Despite Extra Attractions; Students Advised To Buy Tickets
Now As Number Is Limited

The Junior Prom, one of the biggest and best social events ever seen on the Delaware campus in years, will be presented by the Junior Class on Friday evening, February 5th, in the Gold Ballroom of the Hotel du Pont-Biltmore to the enticing, red-hot syncopation of the well-known Roane's Pennsylvania.

One of the main features during the dance will be a half-hour vaudeville show with a company of sixteen men, starring "Snowball Jackson."

Every effort has been exerted by the Prom Committee to put over an unprecedented affair and many elaborate plans have been laid.

Despite all the extra attractions during the dance, the tickets for the Prom have been substantially reduced, now being only $4.00 instead of the former price of $5.50.

Tickets are being limited to two hundred only. Over half the tickets have already been sold. Students are advised to procure their tickets immediately if they want to insure their chances of being in on this big event. "Bud" Haggerty heads the Junior Prom Committee.

MR. QUESNEY DELIVERS TALK TO FRENCH CLUB

Graduated Normal School At Rouen; Has An Interesting
History; Is Well Acquainted
With Normandy, Its History
And Legends

On Wednesday afternoon, January 13, Mr. Angelbert Quesney gave a lecture to the French Club of Women's College on a subject which is quite familiar to him, Normandy.

Mr. Quesney, a graduate of the Normal School of Rouen, is studying here at the University of Delaware in order to obtain a knowledge of English and American literature and to become thoroughly acquainted with the American people and their customs. While attending Normal School Mr. Quesney went to northern Africa on the occasion of the Centenary of Algeria.

Previous to his visit to the United States, Mr. Quesney was awarded one of twelve exclusive scholarships for summer-study in England by the France-Great Britain Association. While in England, he made a study of the Plymouth Cooperative Society, and his report was published in both French and English magazines. Greatly interested in peace, one of Mr. Quesney's last articles, dealing with the British Navy, was published in

PROFESSOR BRINTON RETURNING TO U. S. FOR ALUMNI REUNION

Graduates Of Foreign Study
Plan Preparing Reunions In New York, Boston, Philadelphia And Chicago

PLAN VASTLY POPULAR

Professor Brinton, who is now in France in the capacity of director of the Foreign Study Group, is planning to return soon to the United States. He will embark on the "Fayette," a steamer of the French Line, on January 26, and he will arrive about February 3.

Professor Brinton will be accompanied on his trip by Mr. Julien Ortiz and Professor Felix Gaiffe, of the Sorbonne, Professor Gaiffe having made arrangements to give a lecture course at the University of Columbia this coming semester.

The American students studying in France under the Foreign Study Plan are now fully established in Paris, and are making great progress in their academic studies at the greatest of French universities, the Sorbonne, under the capable directorship of Professor Brinton. The popularity of the Foreign Study Plan is indeed gratifying, for the plan instituted here about eight years ago under the late Professor Kirkbride has expanded to include many prominent American universities, and has increased from eight students to the ninety-two students who are now in France. And in spite of the sad state of financial affairs so prevalent nowadays, over 100 inquiries have already been received at the Foreign Study Office inquiring about the group to go to France this July.

Another note of interest about this plan is the fact that the alumni are planning reunions in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and

Entire Program Rendered By
Mr. Conrad Thiebault, Baritone; Marks Second Appearance Here Of Popular Singer

The second concert of the season by students of the Curtis Institute of Music of Philadelphia was given in Mitchell Hall, Friday, January 15th, at eight o'clock, under the auspices of The Newark Music Society.

The entire program was rendered by Mr. Conrad Thiebault, baritone, of the Philadelphia Opera Company. He was accompanied on the piano by Mr. Josef Rubanoff.

This was the second appearance of Mr. Thiebault in Newark, he having sung here about two years ago. Since his first appearance Mr. Thiebault's voice has become more mellow and flexible and on Friday night, his clear beautiful tones, together with his charming stage presence, completely won his audience.

Colonel Glassburn Awards Silver
Medals For Marksmanship
Won Last Summer At Fort Monroe, Va.

On Tuesday morning at the regular drill period the R. O. T. C. Battalion of the University of Delaware honored the members of the Advanced Course by a ceremony "Presentation of Decorations." The decorations presented were silver medals for marksmanship won last summer at the R. O. T. C. Camp at Fort Monroe, Virginia.

The Battalion was formed by Cadet Major Dunn and presented to Colonel Glassburn. The Cadets to receive medals were then marched to the front and center and halted within a few paces of Colonel Glassburn. The Colonel pinned the medals on each cadet, and then in a short inspiring talk he reminded them that shooting straight was not confined alone to the rifle range, but could well and with effect be applied to their every day life in their attitude toward their fellowman, their University and their country.

The following cadets received medals: A. T. Bennett, J. D. Caulk, B. Cohen, C. G. Dunn, R. W. Fulling, R. E. Kopple, W. H. Lee, M. McCully, H. W. Orth, R. P. Sharp, R. M. Snyder, P. C. Townsend, J. A. Waddington, H. O. Wardell, E. Weldon, G. Chase, I. I. Klien, Chas. Jackson, F. Lynch.

SEVENTH SERIES OF "DELAWARE NOTES" RECENTLY ISSUED

DR. EZRA B. CROOKS, EDITOR

The 1931 series of the Delaware Notes, the seventh of its kind, was recently printed under the direction of Dr. E. B. Crooks, the editor. The present volume is made up of studies in the field of Social Sciences, with the exception of one article in the field of Mathematics. All of the articles are the result of recent work and have appeared in no other publication. One of the initial purposes of Delaware Notes was to furnish opportunity for publication to the members of the faculty of the University of Delaware.

In the first article, "Three Decades of Delaware's Manufactures," Dr. J. S. Gould, indicates the steady increase of manufacturing in Delaware between 1899 and 1929. The revelation that the amount of horse-power has increased three-fold whereas the number of wage earners has remained practically the same is one of the outstanding factors presented.

Mr. H. Clay Reed, now studying at Princeton for a doctor's degree, wrote on "Lincoln's Compensated Emancipation Plan and Its Relation to Delaware." Lincoln's plan to "buy" the slaves for $500 per head in order to weaken the morale of the seceding states was first attempted in Delaware, but the act failed to be passed by one vote in the State Legislature.

Specific responsibility in publishing the first two issues of the new Literary Magazine will be vested in H. H. Parker, who will be editor of the March issue, and in Benjamin P. Brodinsky, who will be editor of the May issue. Robert Curtin was designated as the business manager for the two issues.

An entirely novel method in the selection of Editorial Boards was inaugurated at Delaware when the Faculty Committee on the Literary Magazine selected the personnel of the Board and presented a plan for the administration of the projected magazine, doing away with the evils of elections and politics. As approved at the third meeting of students interested in the publication, held Monday at 1 p. m., the magazine will be edited by an editorial board consisting of Benj. P. Brodinsky, Robert Curtin, Ward Donohoe, and H. H. Parker.

A name has not yet been chosen, but the names of "Catalyst," "Quarterly," and "New Kensus" were under consideration. The final details will be worked out at a meeting to be held on Wednesday, January 20, at 1 p. m., in Room six.

Small But Enthusiastic Audience
Hear Noted Lecturer Deliver Views On "The Future Of Great Britain"

On Saturday, January 16th, S. K. Ratcliffe, one of the foremost lecturers on current politics, gave to a small but enthusiastic audience in Mitchell Hall, the general policy which England has adapted in dealing with India, the position of the Labor Party in England, and other interesting parts concerned with "The Future of Great Britain."

Mr. Ratcliffe pointed out that India's self-government is practically assured as soon as that country is able to find leaders who represent the whole of her millions. As conditions are at the present time in that country, there is a distinct division between Ghandi's followers and the Moslems, who number eighty millions. India, Mr. Ratcliffe pointed out, has won its cause, and has only to organize itself.

Mr. Ratcliffe has kept well abreast of modern problems, and his lecture presented a clear view of England's politics.

"THE WAY OF THE TRANSGRESSOR IS HARD"

During the first semester several violators of the Honor System have been brought before the Honor Court and found guilty. They were given the full punishment, dismissal from college. The system will be strictly enforced during the mid-year examinations and any offender who is caught cheating will be dealt with mercilessly. The student body must awaken to the realization that the honor of our University must be upheld at any costs. We urge all students to observe the Honor System.

A LONG-FELT NEED SATISFIED

A need has long been felt here at Delaware College for a publication of an exclusively literary character. In the past, various attempts have been made to combine literary and news articles in the "Review," but the results were neither satisfactory nor encouraging. Able literary writers were not given full encouragement and space in the paper was very limited.

With the introduction of a magazine devoted exclusively to literary works the situation is entirely being changed. Now, the undergraduates of all branches of the college will have a better opportunity to express their ideas and will have a more suitable medium through which to publish their creative and critical work. An advantage gained by the new publication is the fact that the student body will be more appreciative of literary works when they are presented in an exclusive manner.

The "Review" welcomes the addition of the literary magazine to the extra curricular activities of the college and full-heartedly wishes it the greatest success. To Dr. Sypherd belongs most of the credit for the institution of the magazine and we greatly commend him for his achievement.

"Semi-annual trials are a necessary evil. But we question the propriety of crowding them into the space of one short week. We welcome, therefore, the movement set in motion by progressive members of our faculty to have this time extended."

Don't jump, boys. There'll be no change in the mid-year schedule. The above lines are an excerpt from an editorial appearing in the Review of January, 1911-12, just twenty-one years ago! The Review was then a monthly organ and its editor bemoaned the system of having two sets of exams each day during the week set aside. The faculty (which included Ex-President Harter and Dr. Sypherd) also saw the demerits of the system and initiated a progressive movement to lengthen the time for exams. Twenty-one years have passed, and the movement has been forgotten—but the need for a change still exists.

"Four exams in two days. Zowie!" cries a student, and inwardly he feels there is something wrong. Of course, as is the case with most of our spineful students, such a naughty feeling soon subsides. But doesn't the thought occur to anyone that if only one set of exams were given each day during the mid-year period, the student would be more capable of giving a fair reckoning of his ability? When one has five exams in three days, or even two on any one day, there is bound to be a let-down on one of the tests. Cramming for two exams simultaneously is too taxing, and please don't maintain that cramming the night before is not necessary for the sort of exam which is typically given here.

Twenty years later, someone glancing curiously through the Review files may stumble over this piece of writing, and marvel that some prophet crying in the wilderness had touched upon one of the still unsettled problems of the college.

When the above editorial was printed, Captain Jolls was a student here, and that young man certainly had a reputation! In a gossip corner, called "Locals," similar to our own column, we found two quips of which "Eph" Jolls was the subject. We could not forbear from reprinting one of them just to show the probable source of some of the captain's commands:

"So," remarked Jolls to her of the long lashes. "This is final, I take it."
"Yes," she replied, her slanting head drooping. "And shall I return your letters?"
"By all means, little one," came the rejoinder. "There is some very good material in those letters."

Another quotation from "Locals," in the 1911 Review, gives us a hint of a student diversion of those days long since forbidden on our campus:

Mother (visiting fond son at his fraternal house)—Well, Oscar, I suppose after the dance last night you had a full house up here.
Son (changing his head)—Yes, mother, I did.

In 1911, very few students commuted. So that students such as Caras, Vennum, and Orth, who carry carloads of students to and from Wilmington for fares, could not have earned their way through school in 1911. By the way, Caras, do you charge that brunette for transportation, too?

Dear Mr. Ripley: You probably will not believe it, but up to date three students taking the engineering course have subscribed to a Literary Magazine to be published at Delaware College. Agricultural students, of course, are reserving decision about subscribing to the magazine until they are assured that no article "knocking" any institution at the College is permitted to appear and that they will be allowed to submit an article on "Coccidiosis."

Delaware is having a crime wave all of its own. Last week Sol "Beau Brummell" Blum was forced to spend a night in jail in a small Pennsylvania town when he was caught hitch-hiking. And more recently, our "Dawk" Doherty contributed to the State coffers for having conducted a private race with a train.

Earl Shelton is training for the Rutgers debate by taking long walks with a co-ed who says her name is Dot Jacobson. . . .

Last week it seemed as though the mid-years would have to be called off on account of a wholesale attack of spring fever upon our student body. . . .

We were quite shocked by the following crisp commentary which was sent to us by that ever-popular writer, Anonymous:

*You think your pot-pourri
Is quite Winchellian,
But if you ask me
It's Machiavellian.*

We are willing to bet a good Renaissance text-book that the author of the above quatrain is a member of the H 47 class.

Earliest reports concerning the annual Freshman bonfire indicate that over a hundred copies of Walpole's "The Duchess of Wrexe" will be tossed in the flames along with sundry sophomore wearing apparel.

The swimming pool at the W. C. D. has finally been filled, we are told, and the girls have been assigned plunge hours. The girls will be forbidden, of course, to wear one-piece bathing suits while plunging.

A good tale is told about Kaufman, flashy cager. In the game against Stevens, Kaufman ran wild, netting seventeen points for his side. At Stevens, a dance follows the game and Kaufman, dancing with a S. Y. T. asked her, "How did you like the game?" Instead of words of praise he expected, the girl inquired innocently, "Did you play?"

Which reminds us to ask why can't we have dances after the basketball games. . . . ?

tion and the Future of Transport by Air" was presented by Frank Ransom Strong, Professor of Economics at Delaware last year. Mr. Strong brought out the great changes which the automobiles has effected in transportation. He also showed the difficulties of commercial aviation and its possibilities.

The only mathematical article was written by Professor Rees, titled "Fundamental Concepts in Algebra." The purpose of this article was to assist students and teachers of mathematics to understand the fundamental principles of algebraic reasoning.

The Delaware Notes are sent to seventy of the country's leading universities and thus act as a contact and advertising medium.

More and More Formality

Tails for Evening Wear With Trend Towards Formal Accessories Noted Among Men at Social Affairs.

HOLIDAY social festivities have turned the attention of young men everywhere to the subject of evening dress and a review of prevailing styles shows that the trend is toward more and more formality. The movement in this direction, observed as definitely under way about two years ago, has been accelerated until it is, this season, not only the accepted mode but practically the imperative.

The surest barometer is the full dress, or tail, coat. As a style feature, this garment has probably moved faster the last two years than anything made or worn in a long, long time. It appeared in increasing numbers last season but this fall and early winter it has become almost unanimous for formal functions. Reports of stylists indicate that the return of women's evening dress to more formality has been largely responsible for the trend in men's evening clothes.

With the tails, of course, there must follow formality in appurtenances—hat, shoes, shirt, collar and overcoat. Opera hats are said to be the favorites still for formal evening wear but a growing trend toward silk hats is also reported. The dress pump in patent leather, rather than in dull finish, is growing in favor with the trend towards tail coats.

Styles in dress shirts seem to have settled quite definitely on the two-button shirt in birdseye pique both ribbed and plain. The single button shirt is occasionally seen at the smarter affairs but by far the majority are two-button. The one button, however, is popular with the tuxedo. A new wing collar, even smarter than the always smart wing, is worn this season with the tail coat and pique shirt. The collar is slightly higher, 2 to 2½ inches, the opening is slightly narrower and the tabs are more pointed though shorter. The most popular shirt opens in the back, so that the bosom always presents a smarter, smoother appearance and cannot be broken when studs are inserted. The bosom is also longer and more tapering, to slip snugly inside the higher-waisted trousers. Narrow spade, blunt end and square bow ties are equally good in black, for tuxedo, and white, for tails.

Newest dress shirt with (inset) enlarged view of bosom fabric.

SUIT VALUES

Those suits are the outstanding values of the season. They will appeal to the well-dressed man who is exacting in his selection of clothes and demands durability.

INCREASED SUPPORT OF SMALLER COLLEGES IN HOOVER'S APPEAL

An appeal for increased support of the 600 small colleges of liberal arts in the nation was made last week by President Herbert Hoover over a radio hookup from the White House.

The President said in part: "I am glad to express appreciation of the service of the liberal arts college—that is, the small college. I do this more freely because of the more than 600 institutions in our land. Most of them have little of any endowment or State support. . . .

"The important place which these institutions hold in our system of education renders their support of utmost importance. Whatever be the magnificent services of the larger and highly specialized universities, the liberal arts college places an emphasis upon personal contacts of teacher and students which render them a vital part of our educational educational system. . . .

"That service for youth is a guarantee of equality of cultural opportunity and a bulwark for the spiritual life of the generation in which our children will have to live, a service which I sincerely commend."

September, 1931, in the magazine Mer et Colonies.

In his lecture, Mr. Quesney told of the history of Normandy, pointing out that the Normans were the first to discover America, but because of the fact that they were jealous of their secret, they lost most of the glory. Continuing, he discussed the character of the people and told several of the legends of that picturesque province in which he was born.

In addition to these legends, Mr. Quesney told several tales taken from Jean Gaument and Camille Cè, and read the well-known story by Guy de Maupassant called La Ficelle, or The Piece of String.

Mr. Quesney is certainly well-equipped to speak to the people of Normandy, as he was born in one of its large cities, Elbeuf, and studied in one of the famous French cities, Rouen, which is also in Normandy.

Those already completed are about Dr. Gilbert, first President of Delaware College in 1834; Dr. John McKinley, first Governor of Delaware during the Revolutionary War; Dr. William Burton, Governor of Delaware at the outbreak of the Civil War; and William Cannon, Governor of Delaware during the latter part of the Civil War.

Dr. Ryden will contribute to the Biographical Dictionary four more sketches of prominent Delawareans. These will be Caesar Rodney, Thomas Rodney, his brother, Caesar Augustus Rodney, his nephew; and Chancellor Nicholas Ridgely.

SPRING AND WINTER SPORT SCHEDULES APPROVED BY THE ATHLETIC COUNCIL

Eighteen Games Chalked Up for the Nine; Eight Each for Track and Football

Baseball, track and football schedules for the coming season having received the official okay of the Council, were announced recently by Gerald P. (Doc) Doherty, graduate manager of athletics.

There are eighteen games chalked up for the nine, and eight for both of Charley Rogers' minions, track and football. The only thing outstanding on the cinder card is the absence of Haverford who couldn't be taken on because neither school had an open date that the other could take.

Of the eighteen games carded for the baseball squad, eleven are on the road. Starting with the second game of the season, with Bridgewater in Western Virginia, on six consecutive days there will be games. This is the regular Southern trip of the nine during the Easter holidays, which, this year, will take them as far down as North Carolina.

The schedule is: Thursday, March 31, Vermont, home; Monday, April 4, Bridgewater, away; Tuesday, April 5, Medical College of Virginia, away; Wednesday, April 6, Duke University, away; Thursday, April 7, Wake Forest, away; Friday, April 8, Catawba, away; Saturday, April 9, Hampden-Sidney, away; Wednesday, April 13, Drexel, home; Saturday, April 16, Temple, home; Friday, April 22, West Chester State Teacher's College, away; Saturday, April 23, Susquehanna, away; Wednesday, April 27, Haverford, home; Saturday, April 30, Susquehanna, home; Wednesday, May 4, Wake Forest, home; Wednesday, May 11, Lehigh, away; Friday, May 13, Mount St. Mary's, away; Saturday, May 14, Bridgewater, home; Thursday, May 19, City College of New York, home, and the last game of the season played away, with Pennsylvania Military College, at Chester, on Wednesday, May 25.

While the stovepipe league, due to inclement weather, has not as yet begun to function, when it does convene, the possibilities of catchers, pitchers, and first basemen being acquired this year is sure to be the opening gun.

Tommy Thompson is reported as being a fancy fielding initial sacker, and Hank Haney is also considered good, but what will most likely give "Doc" Doherty more worry is who will succeed McDade, last year's backstop, who is not in college this year. Of course, the Freshmen are liable to possess good material. Irish O'Connell, the pre-season dope says, is a classy infielder.

The cinder paths, who will start practice when Charley Rogers return from Florida, will have the following meets:

April 13, Drexel, away; April 16, Swarthmore, home; April 20, West Chester State Teacher's College, home; April 22 and 23, Penn Relays, away; April 30, Johns Hopkins, home; May 7, Interscholastics; May 13 and 14, Middle Atlantics, at Lafayette; May 21, St. Joseph's, away.

Another tough season is slated for the gridiron gladiators. Opening the season on October 1, with the Tom Conley coached LaSalle, and ending with the always uncertain Haverford game, the eleven will have plenty to do. Although Navy does not appear, there is a still larger school scheduled, Springfield.

The schedule: October 1, LaSalle, home; October 8, Drexel, home; October 15, Rutgers, away; October 22, Springfield, home; October 29, Swarthmore, away; September 5, St. Joe's,

U. Of B. Foilers Down Blue And Gold Team 5-4 In Practice Match

Freshmen Members Used In Contest to Discover Ability; Veterans Win Events in Fine Form

The University of Delaware fencing team was defeated in a practice foil match by the University of Baltimore on January 12, at Newark. The final score was 5-4, but that is no reflection on Delaware's strength as Captain Parker, hoping to find new material for future meets, fenced Freshmen in three of the bouts. "Sol" Blum and Captain Parker showed last year's winning form, each winning two out of three bouts. The Freshmen, Slovin and Ridgely, while not able to break into the win column, showed plenty of promise.

Due to a misunderstanding, the Delaware fencers were uninformed of the meet until within two or three hours of starting time. This, together with lack of practice, probably bothered the Freshmen, who were fencing for the first time.

home; September 12, P. M. C., away, and September 19, Haverford, home.

Should we have as good a record as last year in the fall classics, the game with Drexel will probably give us the fictitious diadem of "Champion small college of the East!"

Doc announces that varsity letter men in football will have the choice of a blue sweater with a gold "D," or a gold football.

COLLEGE PAPER FIGHTS FOR EQUAL BASIS FOR ALL MAJOR AND MINOR SPORTS

The Daily Princetonian has editorially advocated the abolition of all distinction between major and minor sports at Princeton University and the rewarding of outstanding athletic achievement over and above average merit. The Daily said:

"The present system is unfair to those men who devote equal time and efforts to a minor sport but who, no matter how outstanding their prowess may be, can never win a coveted major 'P' because their sport is not a recognized sport."

Princeton recently has been the center of an alumni-student battle over the inability of present-day football teams at the university to come through with the victories they did once. Alumni are prone to blame the "smoothie complex" of the undergraduates, who reply that if they prefer to be students than football players it is their business and what they came to college for.

Our Teams Are Good Sports . . . Why Not the Spectators?

By WARD DONOHOE

WE'VE been reminded several times during the past week that it's about time someone handed our court team a word or two of praise. Upon personal investigation we've come to the conclusion that the cagemen deserve more than a word. In fact a whole column full of praise wouldn't be enough. The Blue and Gold quintet has succeeded in winning six out of eight games played so far against opposition that is to be considered plenty tough.

Some cynic reminded us that this number of victories is about equal to the number that once was considered a respectable total for the season. With approximately ten contests remaining on the schedule it appears as though the magnificent record of the football team is going to be duplicated by this year's edition of courtmen. The gridmen turned in a percentage that figures up to about .800; at the present time the court representatives are only a few points behind with an average of .750.

AND now for a matter that is not quite so pleasant to talk about. Delaware's athletic representatives have won for themselves an enviable reputation for sportsmanship. This reputation has been built up over a period of years, and surrounds our oldest traditional rivalries with a spirit that makes one believe, even in this materialistic age, that there is something fine in the sportsmanship displayed in competitive athletics. It makes us believe that perhaps there is something after all in sport for sports sake, and that victory sometimes lies in defeat. All this fine spirit of sportsmanship is in danger of being utterly defeated by the conduct of spectators at our home basketball games.

Two games played recently in Taylor gym were marked by conduct on the part of the spectators that can only be compared to the actions of a crowd viewing a close struggle between two Eastern League teams. The conduct of the spectators was not only unsportsmanlike; it was little short of disorderly. Unfortunately the players of a college team, unlike those on pro teams, are not accustomed to shooting fouls amid a chorus of boos loud enough to drown out even the referee's whistle. What a swell impression of Delaware sportsmanship the two recipients of such treatment must have taken away with them!

THE student body will attempt to alibi themselves out of responsibility for the demonstration by passing the buck along to outsiders who witnessed the games, and laying the blame for the boo chorus on them. Well, whether the students did or did not boo makes little difference. There are enough students at any home game to put an immediate stop to any such demonstrations. Organized cheering would be another solution. But something must be done to insure visiting teams fair treatment.

SWARTHMORE HANDS LOCAL COURTMEN SECOND DEFEAT OF SEASON WITH 51-37 SCORE

Blue And Gold Mermen Lose To Lafayette Sat. By A 36-23 Score

West Chester Teacher's College No Match for Bardo's Powerful Fish in Easy Win of 49-10

Lafayette College's swimming team defeated the University of Delaware mermen here Saturday afternoon, January 16, 36 to 23. Bowman, of Lafayette, turned in a unique performance, winning the 440-yard free style event in 5:51, bettering the former Lafayette record by 24 seconds in this event, immediately after winning the 150-yard back stroke event in 2:3 4-5.

One of the closest events of the afternoon was the 100-yard free style event which was won by Lattomus, of Delaware, the time being 59 3-5.

Lawrence, Murray, Lindstrand and Adams, composing the Blue Hens relay team, captured that event, the time being 1:46. Lattomus, of the Diamond State tankmen, captured the 50-yard free style event in 26 1-5.

Delaware was victorious in only three events, the relay, the 50-yard free style, and the 100-yard free style, but managed to capture seconds and thirds in a number of others. The diving scores were low. Sortman, of Delaware, topped the visitors and took second place in this division, while first and third places were taken respectively by Keely and Miller of Lafayette.

West Chester Teacher's College inexperienced swimming team was no match for the Blue and Gold mermen and were swamped in the meet held in Taylor Gym last Wednesday night, by the score of 49-10. Delaware took every first place but one and every second.

The outstanding feature of the meet, despite the fact that the Teachers offered little tough competition, was the achievement of the relay team in setting a new record for the 200-yard relay. The old mark of 1:42.6 set in 1929 by Reese, Reybold, Taylor and Brown, was broken by the present quartet which numbers Lindstrand, Adams, Murray and Lattomus. Their time for the distance was four-tenths of a second faster than the old mark.

Delaware won every event except the dive, in which Flocco of West Chester took first place. Even in this event Delaware placed both second and third. In all the other events the Blue and Gold took first and second. Adams won the 100 in the very good time of 59.2.

Doc's Minions Eke 35-33 Victory from U. of B. In Close Game; Extra Period Needed To Decide Winner

Delaware's second defeat of the current season on the wooden ways came at the hands of Swarthmore in the game on the latter's court Friday night. The final court was 51-37.

Inability to hold down Johnny Abrams and Jim McCracken, former West Philadelphia High luminaries, proved fatal to the locals. This pair between them managed to account for 28 points of the Garnet total. And McCracken scored his 14 from his guard position.

Delaware's offensive functioned as well as in any game this year and the Blue and Gold scored enough points to win any ordinary game but the Garnet shooters were finding the basket with little difficulty and they outscored the Blue Hens from the foul line by a 13-7 margin to further increase their edge.

The game was very close during the first half and a Quaker spurt near the end of the half resulted in a 22-17 lead for the home team at half time. The second half, however, was a different story and found the Garnet pulling further and further away from the locals. Each time the locals would put on a scoring spurt and close the gap, the Quakers would turn on a little more speed and draw away once again. The home team outscored the Blue Hens by a 29-20 margin in the second stanza.

Sid Kaufman garnered high scoring honors for the locals with ten points. Roman, Kemske, and Haggerty all turned in good performances.

In the preliminary game Delaware's J. V.'s defeated the Swarthmore youngsters in a close struggle by a score of 17-16.

Delaware's courtmen made it six out of seven on Tuesday night in Taylor gym with the University of Baltimore five in a close and exciting struggle by a score of 35-33. An extra five minute period was needed to decide the winner as the score at the end of the regulation forty minutes stood 31 all.

Delaware had a big edge in the first half and held a 17-12 lead at the end of the first twenty minutes of play. "Doc" Doherty started the surprise combination he developed at the start of the season, consisting of Kaufman and O'Connell, forwards; Gilbert, center; and Donoghue and Orth, guards. Roman, Kemske, Haggerty and Haney were inserted in the game at various stages.

The second half developed a nip and tuck battle and only the stellar work of O'Connell and Kemske kept the visitors from winning the game in the last few minutes. They did succeed in tying up the contest and, with only a few seconds to play, Chandler missed a chance to win the game when his two free throws failed to drop through the basket.

In the extra period O'Connell dropped in a field goal and Haggerty added two points by the free throw route while the Baltimoreans were able to garner only one field toss.

O'Connell, Kemske and Gilbert feared the offensive, while Bud Haggerty played a stellar guarding game. "Irish" was high score for Delaware with ten points, but Reamer of Baltimore took honors for the game, with a total of twelve.

Parker and Brodinsky Chosen to Head Paper

paigned was launched at the meeting for one week, January 18-25, for 200 subscriptions. All the students present were given subscription blanks and the whole University and Alumni will be canvassed. From the subscriptions already obtained a great response from the faculty was evident.

Harry H. Parker, editor for the first issue, has expressed his hope that the 200 required subscriptions will be obtained and that the magazine will be established as a permanent institution on the campus. According to Benjamin P. Brodinsky, editor for the May issue, the magazine will fill a much needed want of the University and will truly represent undergraduate creative ability and opinion.

The Editorial Board will meet in the near future to consider plans for the first issue of the magazine. The Blue Hen Room will be utilized as temporary quarters of the Editorial Board. Another meeting of all those interested in the magazine will be held tomorrow (Wednesday) at 1 p. m. in Room 6.

Professor Brinton Here for Reunion
