a talk and spoke of the need for a school song, a school seal, and a school play. Alfred Vansant, president of the class of 1928, and Wallace Newcomb, of the class of 1928, also made speeches.

After the banquet a short business meeting was held at which time the various officers gave their reports and the officers for next year were elected. The nominating committee composed of Mrs. Huey Morris, Mrs. Irene Reed and Wallace Cook, announced that they would nominate the following:

President, Francis Lindell; vice-president, Miss Jennie Smith; corresponding secretary, Kathryn Hubert; recording secretary, Sara Slack.

The Alumnae Association wishes to express appreciation to the Senior Class of the High School for the sum of seventy-five dollars toward a permanent endowment for a scholarship fund.

Mrs. John A. Kauffman Passes Away Suddenly

A large gathering of relatives and friends met at the home of John A. Kauffman, on Kells avenue, Newark, yesterday afternoon to attend the funeral services of his deceased wife, Mrs. Frances L. Kauffman, who passed away early last Saturday morning. The services were conducted by Reverend Otto Schultz, pastor of the German Baptist Church, of Wilmington, of which church Mrs. Kauffman was a member. Reverend H. E. Hallman, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of this town, assisted. Two members of the choir, Mrs. Veit and Mrs. Roehm, sang two hymns. Six nephews of Mrs. Kauffman were pallbearers. Interment was at Silver Cemetery, Dover.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Kauffman is survived by her infant daughter, Frances L. Kauffman; another daughter, Augusta Mary Kauffman; her father John V. Deiss, and a sister, Mrs. Emmitt Clark, of Wilmington; two brothers, Albert J., and Harry C. Deiss, both of Dover.

The deceased was widely known in Delaware for her work in church and fraternal circles. She was a member of the local Anchor Lodge, A. O. U. W., and held the position of deputy state organizer. She was in the van of every movement in the lodge. During the time she lived in Wilmington, she was an active member of the German Baptist Church, and was a soloist in the choir. Mr. Kauffman has been a member of the staff at Kells for eight years. During most of that time the Kauffmans lived in Wilmington. About a year ago they moved to Newark. Prior to going to Wilmington they had lived in Dover.

Since coming to Newark, Mrs. Kauffman had made a large circle of friends, who admired her for her devotion to her family, to her aged father, who made his home with her, and for her cheerfulness and optimism.

STORES TO CLOSE

By a common agreement, the chain stores of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, the American Stores Company, and the J. W. Crook Stores Company will close on Wednesday at 6 o'clock, and every Thursday afternoon during June, July and August.

SUNDAY SCHOOL OPENING

The new Sunday School addition to the Presbyterian Church will be formally opened on Sunday, June 17, with the holding of the Children's Day exercises.

Century Club Welfare Committee Reports

We believe that the readers of The Newark Post will be interested in the following report of the Social Service or Welfare Committee of the Newark New Century Club, which was submitted by the chairman of the committee, Mrs. K. V. Townend at the last club meeting of the year, May 28. The report gives an account of the work done from October, 1927, to June, 1928:

Our committee of twelve was organized in the fall and a secretary and treasurer appointed. Meetings have been held once a month at the home of the chairman. Our work began with an appeal for warm clothing, such as coats and sweaters and other things too expensive for the committee to buy. These were received at the clubhouse and mended or buttons sewed on as taken in by members of the committee. There were more garments than could be handled at the time so an informal meeting of the club was given over to the work and it was finished.

Our next appeal in the Newark Post was early in December, preparatory to our Christmas work, when we asked for funds, clothing, toys, and provisions. Dates were set for receiving these things at the club. Ten needy families were described in the paper as being typical of those we were assisting. The response was (Continued on Page 2.)

Complete Program For University Closing

Faculty Committee Announces Hours And Dates Of Various Exercises

Professor Howard K. Preston, chairman of the faculty committee on commencement for the University of Delaware, has announced the completed program for the various exercises. Delaware College and the Women's College will hold joint commencement exercises on the campus in front of Old College, if the weather is clear. In the event of bad weather, the exercises will be held in Wolf Hall or the Armory. They will be held Monday morning at 10:30. All hours announced will be standard time.

Dr. Paul Claudel, French ambassador to this country, will make the commencement address and the baccalaureate sermon Sunday morning to the class will be preached by the Rev. J. Ladd Thomas, of Germantown, Pa. The exercises will start Saturday morning with the laying of the cornerstone of the new engineering building now in course of construction. The Delaware College Alumni is plan- (Continued on Page 10.)

TO TAKE FLYING TRIP

Mr. A. G. Wilkinson, president of the Wilmington Kiwanis Club, and business administrator for the University of Delaware, will leave Saturday morning on a flying trip to Seattle, Washington, to attend the International Convention of Kiwanis Clubs, convening June 17. Mr. Wilkinson will be forced to make a direct and rushed trip back in order to attend to the sailing of the Delaware University Foreign Study Group, on July 12.

H. E. SURVEY AT WOMEN'S COLLEGE

Dr. Martha Van Rensselaer, of the College of Home Economics of Cornell University, was at Women's College yesterday in connection with the survey of Land Grant colleges, which is being made by the National Bureau of Education.

GUILTY OF DISORDER

On Friday, Lavinia Porter, colored, was arraigned before Magistrate Thompson, charged with disorderly conduct, and was fined $5 and costs. She was arrested by Constable William Wideman on a warrant sworn to by Rebecca Anderson, colored.

USED WRONG TAGS

On Saturday Edward V. Moore was brought before Magistrate Thompson, by State Highway Officer Hitchens, charged with using tags on a motor vehicle other than his own. He was fined $10 and costs.

Tax Book Posted

The registration and tax book for the Town of Newark was placed in Rhode's Drug Store, Monday, and will remain there for a period of two weeks. Monday, June 18, will be appeal day, and the Council of Newark will sit in the Council office, from 1 to 6 p. m., on that day to hear appeals. At a special meeting of the Council of Newark, held May 31, the tax rate was fixed at $1.10.

Polish Orphanage Is Dedicated On Sunday

$65,000 Home At Ogletown Opened Before Large Crowd; Senator Bayard And Congressman Houston Make Addresses

Five thousand Polish residents of Wilmington, with large delegations from New England, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland attended the dedication exercises of the new $65,000 Orphanage of the Mater Admirabilis, which were held Sunday at Ogletown. Addresses were given by United States Senator Thomas F. Bayard, United States Congressman Robert G. Houston and prominent Polish leaders. The Orphanage was built by the Delaware Polish Beneficial Association.

Celebration of High Mass was conducted in the morning and religious ceremonies opened the dedication exercises at 3 o'clock. Reverend Adalbert Maolsiecki, of Reading, Pa., blessed the buildings and was followed by the Reverend John S. Gulz, one of the founders of the association and its spiritual advisor, and A. E. Rakoci, famed Polish orator, who made addresses.

Senator Bayard lauded the spirit of humane service which underlaid the conception of the project whereby the fatherless and motherless children of Polish citizens have been provided a refuge where they may develop spiritually, mentally and physically amid ideal surroundings.

AMBULANCE CALLS

On Thursday, Corbet Crompton and T. J. Tasker took a colored man, whose name could not be learned, to the Homeopathic Hospital.

On Sunday the Newark ambulance was used to take Miss Mary Gillespie, of the faculty of the Women's College, to the 2:13 p. m. train. Bert Crow and William Cunningham made up the ambulance crew. Miss Gillespie was going home to her home in Seymour, Indiana.

On Sunday, Thomas Young was taken to Wilmington for an X-ray treatment. Wellington Palmer and William Cunningham made the trip.

FESTIVALS

The Young People's Society of Red Clay Creek Church will hold a festival at that place on Monday evening, June 11. The Young People's Society of White Clay Creek Church will hold a festival on the church lawn, Thursday evening, June 14.

Plows Up Revolutionary Cannon Ball On Cooch's Bridge Battle Ground

Henry Krueger Finds 9 lb. Brass Ball; Lives In House Where Washington, Lafayette and Green Spent Night

A cannon ball, supposed to have been used in the Revolutionary War, was recently plowed up on the Henry C. Krueger farm, near the Welsh Tract Baptist Meeting House and located in the northerly part of the Battle of Cooch's Bridge.

The ball is three and three-quarters inches in diameter and weighs nine pounds. It is of brass and evidently hand made. Except for some dents, it is in excellent state of preservation. Mr. Krueger has sold the ball to Edward W. Cooch.

An interesting fact in connection with the discovery of the cannon ball is that the house in which Mr. Krueger lives is the one in which Generals Washington, Lafayette and Greene once spent a night. The biography of General Greene, in speaking of this occasion, contains the following:

Engineering Building Cornerstone Will Be Laid 10.30 Saturday

Short And Simple Ceremony Will Be Witnessed By Trustees; Only Part Of Building To Be Com- pleted; Cost $221,000

FILLS VITAL NEED

On Saturday morning at 10:30, standard time, exercises of the utmost simplicity will attend the laying of the cornerstone of the new Engineering Building of the University of Delaware, on which work was started several weeks ago. The ceremony will last less than fifteen minutes, and will be witnessed by the Board of Trustees, members of the faculty, and any others wishing to attend. The stone will be put in place by members of the engineering faculty.

The following materials will be placed in the stone: copies of Newark and Wilmington newspapers, a copy of the Delaware College Review, the University Bulletin of 1928, a list of the seniors in engineering to receive degrees of Bachelor of Science, a penny, a nickel, a dime of 1928 issue.

The building is being constructed by the Northeastern Construction Company, of Baltimore, and it is expected that it will be completed early in the fall. The money for the building, $221,000 was appropriated in a bill passed April 5, 1927, by the General Assembly.

The $221,000 appropriated provided for building only one story of the building originally planned, and while that will take care of vital require- (Continued on Page 4.)

SHACKLED NEGRO JUMPS FROM TRAIN AT RUTHBY

There is considerable mystery about a huge handcuffed negro who apparently jumped from a moving Pennsylvania Railroad train at Ruthby, yesterday afternoon, and after appealing to several people to remove his handcuffs, disappeared in a woods nearby, and has not as yet been seen again.

The case was reported to Magistrate Thompson about 8:30 yesterday afternoon by persons to whom the negro had appealed for aid. He was described as being a giant in size. Chief of Police Keeley went immediately to Ruthby, but by that time the negro had disappeared. From inquiries the chief made he traced the negro to a thick woods near the railroad. Keeley was then joined by State Highway Officers Hitchens and Knecht and a Pennsylvania Railroad detective, and the four officers beat the woods until dark. However, they got nothing for their efforts but a thorough wetting, although they were certain that the escaped negro was still in the woods.

Who he is and who he escaped from is still a mystery, as the Delaware police have had no "flyers" on his escape. The State Highway Police are keeping a watch on the woods where he is still supposed to be hiding. It was reported that the back of the negroes head was severely lacerated.

automatic pistol which was on the seat of the car beside him. As he landed the waiter to the negro, the negro shouted, "Put up that other hand." With that Mr. Hollingsworth brought the pistol up and fired a number of shots in the direction of the voice and flashlight. He saw the man fall and turning on his motor drove to Kennett Square, where he reported the matter to Officer McClosky.

The police, with an ambulance, went to the scene of the hold-up, but the negro had vanished. They found blood and two teeth on the ground, and going down the road a piece found the wounded negro in the yard of the home of Mrs. Nichols. Mrs. Nichols later said that the negro had tried to get in her house, but that she was afraid he wanted to rob her and had locked the house against him. Mr. Hollingsworth drove from Kennett to meet the ambulance and then the negro was taken to the hospital at West Chester.

At the hospital it was found that the negro had a wound in the jaw and two bullets in his neck, both lodged near the spine. He claimed no knowledge of the hold-up, but said he had been held up on the road by four other negroes in a machine who had beaten and shot him, and carried him in their car to Mrs. Nichols' home, where they had thrown him out. However the police, next day, returned to the scene of the hold-up, and found where the negro had crawled under the fence into some fields and made his way through several of the fields and back into the road, and then down the road to Mrs. Nichols. In the fields they found Mr. Hollingsworth's wallet, covered with blood, the negroes flashlight, and his hat. Mrs. Hollingsworth identified the hat as the one which the man had worn. Mr. Hollingsworth's first shot apparently hit the flashlight and drilled a hole all the way through the flashlight, pushing out the spring at the end.

After the negro had been treated at the hospital, Mr. Hollingsworth was taken before Squire Walter M. Grace, of Kennett Square, and $1000 bail demanded of him. Dr. E. Grant Gifford, who had treated the negro at the hospital, appeared with him and signed his bond. It is said that there have been a number of such hold-ups in the vicinity of Kennett Square and West Chester, and residents in that section are much elated over Mr. Hollingsworth's courageous act, and feel that it will have a deterrent effect on highwaymen, who have felt that they could molest motorists without meeting with any resistance.

Among other things accomplished were the following: Assistance was furnished to a young girl and her six weeks' old baby, who were deserted by husband and father, in getting home to the mother's parents in North Carolina. They had sent for her, but had not provided sufficient funds for the trip. Outfitting for both was necessary, a berth was procured and various other details attended to, thereby assuring her a safe journey. We received a prompt and grateful letter from her. A mother's pension was secured for a widow with two small children and an aged mother and a home found for her in town where she could make a living by means not available in the country.

Employment for several was obtained; milk delivered temporarily where there was a special need; cases reported to the Children's Bureau and other organizations when unsuitable for us to handle because of conditions or location.

A quantity of our second-hand clothing was a great blessing to a large colored family who had been completely burned out. We have had only five calls from the colored, the one just mentioned; two cases of illness where starvation threatened; especially in a diphtheria quarantine case; a fourth, where we were able to get day's work for the woman and supply her with aprons and house-dresses in order to get the work; the fifth, a surgical case which we turned over to Dr. Hurdle, as he was in a position to have her taken care of.

Century Club Welfare

generous from individuals, merchants, schools and organizations. The last three days before Christmas we received donations, prepared and delivered baskets, a complete dinner and extra groceries, including a bag of flour and basket of potatoes, also a gift marked for each member going to every family. There were extra toys, tooth brushes, and tooth paste for every child as well.

We had twenty-five families at Christmas and have had twelve reported since. These have been investigated and assistance given as needed. An old lady described as case No. 5 at Christmas, has since died. One family has moved away.

A great deal of unemployment and sickness this year has caused the work to expand.

As is customary, a box was sent to the home for feeble-minded children at Christmas time. Coal and wood have been sent to several families. Children have been outfitted with underwear, shoes, stockings, rubbers or galoshes, and other clothing. Some children could not have stayed in school, but for this help. Whenever good second-hand clothing could be fitted this was done, otherwise, we used our supply of new articles or bought what was necessary. The garments given by the Needlework Guild were given to us for distribution and these were all used and given out in Newark. We have also been privileged to draw on their funds for buying shoes and other articles.

Many things donated through the writer have had to be called for and delivered, sometimes meaning trips in the evening or on Sunday. Hams and sides of bacon from a nearby farm, bread and rolls from the High School girls' exhibit; 400 lbs. of flour that came by freight and had to be measured and given out, as well as many other things. Emergency cases required quick action and extra trips.

Discounts and gifts by merchants have enabled us to make our funds go much further than could have been possible otherwise. We have handled over $500, hundreds of garments, quantities of canned goods and other articles. Everything given has been used, and, we believe, advantageously.

We have recently cooperated with Dr. Hurdle in arranging lectures for both white and colored people with free movies, and our latest task is to arrange classes for women at the Health Center for instruction in the care of sick, prevention of disease, etc.; also free clinics, reporting cases of suspected tuberculosis and urging women to have pre-natal and post-natal instruction and care in order to reduce the high mortality of infants and mothers in Delaware.

Respectfully submitted,
Maudie M. Townsend, Chairman.

The foregoing report gives a glimpse of the varied lines in this field and will give a better understanding of what the Welfare Committee of Newark New Century Club has been doing. We greatly appreciate the interest and support of the people of Newark, without which it would have been impossible to accomplish.

Wilmington, Del.

Big work has included some care of the sick, tending in sheets and other supplies, sending a doctor or the visiting nurse, also supplying the visiting nurse with nightgowns for the sick.

The most important side of our work is the dental and medical help we have been able to give. We have been very fortunate in having the services of Dr. Muselman, who has done free work for us every week during the year. The importance of this can be seen by citing a recent case where an eight-year-old girl had to be etherized and have four large molars extracted, which could have been saved if she had been discovered and taken earlier.

All of the doctors have been very sympathetic and ready to respond to our calls without remuneration. We paid the hospital charge for a boy to have his tonsils removed, the surgeon giving his services and the visiting nurse taking the child to the hospital. Four other cases are being arranged for at the close of school. We bought eyeglasses for a little girl who needed them badly, but whose family could not afford them. The visiting nurse took her to Wilmington for examination and prescription. In a few cities and towns the people are awakening to the need of getting the children ready physically during the summer for school in the fall. In Georgia the welfare workers call this "The Summer Round-Up." We are urging this movement in Newark.

Among other things accomplished were the following: Assistance was furnished to a young girl and her six weeks' old baby, who were deserted by husband and father, in getting home to the mother's parents in North Carolina. ### "PRINCESS IDA"

Several hundred persons gathered at Longwood, the estate of Pierre S. du Pont, at eight o'clock, last Saturday night to witness a performance of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Princess Ida," given in the open air theatre as a benefit for the Delaware Chapter of the Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity.

The production was given by the Savoy Opera Company, and it was the first time in 19 years that they had attempted this difficult work. The opera is a musical comedy version of Tennyson's "Princess," a satire on the helplessness of women without men. The orchestration was by members of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra.

The costumes were particularly brilliant, giving the effect of real silks and satins. The color harmonies were planned with care.

Miss Marie Zara made a lovely Princess Ida. Miss Sara Heberton, as the fair Melissa, displayed a rich, contralto voice. Miss Kendrick's Psyche was well sung.

Among the men, John Williams was the best actor. His interpretation of the cynical, hunchbacked king was excellent, chiefly understood. Mr. Wood, as Hildebrand, and the trio of princes were also good.

After the final curtain a rainbow wall of water, the fountains, were played behind the stage. Seven tall, spires of water behind the white daisies on the stage, two more spires behind in the green beyond. On them were played a battery of changing lights from a switchboard behind the audience. A switchboard containing 120 switches controls the motion and colors of the water work display.

Among the hundreds present were Mr. and Mrs. Pierre du Pont, the host and hostess; Dr. and Mrs. Charles Reese, Mr. and Mrs. Echols, Governor Robinson and party, Mr. William Kestub and party, Dr. Joseph Odell and party, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Hulihen, Dr. and Mrs. Charles M. Stein, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kemp, and her daughter, Mrs. Penfield.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to our friends and neighbors for their help and also the beautiful flowers in our sad bereavement.
Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Conner.

Charming Oriole Coffee Shop Opens On Main Street

Unique Decorations
Feature New Shop
 "The Place That Is Different"
 Motto of Coffee Shop

One of the most charming and attractive eating places in the vicinity was opened last Saturday at 73 E. Main street, the Oriole Coffee Shop. The proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. Beane, have had 35 years' experience in the restaurant business, and this new shop is an epitome of all that has gone before. Definite ideals and principles developed during their career are to be carried on in this pleasant little shop.

"The place that is different" is the motto adopted for the Coffee Shop because it is intended to appeal to discriminating people, those who love pleasant, refined surroundings.

And the Oriole is certainly most attractive. Repairs and alterations have been made, the walls, textured and re-papered in rich yet subdued colors. Tables and chairs are of the style known as Old Hickory.

Food is to be of the best, palatably prepared. The usual coffee house fare is to be served—sandwiches, salads, cold dishes and coffee.

All in all the new Oriole is a delightful place for a quiet lunch and a pleasant chat.

METTLER GIVES REASONS FOR CORP. POPULARITY

"The corporation in its most perfect form unites so far as possible the best features of the individual proprietorship and the partnership," says Franklin L. Mettler, of 832 Market street, Wilmington, well-known corporation organizer. "Like the proprietorship it is an individual before the law, but like the partnership it allows a group of individuals to unite their capital and skill into one organic union."

"The four most important characteristics of a corporation are limited liability, continued existence, transferable shares, and centralized control. These important characteristics have led to extensive adoption of this form of organization within recent years. It is indeed the best and strongest possible form for a business of great size or many partners."

MUNDORFF'S SOFT DRINKS AT ELSMERE CARNIVAL

J. A. Mundorff of the Orange Crush Bottling Company has been awarded the contract of supplying soft drinks to the Elsmere Firemen's Carnival, to be held in that town from June 8 to 15. This will include all soft drinks sold at any stand. In addition, Mr. Mundorff will have his own booth at the carnival for the purpose of dispensing beverages bottled by him.

A novel advertising sign has been secured by Mr. Mundorff for his trucks. This is the Beam-O-Lite sign, which is placed on top of each truck over the driver's seat. The light enters from the top of the sign and is reflected by a mirror, giving the appearance of being electrically lighted. So far as is known no other business house in the state has yet secured these signs besides the Orange Crush Company.

TYPEWRITERS GO TO COLLEGE

Typewriters are in great demand at the college. The students have not only found in them a time saver for themselves but the professors like a typed manuscript.

Schilling & Lake, of Wilmington, report a large number of rentals to students, and the typewriters are bargained for every day, particularly during the examination period.

The Royal typewriter with its long length of active life, and continued perfection of outfit, with its easy writing, is the make most sought after.

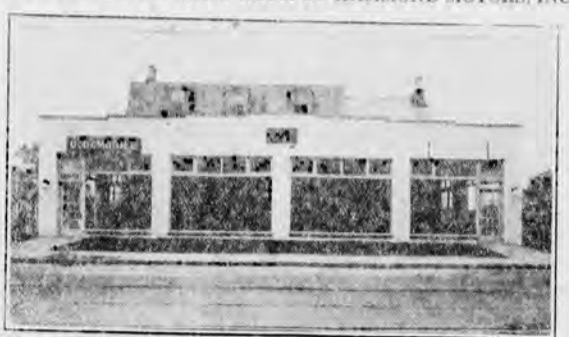

In the few hours of night you can hear the click of the Royals in all the Frat houses as well as in the Dorms.

HAMMOND MOTORS CO. IN NEW QUARTERS

Formal opening of the new quarters of the Hammond Motors Company, Oldsmobile dealers, at Thirty-seventh and Market streets, Wilmington, took place last week. A special invitation was extended to the members of the auto trade to inspect the spacious quarters on the evening of Memorial Day.

Hammond Motors took over the

HANDSOME NEW SHOW ROOM OF HAMMOND MOTORS, INC.

The showroom of this building is 48 by 61 feet and contains six large plate glass windows, four fronting on Market street and the other two at the ends of the building. Entrance is gained by doors at each end, and large panel glass double doors adjoining them permit the driving in of automobiles on the showroom floor. Ten models can easily be accommodated.

The building, in daylight, is conspicuous by the white stucco, which covers all that is not taken up by windows. Brick trimmings stand out in relief. At night the structure will be brilliantly illuminated by 12 large lights on the inside. Besides, there are two electric signs on the front of the building, as well as one at each end, advertising the quarters both to incoming and outgoing motorists.

Oldsmobile agency in April, 1926. Prior to that Mr. Hammond, who had been for five years in the Buick factory, and three years in the Chevrolet factory at Flint, had a sub agency under the Wilmington Auto Company for these two makes of cars. The main office was here in Newark, and a branch in Wilmington at 35th and Market streets. Two months after taking over the agency, however, it was found that a downtown showroom was desirable, and consequently the property at 220 West Ninth street was leased. The increase in business necessitated expansion, and it was decided to build, in what promises to be in time a fine business section. However, the garage at Thirty-fifth and Market streets is being retained as a service station for all makes of cars other than Oldsmobile.

H. L. Dinmore, who is sales manager for the company, has been in the automobile game here since 1906, and is very well known in the business. The sales force, which has grown from one to four men, includes Boyd Rutan, who has been leading, for several months, the Eastern territory in sales. The section embraces Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

SPECIAL BRICK FOR NEW FRATERNITY HOUSE

Special brick is to be used on the new fraternity house of Sigma Nu soon to be erected on the University Campus. It is what is known as a round faced brick and is to be furnished by the Oberly Brick Company of Wilmington.

The new school at Middletown is also going to use these special round faced bricks, supplied by Oberly.

The Oberly Company has several large contracts, both in Wilmington and in the lower sections of the state. The Armory and the Junior High School in Wilmington, the Bellanca plant at New Castle, in which a half million bricks are used, and the new colonial style school at Seaford, using

SKILL RINGS ON BUDGET PLAN

The budget plan of buying is the modern and up-to-date method of making purchases. Furniture, automobiles, radios, have led the way, and now it is possible for the young engaged couple to secure both wedding and engagement rings on this buying plan. Sachs Bros., at 602 Equitable Building, Wilmington, have inaugurated this plan and already many have taken advantage of it.

Any diamond or ring may be bought on this plan, and at exactly the same price as if spot cash were paid. Sachs Bros. announcement is most timely, since June is significant of brides and graduations, both requiring the purchase of jewelry.

TOWN COUNCIL TURNS DOWN EX-SERVICE MEN

June 5, 1928.

Editor, Newark Post.
Dear Sir:

The town fathers have seen fit to turn the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars down after partly promising them the room over the Town Council room.

They have decided that the town engineers would have to use the room after the room has stood idle since the Fire Company moved out. This decision was reached immediately after the ex-service men asked for its use. It seems very strange that the engineers need so much more room now than they did before.

In every other town in the state, excepting Wilmington, the town councils have offered the different posts meeting rooms, as they are not self-supporting. Evidently it did not take our town fathers long to get over the war.

We of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars wish to thank two of the members of the Council for their loyal support in trying to get this room for us and to pledge them our services and backing in anything that they may want to do.
Ex-soldiers.

"Every person has two educations, one which he receives from others, and one, more important, which he gives to himself."—Gibbon.

"Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might."—Ecclesiastes.

THE WISDOM OF CONFUCIOUS The Five Qualities

Moral virtue consists of being able, anywhere and everywhere, to exercise five particular qualities: Self-respect, magnanimity, sincerity, earnestness, and benevolence. Show self-respect and others will respect you; be magnanimous, and you will win all hearts; be sincere, and men will trust you; be earnest, and you will achieve great things; be benevolent, and you will be fit to impose your will on others.

On Himself

If the pursuit of riches were a commendable pursuit, I would join in it, even if I had to be a chariot-driver for the purpose. But seeing that it is not a commendable pursuit, I engage in those which are more to my taste.

Prominence

Instead of being concerned that you have no office, be concerned to think how you may fit yourself in office. Instead of being concerned that you are not known, seek to be worthy of being known.

True Values

When the solid outweighs the ornamental, we have boorishness, when the ornamental outweighs the solid, we have superficial smartness. Only from a proper blending of the two will the higher type of man emerge.

Engineering Building

ments for shop and laboratory space, it will still leave the engineering school badly handicapped for recitation rooms. The cost of the completed building planned was $310,000, and this was the sum named in the original bill presented to the General Assembly. This sum was cut in a substitute bill, but it is hoped that the next Assembly will appropriate the additional funds necessary to complete the building. This was, incidentally, the first money appropriated for permanent improvements at Delaware College for a period of fifteen years.

The present scattered buildings, used by the engineering school, three of them wooden shacks salvaged from a War plant, are unsuitable in arrangement, too crowded to house necessary apparatus, and in such a bad condition as to make it a waste of money to continue to try to repair them.

The crowding in the electrical laboratory has reached the point where there is no room for installing other apparatus necessary for efficient instruction. The floors are not sufficiently strong to carry heavy pieces of apparatus nor solid enough to prevent a serious amount of oscillation.

The new building, completed, anticipates requirements of the engineering department for, at least, twenty-five years. It will provide facilities suitable to keep Delaware in its front rank position with the six best engineering schools in the country; a position, which it has thus far maintained under a tremendous handicap in lack of equipment and facilities for housing it.

FACULTY NOTES

Professor George L. Schuster, head of the agronomy department of the University of Delaware, who has spent the college year just ending doing graduate work at Cornell University, will return to Delaware this summer.

Professor T. A. Baker, professor of animal husbandry, has been granted a year's leave of absence to complete his graduate work for a Ph. D. in Animal Husbandry. He will spend the next college year at Cornell.

R. O. Bausman, formerly county agent for New Castle County, who has been on leave for a year doing graduate work at Cornell will return shortly to become a member of the Economics Department.

Donald B. Coney, librarian at the University of Delaware has resigned to accept the position of assistant librarian at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, N. C. Mr. Coney, who is a graduate of the University of Michigan, has been at Delaware but one year but has done library work at other institutions for the past seven years. His successor has not as yet been named.

"All true work is sacred; in all true work, were it but true hand-labor, there is something of divineness."—Thomas Carlyle.

When we are hoping it will rain some other day instead of today, we are not considering the other fellow.

DR. RYDEN WINS YALE'S LARGEST ESSAY AWARD

The John Addison Porter Prize of $500, the largest prize offered at Yale University, has been awarded to George Herbert Ryden, of Newark, candidate for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in the Yale Graduate School this year, for his essay entitled, "Foreign Policy of the United States with Reference to Samoa from 1871 to 1881." Dr. Ryden is a graduate of Augustana College, and received the M. A. degree from Yale in 1911. He is Professor of History at the University of Delaware, and is now on leave of absence to complete his dissertation for the Ph. D. degree. He held the rank of Major in the Red Cross during the World War, and was decorated by Italy and Russia.

The John Addison Porter Prize was established in 1872 by the Kingsley Trust Association, the Scroll and Key Society of Yale University, and named in honor of Professor John Addison Porter, B. A., Yale 1842. It is offered annually for the best essay on any subject of general human interest.

ACADEMY GIVES ROOM TO EX-SERVICE MEN

At the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Newark Academy, held last night in the office of the Council of Newark, it was voted to allow the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars the use of a room on the second floor of the Academy building as a meeting place. Eben B. Frazer was appointed a committee of one to meet with the commanders of the posts and select the room.

The directors re-elected the following officers: Dr. H. G. Kollock, president; N. M. Motherall, vice-president; and Mrs. Laura Hossinger, secretary and treasurer. The following were appointed a credential committee: Eben B. Frazer, N. M. Motherall and Daniel Thompson. The Academy trustees are: Dr. H. G. M. Kollock, Charles B. Evans, J. P. Cann, Daniel Thompson, George Griffin, E. B. Frazer and Mrs. Laura Hossinger.

It is interesting to note that since 1872 the minutes of the meetings of the Academy trustees have been kept consecutively in the same book, and that for the past 46 years a member of the Hossinger family has written the records. First James Hossinger, then his son, Joseph Hossinger, and now Joseph Hossinger's widow, Mrs. Laura Hossinger.

Besides being a sad loss to his many friends, Dr. Paine's death is a crippling blow to the teaching and administrative organization of the University. Dr. Walter Hüllihen, president of the University, in a statement made today said:

"Dr. Paine was considered one of the foremost scholars and most inspiring teachers that has ever served the University of Delaware. He had built the physics department to a point where the equipment and the quality of courses compared favorably with that of any college in the country. His scholarship was attested by the fact that when he published the results of several years of research work, two years ago, the Jefferson Laboratory at Harvard University made a special request for 500 copies of his papers for distribution to physicists throughout the country. Much of the research work on these articles had been done by Dr. Paine at Harvard before he came to the University of Delaware, in September, 1923."

respect, but promotes their own self-respect. No greater service may be rendered, the Senator asserted, than that which concretely opens a way for others to enjoy life's riches. Polish ideals, he said, were closely allied to those of Americans, and no fear need be felt, he asserted emphatically, that the Poles of this country will not express the fullest conception of Americanism.

The energy and wisdom which were combined in bringing to fruition the formation of the orphanage were declared by Congressman Houston to be well worth emulating by American citizens of long standing.

The Congressman emphasized the importance of service to others, declaring that more pleasure as well as lasting benefit rebounded from bringing happiness into the lives of those less fortunate than in a self-centered existence.

The Polish citizens of this city, he declared, have demonstrated their Americanism in providing concrete measures for the care of their orphans.

Visitors throughout the day were taken on tours of inspection over the grounds and buildings of the institution. The main building, modernly equipped in every detail to accommodate twenty or more girls, an annex to care for a like number of boys, a spacious barn, poultry house and other out-buildings have been completely renovated. A house is provided for the superintendent of the farm which covers about 220 acres of fields, orchards and woods. The direction of the orphanage is under the Sisters, Servants of Our Lady of the Immaculate Conception.

The committee in charge of the dedication comprised John J. Winiak, president of the association, and chairman; Vincent J. Kowalewski, secretary; the Rev. John S. Gula, D. D., successful completion of such an orphanage serves not only to increase the respect of the Polish citizens in the eyes of the rest of their fellow-citizens.

Re-Unions At W. C. D.

Two interesting features in connection with the commencement season at Women's College are the reunions of the Classes of 1918 and 1923. The members of the former class will hold a tenth reunion luncheon on the Women's College campus. The married members have been invited to bring their husbands and children to this luncheon. During the commencement week-end, Boletus, one of the small dormitories will be turned over to the Class of 1918, as a place of residence.

The members of the Class of 1923 will hold their reunion at a dinner at the Delaware Tea House Saturday evening.

In addition to these parties, the members of the Senior Class will entertain their "little sisters," the Sophomores, at dinner on Saturday evening.

The annual June business meeting of the Alumnae Association of Women's College will be held at one o'clock, June ninth, in the Dining Hall at Women's College. The business meeting will be preceded by a luncheon at twelve o'clock, standard time. Miss Mabel Smith, of the Class of 1923, is president of the Alumnae Association. The Class of 1928 is the eleventh class to be graduated from Women's College and the members of the class will be the guests of the Alumnae Association at the luncheon on Saturday. Miss Katharine Horton is president of the Class of 1928, and Miss Marjorie Johnson has been elected class representative on the Alumnae Board.

Kansas Cleans Out Billboards and Other States Take Action

A decision by the Supreme Court of Kansas opens the way to removal of all advertising signs and billboards along state highways. The court declared valid a statute enacted by the Legislature last year which prohibited any kind of signs, except official markers on the rights of way of highways, also any type of advertising sign within 500 feet of a turn in the road, an intersection or a railroad grade crossing.

Subsequently the Kansas Highway Commission directed county highway boards to proceed with the removal of the signs already put up. A sign company brought suit against the Board of Douglas county and obtained an injunction through the District Court against the board's removal of signs. The Supreme Court reversed the decision of the District Court. Removal of all signs in accordance with the state law may now proceed.

The Supreme Court's decision is regarded as significant as the signs involved in the suit were only 20x14 inches in size. But the higher court held that even that, under certain conditions, might constitute an obstruction to the view of a motorist.

Unightly billboards which mar the scenic beauty of many rural spots will eventually go down before the united barrage of women's clubs of the Nation, it was indicated at the convention of the Association of National Advertisers, at Cleveland, recently. Inroads on the billboards of New England made by club women have had effect on other sections of the United States, officials said.

Guy C. Smith of New York, chairman of the outdoor advertising committee of the association, said in an interview:

"The opposition of the women to billboards in the city, I understand, is confined to noncommercial sections. Of course, that all depends on the definition of a commercial section." Edward T. Hall, a former president of the association, said women's attitude on national products "is something to always take into consideration."

Methods of the circus men, motion picture exhibitors and chain store proprietors were commended by Kenneth M. Goode, an advertising councillor of New York City. "These men study people and their habits," he said.

For Young Writers

Manuscripts should always be typewritten and double-spaced. When folding a manuscript, it is best to let the edges of the leaves reach a quarter of an inch beyond the second crease in the paper. When the folding is too accurate, especially if the manuscript is very thin, it is often a little difficult to find the edges of the paper, and editors are so busy they should not have to waste time turning the material over and over looking for them. Push all the inclosures to one end of the outside envelope; if this is done, there will be less likelihood of edges being torn when it is opened.

Never roll a manuscript. A rolled manuscript probably will not be read. If a manuscript is bulky, mail it flat. Envelopes with heavy backings like those used when mailing pictures can be bought from a stationer; or the writer can buy ordinary envelopes and use heavy cardboard to keep the paper from being crumpled. If the backing is placed inside of the return envelope, it will insure proper protection if the manuscript is returned.

Always inclose an envelope properly stamped and addressed for the return of the manuscript if the editor cannot use it. Editors will sometimes return manuscripts when this is not done; but it is hardly fair to expect it. Be certain that the inside envelope is large enough to hold the manuscript.

When sending out illustrations, it is very important to protect them with backing. A sheet of white paper should cover the face of the picture, and the backing should be large enough to reach the edges. If an illustration is copyrighted, it is well to call attention to this fact by a pencilled notation on the back of the picture stating to whom credit must be given. Illustrations can often be borrowed from government departments, newspapers, individuals, and so forth for a few days until cuts can be made.

When starting a manuscript, put name and address in the upper left-hand corner of the first page, and the number of words (this is not necessary with verse) in the upper right-hand corner. Put the title of the material to be sold about halfway down the page in capital letters. If the manuscript is to be sent to a publication which prints the name of the writer with the material, put under the title "By So-and-So."

If there are several pages of material, it is well to carry a part of the title over to the top of the left corner of each page; the number of pages should go in the center. If more than one manuscript is to go in one receptacle, clip together the pages of each manuscript. Carelessness in regard to these two things often causes confusion, and the loss of parts of many manuscripts can be traced to the lack of attention to these details.

Never send out a carbon copy. The original is the only courteous way.

Always make an effort to send out manuscripts in good condition. Use white paper 8 1/2 by 11 inches in size, and have black ribbon for the typewriter. After a ribbon dries out too much to make clear copy, wind it tightly on one spool, oil it with sewing machine oil, then after putting it in the little oiled-paper case in which it was bought, place it in its tin box. Put in the box a strip of paper with one end outside, on which is written the date. If two or three of these boxes are used, the writer can be certain to get the ribbon which has been there longest when one is needed if he looks at these slips. If there is too much oil on the ribbon, use it for rough drafts for a day or so and it will be all right. If the type gets clogged with ink, clean it with a cloth dipped in carbona.

A great deal of the material sent out, especially to large publications, is not seen by the editors, as there are "readers" who go over the manuscripts sent to editorial offices and return the ones not suited to the needs of their publications. In a way this is a benefit to the writer, as he gets his unavailable manuscripts back a little sooner, and can send them to other publishing companies. A good deal of information as to the kind of material desired can be gathered by reading rejection slips and jotting in a notebook things of interest to the author. Be certain that only fairness and kindness can come to the writer, and that the editor never returns a manuscript because a certain person did or did not write it. The editor has to deal with the public, and he has to publish things best suited to his needs.

The writer has found it helpful to keep a slip of paper in her desk on which she jots all the new ideas that come to her for articles and so forth. As fast as these subjects are used they are marked off. Some of them are never used, and are finally discarded, but most of them come in well sooner or later when it seems to be difficult to decide on a theme.

Until one's writing becomes so active that it is necessary to keep filing cases, it is a good plan to have a number of envelopes into which all material for certain articles can be put till the finished manuscript is ready for mailing. If these envelopes are large enough to allow the pages, as they are typed, to lie flat in them, it will keep the pages from being crumpled. If the name of the article is written in pencil on the envelope it can be erased later and the same envelope can be used again. Old envelopes one has on hand will often answer very nicely for this purpose.

More Than A Joke

When Will Rogers, whirling his lasso, remarks, "All I know is what I see in the papers," his audiences laugh at what they regard a good joke. Possibly it is; but the joke would seem to be on the audiences, representing as they do a typical section of that American public which derives its knowledge of all important (and many unimportant) events from the daily newspapers. It is true that occasionally the radio brings fragments of a story that has not yet appeared in print, but as a general rule the press is the sole source of popular information.

Not only do the many millions of Americans depend upon the press for a record of passing events, but they are also to a very large extent influenced in the opinions they form concerning them by the editorial pages that profess to interpret the more important happenings. This is particularly true of the political field, where an utterance by some party leader, or action by a political organization, is hailed as momentous, or condemned as puerile, according to the politics of the particular paper referring to it. Probably a large majority of Americans read but one paper daily, or if more than one, only those agreeing with their political predilections. The result is that the reader accepts the interpretation given by the journal reflecting his own opinions.

To one scanning the representative newspapers published in the more important cities of the United States it would seem that there is a growing tendency on the part of some editorial writers to belittle the efforts that are being made to set higher standards in political affairs and to secure better service by those performing public tasks. That in the long run the laws and governmental agencies of a democratic country will approximately represent the standards of a majority of the voters may be taken for granted. This, however, is no reason why those honestly seeking to improve methods and conditions should be regarded as amiable dreamers, impractical enthusiasts, or, as they are often characterized, seekers after notoriety or power.

There is always room for honest difference of opinion concerning the various suggestions for remedying apparent abuses and imperfections in the social and political order. Some of these may have merit; others may be worthless. Constructive criticism that points out defects is valuable. Contemptuous reflections on the motives of those seeking laudable ends is unworthy of what purports to be an educational institution.

"Bridge of San Luis Rey" Wins Pulitzer Novel Prize for 1927

Vernon Louis Parrington, Edwin Arlington Robinson, Charles Edward Russell, Eugene O'Neill and Thornton Wilder have just been named as winners of the chief Pulitzer awards for 1927, for the best American history, verse, biography, play and novel, respectively, written during the year.

The Pulitzer awards in journalism and letters were announced by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University. The awards were made by the trustees of the university on the recommendation of the advisory board of the school of journalism.

Mr. Parrington received the $2000 prize for the best book of the year dealing with the history of the United States. The winning work is his two volumes entitled, "Main Currents in American Thought."

Three Times Winner

Mr. Robinson, who received the $1000 award for "the best volume of verse published during the year by an American author," twice previously has received the same prize. His winning volume is "Tristram," a modern version of the old story of Tristram and Isolt.

The $1000 prize for the best American biography teaching patriotic and unselfish services to the people, was awarded Charles Edward Russell for the authorship of "The American Orchestra and Theodore Thomas."

Mr. O'Neill's play, "Strang Interlude" is the third for which he has received the Pulitzer award of $1000. He won the prize for the first time in 1910 and again in 1922.

The prize of $1000 for the best novel of the year was given to Mr. Wilder for "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," selected by the jury as the best representation of the "whole atmosphere of American life and the highest standard of American manners and manhood." It is Mr. Wilder's second book.

Indianapolis Times Wins

In the journalism awards, the $500 gold medal for "the most distinguished and meritorious public service rendered by an American newspaper during the year" was given to the Indianapolis Times "for its work in exposing political corruption in Indiana."

The $500 award for the best work by an editorial writer during the year was given to Grover Cleveland Hall, for his editorials in the Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser, against gangsterism and racial and religious intolerance.

Nelson Harding, cartoonist on the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, was awarded the $500 prize for the best cartoon of the year for his drawing "May His Shadow Never Grow Less," using the theme of Lindbergh's good will flight to South America.

Two prizes included in the Pulitzer awards were withheld by the judges on the ground that no work had been done during the year to justify them. The first was $1000 for the best reporter's work during the year, the test being accuracy, terseness and accomplishment of some public good.

The second was the $1000 for the "best history of services rendered to the public by the American press during the preceding year or for the publication through Columbia University Press of publications of service to American journalism."

Three traveling scholarships of $1800 each to graduates of the Columbia School of Journalism were awarded to Philip Seckler, of Brooklyn, Alfred D. Britton, Jr., and Mary D. Ronan, of New York City. They will study social and political conditions in Europe.

A $1500 scholarship for the most talented and deserving music student selected in the United States for a year of European study went to Lamar Stringfield of Raleigh, N. C. The $1500 scholarship to the most promising art student was awarded to Gordon Samstag of New York City.

ENGLISH JESUIT'S BOOK A GREAT TREASURE

One of the rarest books in the world has been found in the public library of the small town of Wigan, England, and is on its way to the International Exhibition at Cologne in Germany. The book is "The Epistle of the Persecution," written by Robert Parsons and printed by him in 1582 after his exile to France. It was condemned as a pernicious book by the Elizabethan authorities, and as fast as consignments arrived in England a bonfire was made of them. Two copies escaped. The other is in the Bodleian at Oxford.

Parsons, the author, nearly lost his head on the block. He had been Fellow Bursar and Dean of Balliol College at Oxford. In 1574 he "resigned or was dismissed for reasons which have been disputed." It was a disputatious time. Mary, Queen of Scots, having taken refuge in England, was being kept in jail by Elizabeth, and Elizabeth had been excommunicated by the Pope.

Parsons, in Louvain, met Father William Good, entered the Jesuit Society and with Edmund Campion was sent on a secret mission to England. Campion was captured and beheaded; Parsons, escaping to Rouen, went to Spain when the Armada was sunk and founded five seminaries for English priests. His ambition was to be Cardinal in England, but instead he was appointed head of the English College in Rome.—N. Y. Times.

PARENTHOOD

So many national movements in the United States have got under way because parents are seeking the light of true wisdom that together they may well be referred to as the Parent Movement. With nearly 1,200,000 members in the National Congress of Parents and Teachers; with ably edited magazines published especially for parents; with universities meeting demands for courses on the improvement of home and the family, it can no longer be stated sweepingly that the home has shifted all its responsibilities onto the schools. The fathers and mothers who earnestly desire to be good fathers and mothers are too many to allow the phrase "home neglect" to stand as a universal indictment. Up to a few years ago, great concern was continuously expressed in newspaper, magazine and book over the decadence of the home. Though only a beginning has been made, parents are rising to the challenge. The school and the church are at least aware of an awakening parenthood.

It is a new kind of home that is in the making. It is being built upon a new model. The "old home" had its beauties. But the new home has beauties which the old never knew—for one thing, a comradeship between parents and children that is different, that is richer, that is more sincere. And the intelligent parent of today makes home for his child on an ever broadening scale. He helps the child's idea of home to grow until it includes the neighborhood, then the larger and still larger community. There are parents in the United States who are even becoming internationally minded, who help their children to love France, or England, for instance, in such a way that distant lands and people in a very true sense become a part of home. And it is this new parent who realizes that the child is a fellow man worthy of the best understanding and closest friendship.

For a better grasp of the new concept of home large groups of parents are on the move. Thousands of parents are giving wholeheartedly of their time and thought to the schools. The National Congress of Parents and Teachers, to refer to one of many organizations busy in this work, has increased in active membership over 1200 per cent in ten years and has branches in every state in the Union. Parent-teacher activities have taken countless forms and have been outstandingly successful. One of their chief purposes is to organize facilities for the education of parents and to bring about such a recognition of the profession of parenthood as to influence men and women to fit themselves by study and training for this most important field of public service.—Christian Science Monitor.

OUTSTANDING WOMEN'S COLLEGE ATHLETE

MISS BONNIE WALKER

Miss Bonnie Walker, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. A. Walker, of Kells Avenue, and a senior in the arts and science course at the Women's College, is the outstanding athlete of all time in the college. At an athletic dinner last Wednesday evening at the college she was awarded 3,000 points in her athletic record. No one has ever made such a record before and the constitution of the Athletic Association has no provision for reward to such a record. It is likely that a specially designed ring or pin will be given her. In her sophomore year, she received the college athletic letter "D" with 1,000 points. In her junior year she received the first Delaware blazer to be awarded for 2,000 points. Since that time Miss Frances Wilson, '27, and Carmen Thomaschewski, '29, have been awarded these blazers.

THE SICK

Robert Wallace Hancock, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy E. OPENS GREEN GABLES

Last week, George W. Hollett, of Wilmington, opened Green Gables, his third beautiful store and restaurant, in the Main street building, which was formerly Coverdale's Restaurant. Mr. Hollett's two other stores are Hollett's Candy Store, 9th and Shipley streets, Wilmington, and Creole Court Restaurant, West 10th street, Wilmington.

Green Gables will be a combination candy store and restaurant, and will be run under the same policies that have made his other two establishments so successful. Miss Mable Collins, of Newark, who had her first training with Mr. Hollett, will manage Green Gables. Miss Collins was with Coverdale's until they retired, and before that was at the Blue Hen Tea Room. It was she who first interested Mr. Hollett in coming to Newark.

The candy sold in the store will be of Hollett's own manufacture, which has become famous throughout Delaware in the seven years that Mr. Hollett has been in business in Wilmington.

CITIZENS ASSON TO MEET

The first annual meeting of the Delaware Citizens Association will be held at the du Pont-Biltmore Hotel, Wilmington, on Friday, June 15. The meeting will be preceded by a luncheon in the Club Room of the Hotel at twelve o'clock, daylight saving time. Honorable William H. Only 10 Days to Make Connections to Sewer

Immediately collection days for the collection of rubbish. All rubbish must be taken to the curb for collection, as the collection will not go into yards for it. As the schedule of collection has as yet been determined, it will be best to have rubbish out early on the morning of the first day.

It was voted to give one property owner $25 for right of way over his property for the new storm sewer, and to negotiate with another property owner for a right of way over his property. Mr. C. Nickerson, who owns property at the end of the new sewer and through which is a natural waterway into which the sewer will discharge, appeared before the Council and asked what provision it was prepared to make for damage to his property. He suggested that the Council either run the sewer through his property or pay for the privilege of emptying into the ditch. It was pointed out that the ditch in question was a natural waterway and that it had received the flow of water before the sewer was constructed and would receive very little more water when the sewer was in operation. The Council declined to make any provision for this property. It was further stated that where right of way was purchased there had been no natural waterway. Mr. Nickerson stated that he felt that the outflow of the sewer would damage his property; that engineers had gone on his property and had driven stakes and enlarged his ditch without his permission. He asked who had given them that authority, and Mayor Frazer replied that he had. Mr. Nickerson left, stating that he would consult an attorney about his rights in the matter.

The question of a cut in rates by the Delaware Electric Company was brought up and the secretary was requested to write the company asking if the Town of Newark would receive the cut. If that should be the case, it is likely that the Town will make a reduction in rates.

The requests of the Posts of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars for use of the room over the Council office was brought up and Mayor Frazer stated that the engineers were using the room for an office and a store room, and that it would be impossible to grant its use to anyone else.

On motion of Councilman Hubert, it was voted to paint white lines 30 feet back of the corners at streets where there are traffic signals and lights and that cars must stop at the white lines. There have been numerous complaints of cars crowding the crossings and interfering with traffic. It was also stated that there was an ordinance prohibiting parking within 30 feet of a corner.

Mayor Frazer reported an offer from Dr. A. S. Eastman, of the University of Delaware tennis courts as a playground during the summer. Dr. Eastman in his offer asked that the town provide supervision of the courts so that they would not be damaged. The secretary was requested to thank Dr. Eastman and state that if the town accepted his offer that it would provide proper supervision.

A request from Charles Wollaston was read asking remuneration for light and water lines run into property before it was taken over by the town. In the request attention was called to the fact that several property owners had received compensation for such lines. The request was refused, and it was stated that those who had received compensation, had put in lines under contract with the Town that they would be reimbursed if the Town took over that section.

The secretary was requested to write Guy R. Ford stating that the demolished sign on the property across from Leak's Garage still remained. Mr. Ford had already notified the Council that he had ordered a sign company to remove the sign.

The treasurer reported a balance of $14,271.60 in the treasury, June 1.

The Alderman turned in a sum of $36 for fines and license fees.

The milk report, submitted by H. R. Baker, milk inspector, read as follows:

Durant Line Again Smashes Records

More automobiles were built and sold last month by the Elizabeth, N. J., plant of Durant Motors, Inc., than in any previous month in the history of the company, 11,012—an increase over March of more than 13 per cent, which in turn exceeded all former records by 20 per cent. This additional production represents an average increase of 54 cars more per day than in March.

The total number of Durant cars built in the last two months is 20,873.

an increase over any two previous consecutive months of 46.5 per cent of 126 cars per day.

This record breaking began last September with the greatest sales and production of any September since the Company was formed, only four months after Mr. Durant announced his intention of taking active part in the management of Durant Motors. This was followed by a new sales record for October and a three months' record for September, October and November, which with the new records just established, prove conclusively the fact that these advances are no mere "flashes in the pan" but a steady healthy growth. T. S. Johnson, assistant to W. C. Durant, states that there is an overwhelming demand for the complete line of Durant cars, there being on file with the company, more unfilled orders than ever before, demonstrating the brilliant success of the new models.

Despite the fact that the crews on the assembly lines are working nine hours a day, six days a week and a large part of the plant is working both day and night, seven days a week, further increases in production is planned. The May schedule at the Durant Plant at Elizabeth calls for a minimum of 13,000 cars, an increase of 76 cars per day. At the same time work is being rushed on the new $750,000 extension on the Durant Plant at Lansing, Mich., which will give that plant alone, a production of 1,000 cars a day.

The Rittenhouse Motor Company distributes the Durant line in this territory.

NAT. SAFETY COUNCIL AWARDS R. R. TROPHY

The National Safety Council has just announced that the 1927 safety contest among employees of the forty-two Class I railroads in Group G was won by the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway, a subsidiary of the Pennsylvania Railroad System. Employees of this company had the lowest total casualty rate in the entire group.

The National Safety Council trophy, a large bronze plaque of appropriate design, has been received on behalf of the employees by C. S. Krick, of Philadelphia, president of the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway, who is also a vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

During the next few months, the trophy will be exhibited at various places along the B. C. & A. and then will be returned to Broad Street Station, Philadelphia. In the railroad employees' safety contest last year, all Class I railroads in the country were classified by the National Safety Council into seven groups, according to their respective man-hour exposure, ranging from more than 100,000,000 man-hours down to fewer than 2,000,000 man-hours. Class I includes all railroads having gross revenues of $1,000,000 a year or more.

A popular composer is in California. He gives birth to a new song. All his business connections are in the East. How to get the song across the continent? A telephone call! He hums the tune over the wires. It travels over the snow-capped Rockies, across the great desert, the Mississippi Valley, and the Alleghenies. It arrives in New York instantly, and is taken down—ready for publication. Not a tone—not an inflection—is lost. That tells the story of "New Era" telephone service. Exercises

The baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the High School will be given in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday, June 10, at 7:30 p. m., standard time, by the pastor, the Reverend H. E. Hallman.

The class day exercises will be held in Wolf Hall, June 13, at 7:30 p. m., standard time.

Commencement exercises will be held in Wolf Hall, June 15, at 7:30 p. m., standard time. Dr. Charles L. Candee, of Westover Hills, formerly pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Wilmington, will make the address. The following forty members of the senior class will receive diplomas:

Alice M. Bowman, Gladys M. Brown, Elizabeth M. Campbell, Hazel M. Cannon, Ann W. Chalmers, George Cook, David B. Cole, Katherine E. Colmery, James L. Crooks, Ethel G. Crowe, Dorothy D. Dameron, Willa V. Dawson, John W. Dayett, Anna M. Fraser, Joseph C. Gamp, Herman Handloff, Mildred R. Hobson, Jennie Hoffman, Isabel MacD. Hutchison, Mary R. Kirk, Frank D. Layman, Ruthanna S. Rothwell, Ann J. Thoroughgood, Alfred C. Vansant, Sarah K. Wallis, Laura W. White, Anna C. Whitten, Mary J. Wollaston, Alec Zabenko.

The following open letter to parents of children expecting to enter grade one of the Newark schools next year, is presented for publication by Superintendent Brinser:

The Newark School especially invites the boys and girls of the Newark School District, who will be six years of age on or before January 1, 1929, with their parents or guardians, to attend the pageant, "Land of Story Books," on Friday afternoon, June 8, at 12:30 (standard time), on the Delaware avenue school lawn.

This pageant is being presented by the First, Second and Third Grades. After the play we would like to have the parents and guardians bring the children to the library in the Delaware avenue building, where they may be enrolled and registered for Grade One for the coming school year.

May Fete

The sixth grade of the Newark schools entertained the fourth and fifth grades and friends at a May Fete, Friday afternoon, which was given on the south lawn of the new school building.

The theme of the play was based on the arrival of spring and the crowning of the May Queen. The flowers and fairies entertained the queen and her court with dances and recitations, while the clowns did various athletic stunts for her pleasure. Then followed the grand march as the queen and her attendants departed.

The cast was as follows: May Queen, Barbara Bonham; Crown Bearer, Helen Vansant; Attendants, Frances Brown and Dorothy Godwin; Clowns, Wallace Jordan and Norman Gaunt; Raindrop, Cora Everett; Daisy, Martha Gaunt; Dream Fairy, Anna Coover; May Pole Fairy, Leona Tryens; Violet, Lillian Danby; Rosebud, Emma Beck; Prince Dandelion, Norman Gaunt; Fairies, Anna Coover, Helen Murphy, Betty Wood, Lillian Mahan, Martha Gaunt, Ethel Hauber and Leona Tryens; Roses, Anna Bell, Bernice Tryens, Margaret Devonshire, Florence Mercer, Emma Beck and Julia Moore.

Girl Reserves Held Annual Banquet

The Mother and Daughter banquet for both the senior and junior organizations of Girl Reserves was held in the dining hall at the Women's College Tuesday evening of last week.

First came the enjoyment of the delectable and satisfying repast prepared under the direction of Miss King, dietitian of the Women's College.

At the conclusion of the dinner Mrs. William A. Wilkinson, counselor for the Senior Girls, took charge of the ceremonies. She called on Willa Dawson, president of the senior group, and Betty Ford, president of the junior group, who in a gracious manner bid the mothers a hearty welcome. Mrs. Danby responded on behalf of the mothers.

Miss Martha Good, the well-beloved State Y. W. C. A. secretary, talked to the girls about the wholesome pleasures of camp life. She told them of the splendid plans for the coming camp season and something of the capable corps of assistants engaged to help at the camp.

Dean Robinson, who so kindly tendered the use of the Women's Dining Hall to the girls, made some humorous comparisons between the practices of the girls of a generation or two ago and the girls of the present day; but said that in the essentials she finds them about the same.

At this point Mrs. Wilkinson introduced the toastmistress, Miss Nellie Lawton, of the Senior Class, Women's College. Miss Lawton has been active in all the extra-curricular activities of the campus. She has been active in Girl Reserve work, in vacation camps, and elsewhere. As a toastmistress she was the same success she has been in all her other undertakings.

The thought underlying all the toasts was that of ships sailing the sea of life.

Mrs. Guy Newcomb brought a beautiful message out of the thought of "embarking." Miss Jeanette Thoroughgood, referred to the use of the chart and compass, also the warning and guidance of the lighthouse, the flashes of vision and insight we all have at times. She also paid tribute to the helpfulness of mothers in steering aright.

Miss Virginia Smith, the first Girl Reserve in the state, now a student at the Women's College, told of the wisdom of choosing suitable "mates," and of their mutual helpfulness. The subject of "ballast" was very cleverly handled by Mrs. K. G. Whittemore. She defended some old customs, at which youth might be inclined to laugh, as necessary to hold the ship steady.

Miss Rena Allen, of the Women's College faculty, rounded out the whole theme in her impressive talk on Christ the Super-captain, with the mothers as His co-workers. The ship "log" symbolized the character written day by day into each life. The ports of fun, of work, of service, of happiness will be visited and finally end in the "harbor" of a well-spent life, where the Captain will pronounce his "well done."

The program closed with the initiation of the newly elected officers of the senior group for the coming year. The beautiful and impressive candle service was used. The following officers were installed: President, Margaret Wilkinson; vice-president, Eleanor Vansant; secretary, Virginia Newcomb, and treasurer, Mae Malcolm.

Miss Blanche Malcom and Miss Helen Elliott, counselors of the junior group, were responsible for the artistic table decorations.
