

City of C. Is Planning No Further Protest On Parking Meters

Don Savitch Says Business Now Generally Favors Keeping Meters

The Newark Chamber of Commerce has no further protests against the parking meters despite the fact that the six-month trial period for the meter-penny machines ends Dec. 31. This was disclosed yesterday by Don Savitch, president of the Chamber, who believes Newark's businessmen have generally reversed their opinion regarding the meters and now favor them.

When the parking devices were first proposed here last July, the Chamber lodged a formal protest against their installation. The Town Council, however, voted to try them for six months. Mr. Savitch said he now believes most Newark merchants feel the meters have greatly improved the parking situation on Main Street without curtailing shopping or driving away customers. He emphasized the Chamber has made no formal survey of business sentiment but that his contacts with fellow merchants lead him to believe that the majority have had a change of heart.

The withdrawal of any organized opposition plus the fact that the meters have already become a lucrative source of town revenue make it virtually certain that the Town Council will vote for their permanent installation when the question comes up at the January session. Councilman Samuel Doherty, who first proposed the meters, says the town had taken in nearly $1,000 through the machines from July to early November.

Just how the general public, especially local motorists, feels about the meters is difficult to gauge. Most drivers admit that the parking congestion has been greatly relieved, but complaints are still heard in many quarters over the too-rigid enforcement of the meter time limit. These persons feel that the town should allow a few minutes of grace after the "violation" sign goes up.

75 Per. Of Families In Area Join PTA

Family Night Programs Again Planned

Seventy-five percent of the families in the Newark Special School District now have one or more members enrolled in the Newark Parent Teachers Association, according to Mrs. Elizabeth Skold, membership chairman. She added that the PTA is completing a detailed file of its members to aid in organizing PTA projects and programs.

The ways and means committee plans to revive the Family Night programs again this year, with at least two to be given before the end of the school term. The programs will be informal get-togethers, similar to last year's, with parents, children and teachers joining in a round of dancing and games. Holger Schaumann has been named chairman of the Family Night committee and will select his members in the near future.

The PTA is also planning a dance similar to the one held last year at the University of Delaware field house. The "Rhythm Doctors" will again play at the affair, which will probably be held in the spring.

Christmas Parties For Presbyterian Schools

The Sabbath School at the First Presbyterian Church will begin its celebration of the Christmas season with a party for the beginners and primary departments on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. Santa Claus will be present with gifts for all.

The following evening at the same hour, the junior and intermediate departments will hold a Christmas party, with a tree, games and other entertainment.

On Christmas Eve, the Sabbath School will make its white gift money offering for mission schools. A motion picture on the Christmas theme will be shown.

There will be special music at the church services. The young people will hold their annual Christmas Eve service at 11 p.m.

Church Of Nazarene To Hear Missionary Sunday

Miss Della Boggs, a foreign missionary, will speak at the 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. services Sunday at the Church of the Nazarene, North Chapel Street. The announcement was made by the pastor, J. C. Zandy.

A native of Bel Air, Md., Miss Boggs has been in the United States after five and a half years in Swaziland, South Africa. Since her return, she has been on several missionary tours of the country.

Her talk will be illustrated with pictures and she will exhibit many interesting articles brought from South Africa.

Gifts To Needy Barometer Of Christmas Spirit In Newark

The surest indication of how deeply the Christmas spirit is felt in Newark can be found at the Council Offices, where donations are being accepted to aid this community's 50 needy families.

A renewed plea for aid in the project was issued this week by the Mayor's Welfare Committee. Donations of canned food, clothing, cash or toys will be gratefully accepted. The food and toys will be packed in Christmas baskets for distribution to the unfortunate families on Christmas Eve. Girl Scouts are now dressing dolls and packing stockings with candy to accompany the baskets. Volunteers from various civic clubs, working together on the Mayor's committee, will aid in the food collections and basket packing.

Anyone who knows a family which needs help is urged to pass the information along to the Welfare Committee at the Council Offices.

There is no doubt regarding the need of those families already on the committee's list. Some are either on relief or are receiving social security checks, which have not kept pace with the rising cost of living. In other cases, sickness has prevented the family breadwinner from earning a regular income. Some children are without warm clothing. The cost of coal is a problem for others. In a few families the breadwinner has met with misfortune, leaving the rest to carry on.

F. Allyn Cooch Is Nominated By President Truman For Postmastership Of Newark

F. Allyn Cooch, Jr., 248 West Main Street, has been nominated by President Truman as postmaster of Newark.

He will succeed Cyrus E. Rittenhouse, who died last February. James Robinson has been serving as temporary postmaster since August. The President's nomination was sent to the Senate last Thursday.

Mr. Cooch served as head of the federal census in Delaware in 1940 and before that was manager of the Wilmington office of the Delaware Employment Service.

A lifelong resident of Newark, he has been in the insurance business and is also active in American Legion and Rotary Club affairs.

To Air Wollaston's Plea For Rezoning

Public Hearing Set For Dec. 29 At 8 P.M.

A public hearing on G. Wesley Wollaston's request for rezoning his property on East Cleveland Avenue is scheduled for Friday, Dec. 29, at 8 p.m. in the Council offices, 24 Academy Street.

Mr. Wollaston is seeking to have property on the north side of East Cleveland Avenue from Kershaw Street to the zoning line of the industrial district on East Cleveland changed from RD to RA.

Mr. Wollaston wants the change in order to continue work on two homes he has started there. The dwellings violate sideyard clearance regulations in that area under the zoning ordinance as it now stands.

Work on the homes has been halted for some time. A change in the zoning law will make it possible for Mr. Wollaston to complete the buildings. Mr. Wollaston has the approval of two-thirds of the property owners in the area concerned, necessary to secure the change. However, if 20 percent of the property owners adjoining the section, as for instance, across the street, object, the request will be held up.

Club Donates Hospital Bed For Community Use

A hospital bed, available in an emergency to any resident of the community, will soon be donated to the Aetna Company and will be kept on call at the firehouse.

Traditional White Gift Service This Sunday In The Social Hall

Christmas programs will be given Dec. 17 and Dec. 24 at the Newark Methodist Church.

The traditional White Gift service will be held this Sunday, starting at 4:30 p.m. in the social hall. The program will include a play, "The Littlest Shepherd," to be presented by the junior department and the Methodist Youth Fellowship and will be directed by Miss Lura Oakley Hunter, director of Christian Education at the church. Susan Martin and Billy Shue will take the leads, and Miss Jane Clark will be the narrator. White gifts will be presented by the various church organizations and members of the church.

On Christmas Eve at 4:30 p.m., the junior and senior choirs will sing the Christmas portion of "The Messiah" by George Frederick Handel. The service will be held in the church sanctuary. In addition to Mrs. Dorothy Mattison and Donald Martin of the senior choir, guests will be Miss Elizabeth Bird, soprano soloist at First and Central Presbyterian Church, Wilmington, and Harry Decker, bass baritone soloist at Christ Episcopal Church, Wilmington. Miss Sarah Revelle is director of the choirs, and Mrs. Evelyn Martin is organist.

Both junior and senior choirs will be offering Christmas music at the 11 a.m. services of worship on Dec. 17 and Dec. 24. Dr. John J. Bunting, Jr., minister of the church, in an Advent sermon series, will preach this Sunday on the subject, "Events in Advent: II. Consumption"; and on Dec. 24 will use as his topic, "Events in Advent: III. Challenge."

The Church School convenes each Sunday at 9:45 a.m. Christmas worship services and study sessions comprise the present activities of the various classes.

The choir of the New Castle Presbyterian Church will present a Christmas concert in the Presbyterian Church at Christiana on Thursday, Dec. 21, at 8 p.m.

Admission will be free but an offering will be taken for Korean relief.

Proposed Building Program At Schools Hit By High Costs

Estimates On Addition To Gym Jump Sharply; Seek More State Funds

Rising costs are playing havoc with the Newark school budget, which is fixed biennially. Supt. Wilmer E. Shue pointed out this week.

Hardest hit phase of school finances is the proposed building program, especially the long delayed plan for enlarging the high school gymnasium.

Latest estimate of the cost of the addition, which will double the capacity of the present gym, is around $180,000, much higher than was originally expected. The district now has $75,000 available for this purpose, and some time ago entered a request for another $75,000 in state funds. The school board is now planning to add $40,000 more to the request, which will come up for consideration at the next session of the General Assembly.

Other phases of the building program being hit by rising construction costs are the proposed shop and agriculture annex to the high school, the new elementary building to be erected in a rural area, and the cafeteria planned for the New London Avenue School. The board has already entered requests for state appropriations totaling $570,000 to cover this work, and it is possible the requests may have to be revised upwards.

Ordinary school operating expenses are suffering from rising costs. Mr. Shue said. As an illustration, he pointed to one important item, the cost of textbooks. At total of $3,000 was appropriated for purchase of new books over a two-year period beginning with the 1949 fiscal year. The schools have already spent $8,000 for this purpose. Mr. Shue said, explaining that the surplus funds were secured by paring down other school costs.

Social security payments for cafeteria workers at the schools have been approved by the board of education. Under terms of a recent extension of the social security law, such workers are eligible for the benefits provided their employer and two-thirds of the employees agree to join the plan.

Veteran Newark Teacher Awarded SAR Medal For Teaching Of Democracy

Miss Greta E. McKinsey, junior high school social studies instructor here for the past twenty-six years, was awarded a gold medal last week for her outstanding work in teaching democracy.

The award was made by Delaware's Sons of the American Revolution and was presented at the group's Delaware Day dinner last Thursday night in the Hotel DuPont, Wilmington. In making the presentation, Judge Richard S. Rodney, associate judge of the U. S. District Court, praised Miss McKinsey as follows: "She has shown, both by precept and example to the young people of today and tomorrow, those signs that will make them worthy sons of a worthy race."

A direct descendant of John and Priscilla Alden, Miss McKinsey was graduated from the Wilmington High School and from the school of education of the Women's College, University of Delaware. She began her teaching career in 1924 in the Newark schools.

Santa Claus Welcomed Here On Saturday; Stirrs Up Wild Candy Scramble

A crowd of tumultuous children, apprehensive parents, the Newark High School Band, the police force, town officials and a man who kept muttering "humbbug" were on hand Saturday afternoon to welcome Santa Claus on his arrival from the south via Diesel.

Old Chris looked in excellent health, red-cheeked, red-nosed, and there was some dispute among the onlookers as to whether his complexion was due to northpole frostbite or Dixie sunburn.

One hardpressed mother of three young realists explained Santa's arrival from the south by saying he had been visiting an old uncle (Grand-santa?) at the southpole and had stopped off at Newark on his way back to the northpole.

Chamber of Commerce officials say they asked Santa to come on a train out of the south so that he could step off at the east platform in Newark in full view of the crowd.

Santa apparently got involved in a melee on the train because when he got off he was having trouble with his whiskers. This plus the fact that he was carrying a pocket-size pack from which protruded a doll kept him so occupied he had time for only brief harried waves to the crowd.

Once mounted on his sleigh, drawn by a 150-reindeer power Chevrolet truck, Santa relaxed, and the doll gave him a brooding, matronly air. One little girl was surprised and pleased to find that Santa plays with dolls, but her older brother was definitely put out.

Mayor Johnson, who except for his street clothes could have passed for a jolly little elf, stoutly climbed up on the sleight to present Santa with the key to the city, a large tin foil covered affair, that looked like the open sesame to many dark secrets at the Council Offices, 24 Academy Street.

After a wild, candy scramble, instigated by Santa and setting child against child, parent against parent, the merry visitor was paraded through town to Jackson's Hardware, his first headquarters in a schedule which will find him in various stores until Christmas Eve.

The excitement eventually proved too much for Santa because he had a slight spell on Tuesday, but latest reports indicate he will be back soon on the job.

First Presbyterian Candlelight Service

The annual Christmas Eve candlelight service at the First Presbyterian Church will be held Sunday, Dec. 24 at 11 p.m.

The service, which is largely musical, includes portions of the Bach Christmas Oratorio sung by a quartet, which consists of Mrs. Charles Foster, Mrs. Louis Mattison, Mr. Robert Jones and Mr. Carl Well. The service will also include selections by a choir of young people under the direction of Mrs. Mattison.

The service is arranged by the Special Days Committee of the Sunday School of which Dr. Charles N. Lanier is chairman.

Also unopposed is John C. Cunningham for assistant chief, succeeding George Cleaver Price. The latter has been named a candidate for second assistant chief against two opponents, Clifton Knotts and Clifford Moore. Mr. Moore is running to succeed himself.

Contests have also developed for five vacancies among the assistant pipemen. The candidates are: Albert Bell, Howard Lloyd, Clyde Baylis, Sr., Clyde Baylis, Jr., Horace Robinson, Woodrow Beck, Thomas Campbell, John List and Leslie Braune.

Six candidates are running for the three openings on the board of directors, where the terms of Charles E. Eisner, J. Earl Dougherty and William Doyle, will expire at the end of this month. All three are running again for their posts. The remaining candidates for the 3-year terms on the board are: Walter C. Sparks, Walter Wassmer, and Bertram Johnson.

The Aetna's annual Christmas banquet will be held tomorrow night at the firehouse. Mayor Wallace Johnson and the members of the Town Council will be guests, along with the president and chiefs of the Elkton, Hockessin and Christiana fire companies. Canned Food Drive Scheduled Saturday

Combined Scout Christmas Party, Dec. 21

Local boy scouts will stage a town-wide collection of canned goods this Saturday to aid Newark's 50 needy families.

More fortunate townspeople are asked to be as generous as possible when the scouts collect. The food will be packed in baskets which will be distributed to underprivileged families here on Christmas Eve.

A combined Christmas party will be staged by scouts of Troop 55 and 56 next Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Academy building. A court of honor will feature the program and new scouts will be inducted into the troops. The entertainment will include skits and refreshments.

Twelve members of Troop 55 made a field trip to Fisherman's Lodge, Camp Rodney, last weekend, where they conducted outdoor tests.

Scoutmaster F. E. Reinhardt and Assistant Scoutmaster William Reybold led the unit, which included: Joseph Devonshire, Wayne Gibson, John Miller, Harold and Norman Hambleton, Howard Priestley, Richard McCann, Jack Christman, Robert Moore, Frank Fuller, Philip Schuyler, and Kinlock Reed.

Special Mailing Hours Saturday And Sunday

To ease the last minute rush of Christmas mail, a stamp and parcel post window will be open at the post-office until 6 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 16 and 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 17.

The special mailing hours will be an innovation this year, and it is hoped the public will cooperate.

On Sunday, a special town-wide collection will be made from street mail boxes, starting at 3 p.m. Letters and parcels placed in the boxes before that time will be assured of prompt shipment from the postoffice.

Officials also issued a reminder that the rate on unsealed cards is now two cents. Many persons are still using 1 1/2 cent stamps on this type of mail.

Frank Smith Leaves Atlantic Gas Station

Frank Smith, 37 Continental Avenue, has retired after 10 years as manager of the Atlantic Station, Main and North Chapel Streets.

Mr. Smith, who spent a total of 19 years in the gasoline retail business, this week issued a statement thanking his many friends for their patronage during that time. He said he has no plans for the immediate future.

Succeeding him at the Atlantic station is Harry Maclary, who formerly was employed by Richard's Dairy.

Elementary School Operetta Tomorrow Nite

A highpoint in this community's Christmas observance will come tomorrow night when a cast of 60 youngsters will present the Newark elementary school's operetta, "Red Candles," at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium. The picture above shows Snowflake, Santa's Helper (Marian Cullen) leading the parade of wooden soldiers. Almost 200 pupils are taking part in some phase of the production. Christmas decorations throughout the high school will center on the "Red Candles" theme. Three huge imitation red candles, constructed by student shop and art classes, will be placed at the high school entrance.

The story concerns an immigrant, Mrs. Nansen, and her two children, Gilda and Jibby, who come to America to claim an inheritance. On Christmas Eve, just after their landing, Mrs. Nansen leaves her children to seek information and fails to return.

The story is woven around events of the Christmas season five years later when Lawyer Snidge, the villain of the plot, tries to separate the boy and girl. He is outwitted, however, and the story ends very happily as all Christmas stories should.

The cast includes Santa Claus, the Spirit of Christmas, gnomes, a tinseled chorus, dream chorus and wooden soldiers.

This will be a "Sequence to end all sequences." The Bramble family, of New London, has been having a hard time. First, little Virginia Bramble, four and a half, fell from a special platform built in the rear of the tractor for the little ones to ride on, and she suffered a broken collarbone and a cut back as a result of a disc and a cotter passing over her. She is recovering now. Next, the Bramble house burned down. Following that, Mr. Herman Bramble, Jr., forty-two, a big, strong man, reportedly fell from the tractor while oiling it, and accidentally got the tail of his coat caught in the corn picker. He was thrown in to the corn picker too fast to get out of the coat, and only because he clung with the strength of the desperate did he escape almost certain death. All but his socks and shoes were torn from him by the machine, and he suffered severe muscle strains as the result of his superhuman effort to escape what looked like a terrible fate.

And now, Mrs. Herman Bramble, 62, lies very ill following a serious heart attack after all this. Entirely understandable, and we do hope that the fates have a much nicer portion to offer the Brambles from here on in. One night recently a telephone conversation was interrupted by an explosion of alarm, and after a wait of a few moments, a weak voice from the other end of the wire told yours truly about an accident which could only have been tragic. Little John-Nichol climbed up on the tractor, which had been left in reverse, (we are told that tractor brakes are not adequate) and pressed on the starter with all his might. The huge small responded with a mighty surge backwards, and one of the big wheels lodged up on the bumper of the truck loaded in back of the tractor. The one light of the truck was broken, but that was a minor thing. One considers that "had things gone just a little differently, the whole tractor might have tipped over and injured Johnnie. When adults came running, here was this sturdy little fellow hanging on one corner of the seat, looking at the open mouths and shocked faces, his only comment was a slightly indignant, "Get me down from here!" When his mother asked the picture driver, what on earth he had been doing he responded with an unashamed, "I b-r-r-ummed it up and I'm going to b-r-r-um it down again! All that at just past two years of age!" Then telling me of it, all of a sudden his voice at the other end of the wire came very faint. First time I ever administered first aid via telephone! His mother was entitled to a great deal of faintness at the mere thought of what might have been!

Mrs. James H. Bishop, Correspondent
Phone 6318
Kirkwood Highway

Mrs. James H. Bishop has just returned from visiting her mother, Mrs. Jane Mason, who is confined in Grace Hospital, New Haven, Conn., as the result of a fall in which she suffered a broken hip. Mrs. Mason has received so many "get well" cards from people in this section that she has requested this column to present her appreciation for all the good wishes.

Until the recent storm, the officials of the White Clay Creek Presbyterian Church Cemetery Association had been wrestling for some time with the problem of getting a large white oak tree in back of the church cut down. The ancient tree, some four feet in diameter, had died and each passing storm had made the hazard of falling branches more serious. The recent storm, with its gale-force winds, solved the problem by breaking the giant off at ground level and blocking one road into the cemetery. It did no damage in its fall, and it now rests in just the right position for a crew with saws and axes to cut it up for removal.

White Clay Creek Presbyterian Church Willard Johnston, superintendent of the Church School, announces that the school has voted to continue the custom of providing a Christmas treat for the younger children of the school. The beginners, primary and junior children are preparing a Christmas program to be presented in the church on Sunday, Dec. 24. The program will be under the leadership of Mrs. Alice Hammell, Mrs. Raymond Benson, Mrs. Willard Johnston, and Mrs. David Anderson.

At the church service of worship Sunday morning, at 11 o'clock, the pastor, Rev. James H. Bishop, will present the third in a series of Advent messages. His subject will be, "The Laundered Life."

The Youth Fellowship will meet Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. This is a session postponed from last Sunday due to the stormy weather.

What Is Girls' State?

The women of the American Legion of Newark are interested in preparing eligible high school girls to attend the next Girls' State Conference which will be held again in 1951 in Dover.

The annual Girls' State Conference was held last June 20, 21 and 22. Participants from Newark were Jane Clark, Jane Wagner and Alta Warrington.

This conference is held with the purpose in mind of providing high school girls with a "birds-eye view" of just how our state government is carried on.

Requirements to attend the conference are as follows: The girls must have completed their third year of high school by the time the conference convenes. They must possess the following qualities and abilities which are listed in the order of their importance: Leadership, character, courage, honesty, scholarship, and cooperativeness. Teachers select students who are eligible and those names are submitted to the junior class for the final decision.

The girls were honored during their stay in Dover last year with a banquet and a stunt night in which many girls participated.

He plans to become a commercial artist after graduation. Joe has traveled to the Middle West and as far north as New England. He appreciates good food, music, art and girls. His favorite food, by the way, is FRENCH FRIES.

Some activities in which Joe participates are H-Y, Leaders' Club, and Camera Club. He was production manager for the senior play, "Charley's Aunt."

When asked his opinion of "Buzz," he responded, "I don't think much of it—especially the sport page, and I don't like the 'Book Worm'."

Her selections were "You Are My Sunshine" and "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas." Bill Folmer, the caller for the square dancing, led the group in the grand march and a few musical games. There were a number of square dances. The Starlighters played for the party. The orchestra consisted of Mario L. Pero, Turpin Rose, Martin Johnson, Glenn Skinner, Phyllis Baker, Vernon Baker and Ernest Lloyd.

Daily Program For Women Will Feature Farm & Home Week

Films, Speakers And Demonstrations Planned For Homemakers

For the second year, a complete program for women will be given throughout Farm and Home Week, Jan. 30 to Feb. 2, at the University of Delaware, announced Miss M. Gertrude Holloway, State Home Demonstration leader, this week. Again, staff members of the School of Home Economics, and of the Home Economics Division of the Agricultural Extension Service, are cooperating in presenting the program.
 There will be films, speakers, exhibits, and demonstrations. Some of the topics on this year's program are: new developments in medicine, consumer buying, reports on the White House Conference on Youth, business matter for the homemaker, and a report on the findings of the university reading clinic.
 There will also be talks, demonstrations, and information available on everyday subject matters important to every homemaker, said Miss Holloway. Such topics as freezing cooked foods, home nursing equipment, child care, house plants, and home gardening will be discussed.

Miss Holloway emphasized that an invitation is extended to every homemaker in the state of Delaware, and to all people interested in home economics.

4-H Camp Activities Talk To Kiwanians

Slide pictures of the summer 4-H activities at Camp Barnes were shown by Maurice B. Field, county 4-H club agent, at last week's meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the College Inn.
 He explained that about 150 boys and girls took part in the two-week encampment, held following the summer sessions sponsored for needy children by the Delaware Chiefs of Police.
 Activities at the camp included crafts, radio and tape recording, rope making, leathercraft, first aid, swimming instruction, nature study, personal care, and boating.
 The evenings were usually marked by a council circle around the campfire which included singing, stunts and other activities. The camp, Mr. Field said, offers excellent opportunities for youth training in leadership and citizenship.
 There are now 240 4-H clubs in New Castle County, he stated, with about 450 members.

Parents Responsible For Guiding Child's Reading Interests

Should Lead, Not Prod Children Into Reading Good Books

A responsibility is on parents to lead, not prod, their children into reading good books, according to speakers Saturday, who spoke at the first annual reading conference at the University of Delaware.

At five panel meetings, each attended by scores of interested in the theme "What Parents Can Do To Help Their Children in Reading," the keynote speakers repeatedly made the point that the parents, not the children, are the crucial element. "If the parents expect their children to be interested in reading, they must V-A doctors said they would like to lives," said Dr. Ross L. Neagley, professor of education at Temple University and former superintendent at the Mt. Pleasant School. "If both parents frequently read good books, magazines, and the newspapers, and enthusiastically discuss them in front of their children, increased interest in reading is likely to result."

Speaking at the panel for parents of junior-high school students, Dr. Neagley also declared that: "To encourage your child to do recreational reading, avoid the negative approach. Children of junior-high school age are interested in comics and bloodthirsty adventure stories. Rather than condemn and forbid their use, encourage children to read suitable substitutes."

At the senior-high school panel, George H. Henry, associate professor of education at the U. of D., and former teacher in Delaware high schools, said that American parents, seeking to give their children every "advantage," too often neglect "the spiritual and intellectual mingling that should be the chief end of parenthood."

"High school youths," said Mr. Henry, "do not shy away from ideas as found in good books because they are young; youths simply are not made accustomed to them."

"Reading, it is said, is an effort. So are sports; so is making a meal. Boys and girls have effort for the things they have been conditioned to by the vogue, the gang, the neighborhood. Effort thus depends upon purpose, and the value one places on the nature of the effort. Youth will read when reading is close to their doing, close to home life, close to their own self-realization."

For parents of primary school children, this advice was offered by Dr. Marlon J. Sack, principal of the Wayne, Pa., grammar school: "When the child is being introduced to book-reading, be a good listener; give your undivided attention to him when he is reading to you. Encourage his reading to a younger brother or sister. If he doesn't know a word, tell it to him, as many times as necessary. Talk with him about unfamiliar words in the story. Have a good picture dictionary available. And be sure to give plenty of praise. But don't ask him to spell out a word he doesn't know and don't try to teach him phonics, a job for his teacher."

Newark Youth Awarded Riverdale Soccer Letter

Herbert Warren Mason, Nottingham Road, Newark, 18-year-old senior at the Riverdale Country School, Riverdale, N. Y., was honored at the annual fall sports dinner at the school last week, when he was awarded a varsity letter for soccer.

"Herb" contributed heavily to this year's fine record of the soccer team which won 11 games, lost one and tied one for the best record in the history of the school. In addition to playing soccer, Mason is a member of the baseball team, the student council and president of the student activities association at Riverdale.

Way To Cut Farm Fertilizer Costs

A way of reducing the farmer's cost of fertilizer was proposed at the recent fertilizer Dealers' Short Course, at the University of Delaware, Newark. Claude Phillips, extension agronomist, told the group that seventeen out of the 40 grades of fertilizer sold in Delaware last year could do the fertilizing job needed in Delaware.

Safety Hints

Don't let death take your holiday! That is the safety slogan for the Christmas and New Year's season, announced the Delaware Safety Council. And don't cause death to take someone else's holiday.

The Christmas-New Year season, the happiest and merriest of the year, is also the most dangerous single season of the year. It brings an upsurge of traffic accidents, more fires than usual, deaths and broken bones from falling on ice and snowy steps and walks, sometimes child fatalities from toys and activities that were meant to be fun.

Ice and snow on the streets, poor visibility due to rain and snow and longer hours of darkness, more drinking and driving and walking, the bus-

Delaware, suggests that a shelf with space enough for writing will serve the purpose. Equip it with a chair or stool that slides easily in under the shelf when not in use. Place a bulletin board and a good pin-up light on the wall above the shelf.

With a small table or desk you can have a more complete business center. Or extend the kitchen counter surface into a corner. Finish the cupboard above with shelves and pigeonholes to take care of supplies.

Good location for the business center is against an interior wall. Then you can place the telephone in a paneled section opening into both rooms, the kitchen and living room, dining room or hall.

A shallow drawer or tray with wood- or plastic dividers will help keep small writing supplies orderly, says Miss Whitcomb.

1. Place your Christmas tree in water.

2. Use only safe electrical illumination. Do not use candles for any purpose.

3. Put out tree lights when not in use, and when you leave the house.

4. Avoid accumulations of Christmas wrappings and trash. Dispose of them promptly.

5. Keep matches and smoking material accumulations of wrappings.

Homemakers Set Up Office In Kitchen

More and more homemakers are planning pleasant working space in the kitchen for their household business. How often while you're working in the kitchen have you thought of things to jot down, groceries that are needed, or jobs to be done? With an "office" in the kitchen, you have a place to file bills, circulars, newspaper clippings, and recipes.

If your kitchen is small, Miss Louise Whitcomb, Home Management Extension Specialist at the University of

Advise Tri-Purpose Pans For Housewives

Utensils For Storing, Cooking, Serving

Utensils which can do triple duty for storing food in the refrigerator, then cooking, and finally serving, save time and energy for the cook, as well as food. According to Miss M. Katharine Jones, New Castle County Home Demonstration Agent, the usual transferring of food from refrigerator to cooking pan, and then to serving dish, adds up in time and food lost.

For best economy of refrigerator space, she suggests utensils of the right size to fit the food, and those of square or rectangular shape, without protruding handles or knobs. For those lacking covers, aluminum foil may be pressed over the top and around edges for both storage and cooking.

Metal pans generally can take the sudden change in temperature in the move from refrigerator to range. With few precautions, glass, pottery, or enamelware can also move from hot to cold or vice versa.

Generally, it is safer to put such containers when cold into the oven than on top of the stove. Unless the food needs immediate heat, it's a good idea to put the cold utensil in a cold oven and let the two heat up together. If time permits, take the dish from the refrigerator long enough before cooking to take the chill off.

Pfc. Johnson Now At Army Radar School

A former student of the University of Delaware, PFC Johnson entered active military duty in August of this year.

Veteran Member Establishes Prizes

'Joseph Mitchell 4-H Club Awards' Given

One of the features of the New Castle County 4-H Achievement Banquet, held recently in Newark was the presentation of a group of awards by Joseph Mitchell, eleven year member of the White Oak Club of Hockessin. Joe Mitchell, in appreciation for the opportunities afforded him during his eleven years of club work, offered to first year members in the corn, garden, poultry, dairy, swine, clothing, canning, cooking and home improvement projects, recognition to the club member showing the greatest achievements in his or her first year of club work.

This recognition, known as the Joe Mitchell Achievement Awards, is planned to be made yearly. It consists of a medal to be given to the winner in each of these projects, as judged by the County Extension Staff. Club member Mitchell feels that more recognition and encouragement should be given to first year members, knowing that the first year is always the hardest in club work.

First year members chosen for these awards are: garden, Elwin Jewell, Newark; poultry, Charles Webb, Yorklyn; dairy, William Earle Hockessin; swine, Charles Spidberg, Taylor's Bridge; clothing, Judy Lane, Newark; and cooking, Elsie DePrisco, Glasgow. According to Maurice B. Field, County 4-H Club Agent, the interest and appreciation indicated by this contribution is strengthening club work.

U. of D. Art Gallery

An exhibition of 100 photographs of Medieval Hindu temple sculpture, presented under the patronage of the government of India, will open on Sunday, Dec. 10, in the Art Gallery of the Memorial Library at the University of Delaware. The exhibition, circulated by the American Federation of Arts, will remain in the gallery until Jan. 10. The gallery is open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily; Saturdays, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sunday, 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. In addition, the following restricted hours will be observed: Dec. 16, 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.; Dec. 17, closed; Dec. 18-22, 9 a.m. to noon, and 1 to 4 p.m.; Dec. 23-25, closed Dec. 26-29, 9 to 12 and 1 to 4; Dec. 30-Jan. 1, closed.

The photographs were made by Raymond Burnier, honorary officer on special duty with the Archaeological Department of the Government of India. They were first shown at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York City.

Temples of three famous sites are pictured: Bhuvaneshvar, Khajuraho, and Mahoba. The first is an ancient city on the coast of the Bay of Bengal a little below Calcutta. The other two sites are in central India.

Human Relations Institute

Is Established At U. of D.

An Institute of Human Relations, to promote research and consultation services on various general problems in business, industry, education, and community affairs, was approved Saturday by the board of trustees of the University of Delaware.

The institute, toward whose organization several steps already have been taken, will be a joint university-community undertaking. A planning committee, which has drafted the organizational plan and which now is working toward a conference to be held in late February, includes several persons not associated with the university.

President John A. Perkins, in reporting the board's action, said that it was felt that there has been "insufficient research and inadequate approaches to the problems" into which the institute will delve. These problems, he said, include: "Leadership, social organization, personal adjustment, cultural prejudices, inter-group relations, family relations, community development, and spiritual values," as related to management and labor in business and industry; schools and colleges; and community relations.

Proper Lamps Mean Better "See-Ability"

Our one set of eyes is about the most precious possession we have, so let's take care of them, says Miss M. Katharine Jones, Home Demonstration Agent. See-ability becomes increasingly important now that winter and shorter days are coming.

Miss Jones warns that glare is hard on eyes; bare bulbs should be shaded. Light linings in lampshades reflect light and add to the amount of light available. With age and use, many shades, especially those of parchment, become drab and discolored. If they are in good condition they can be painted so as to give up to 50% more light. If the parchment seems oily, shellac it before painting.

All portable lamps should be placed close to whatever you are working on, preferably within 24 to 30 inches of adjusted to one side or rear of the task to prevent glare and shadows.

Always keep lamps and fixtures clean, or you are robbing yourself of half the light you're paying for, warns Miss Jones. Wash reflector bowls in soap and water. Use a slightly damp cloth on the bulbs—when they are turned off and the lamps are disconnected. Shades can be washed, dry cleaned, or just dusted, depending on the fabric. Remember too that light ceilings and walls reflect light so keep them clean and as light colored as possible.

DELAWARE BLUE CROSS MEMBERS

HERE ARE YOUR NEW RATES & BENEFITS

We think you would like to know why we had to change rates and benefits.

All hospital costs, food, linen, drugs, equipment and wages have risen sharply during the past year.

In the past four years, your use of the surgical plan has increased 75 per cent. The frequency with which you have used the hospital and surgical care has added greatly to the Blue Cross financial burden since 1948 with the loss of almost $250,000.

More members feel more complete coverage is necessary since the hospital extras now represent a real financial burden to them.

These changes represent our best thinking about what you want and our most careful efforts to produce a cost to you which is the lowest the Delaware Blue Cross Plan is able to make with a safety for its members.

BLUE CROSS Will Now Provide MORE VALUABLE COVERAGE at INCREASED RATES

BEGINNING FEBRUARY 1, 1951

This is what you get . . .

NOW UNDER THE HOSPITAL PLAN

More Hospital Coverage

30 days in a semi-private room or ward for each hospital confinement* PLUS 90 days at $5.00 ($4.00 for ward contract holders) per day following each 30 days of maximum benefits.

More Maternity Coverage

$8.00 per day for 10 days. ($6.00 per day for ward contract holders)

Plus These Regular Hospital Plan Benefits

Use of operating room.	50% of X-ray when consistent with the condition for which you are being treated.
Routine laboratory examinations.	PLUS EMERGENCY CARE IN ACCIDENT CASES.

MADE YOUR Christmas WISH?

It's natural to make a lot of wishes at Christmas time, but the one that's most important is the wish for the continued safety and security of our families.

The light-hearted happiness of Christmas is centered around home and family—familiar voices raised in age-old carols, the joyful tingling of sleigh bells, the gay seasonal salutes of friends and neighbors. The Christmas tree in the living room, the holly on the window, the red candle on the mantel set the stage for the best scene of all—the faces of those we love seated at the dining room table.

These are the things that help make this the merriest time of the year. Small things they are—but close to home and close to the heart.

From The Equitable agents and representatives who have helped assure your family's security, here's a heart-felt wish for the most joyous Christmas ever.

CUSTOMERS' CORNER

Have you ever said "I'll just never go back there again!"?

That's the way a lot of people react when something goes wrong in the store in which they shop.

They don't complain. They just make up their minds to shop somewhere else.

But we don't want that ever to happen at A&P.

If for any reason you should ever be dissatisfied with the food or service in your A&P, please do us and our employees the favor of letting us know. Please write:
