Council Hastens Work of Water Extension

Provide Means to Liquidate Debt

Ordinance Increases Minimum Rate and Raises Maximum Allowance

In order to help meet the expense of the extension of the water system of the town together with the interest on the bonded indebtedness incurred by its installation, Council at the regular meeting on Monday night voted to increase the water rate. Hereafter the minimum yearly rate will be $15 instead of $10. At the same time the maximum amount of water permitted will be 8000 gallons per quarter instead of 7,500 as heretofore.

The excess water rate which has been subject to a sliding scale of 25c to 15c according to the amount used, has also been changed to a fixed amount, 25c per 1000 gallons. The ordinance fixing the above rates had its first and second readings on Monday evening.

Work on the water plant addition is being pushed rapidly. The water demands during the past week have taxed the present plant beyond capacity so that it was necessary to cut off some of the larger users on Monday morning. Patrons have been urged repeatedly to avoid water waste until the extension is completed but apparently little heed is paid to these requests.

A calamity like that at Lewes yesterday would spell ruin for the town with the present water supply and reckless waste. Householders are urged by Council to take every precaution to avoid such a danger.

PARENTS INVITED TO OBSERVE DEMONSTRATION LESSONS

In order that parents may observe the type of work done in the public schools, announcement is made that demonstration lessons will be given every Friday afternoon at one o'clock, to which all parents are invited. This week Miss Pauline Rutledge will give a demonstration of First Grade reading. Previous notice of the type of lesson will be given weekly.

LADIES AUXILIARY TO MEET TOMORROW

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Pierce Whitcraft tomorrow, Thursday, afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock.

The Home Economics Class at the local High School will exhibit the work of the first semester on Thursday afternoon, December 10th, from 3 to 5. Fancy articles and goods will be sold at the same time.

EDUCATION COMMITTEES MEET TOMORROW

Will Discuss Referendum for New School Building

A meeting of importance to every member of the Committee on Education of the Newark High School Alumni Association will be held tomorrow (Thursday) evening at 8 o'clock in the Academy Building. The Committee on Education from the Newark Century Club will meet with them and a general discussion of school matters, particularly of the referendum to be taken December 18, will take place.

ACCEPTS POSITION AS RAILWAY MAIL CLERK

Harry D. Sanborn left last Thursday for New York to accept an appointment as railway mail clerk. His run will be between New York and Washington.

COLLEGE STUDENTS TAKE SERUM

Authorities Take Every Precaution to Safeguard Health

The presence of four cases of typhoid fever among the college students and the death of Robert M. Walker, of Hockessin, has been the occasion of much alarm to parents throughout the State who have sons or daughters enrolled as students, and has likewise been the occasion for the spread of alarming and groundless rumors concerning conditions particularly at Delaware College.

Rigid investigation of sanitary conditions there conducted at the instance of the College authorities upon report of the second typhoid case there, by local and State health officials under direction of Dr. Herbert J. Watson, State Bacteriologist, failed to disclose anything that would indicate a source of infection. Blood tests were taken of dietitians, waiters, cooks, and all who have to do with the handling of the food, in order to find out whether or not there was a "typhoid carrier" among them. None was found and since repeated tests have proved the water supply to be pure, other clues were sought.

The milk supply secured from the College Farm was thought to be above suspicion until it was disclosed that several weeks ago when the supply was inadequate, it was augmented by milk secured from the local creamery. This was not pasteurized and may possibly be the source. Early in the fall four or five cases developed among the townspeople and those in the adjacent country. It is now thought that they may have contracted the disease from a common source.

This questionable milk supply was secured for only a little while. When the facts became known, the College secured the additional milk needed from the Clover Dairy in Wilmington, the purity of which is guaranteed. The College herd has since been augmented by the purchase of five cows, and will soon be able to supply all demands of both colleges. To further safeguard the health an opportunity was afforded all students yesterday to be inoculated against the disease. They assembled in the Lounge at a stated period in the afternoon when the two physicians administered the serum. The cost of the serum was the only charge to the students. The majority of those not inoculated within the past few years took the serum which will be administered again at the proper intervals.

LOCAL YOUTH IN MOTOR-CYCLE ACCIDENT

Carl Riley suffered injuries to his foot sufficient to necessitate the use of a cane in walking, and John Clancy was badly shaken up in a motorcycle accident near here last Sunday.

BURGLARS ATTEMPT ENTRANCE TO LOCAL STORES

Hold-up Prank of College Students

Any noise now in store or dwelling is likely to jiggle a nervous trigger finger and scatter death or destruction or both to the clumsy bunglers who for the past week have been attempting entrance to the local stores.

Two attempts have been made to enter the Newark Department Store via the cellar, both of which were foiled by the burglar alarm. The store of Louis Handloff was likewise tried and the Columbia Grafonola shop. At the latter place a rear window was pried open and a ladder with which to enter other stores was borrowed. Mr. I. H. Sortman, the proprietor, is of the belief that the intruders were frightened off, for nothing of value was missing.

Suspicious noises heard at Sol Wilson's store by William Smith and by the night operator at the telephone exchange led to the belief that an entry was attempted. Mr. Wilson was called but a thorough search failed to reveal any trace of burglars. The windows here are barred and a heavy lock has been placed upon the front door.

Two holdups, those of Lynam Reed, who was relieved of several dollars in money, and Clarence Evans, a college student, early Sunday morning, created no little excitement. In each case three men held up and searched the victim. The latter case, it later developed, was a prank of college students who restored young Evans' property yesterday afternoon after full confession and apology had been made to the town authorities.

The attempted burglarization of stores is considered a serious matter and a movement is about to be started it is understood, to provide for protection at night.

GIVES OLD-FASHIONED QUILTING PARTY

Mrs. Raymond Lewis entertained her sisters at an old-fashioned quilting party last week. A big family dinner was served and a good time enjoyed.

CANDIDATES OUT FOR BASKETBALL

The successful football season has inspired the local High School with an ambition to repeat their record in basketball. 18 candidates have presented themselves for tryouts and interclass games are being played.

The first game of the season will be with Oxford High School next Friday evening at 8:30 in the College gymnasium.

Baltimore Paper Features Work of Newark Children

Tells Story of "Grammar School News"

Publication of School Paper Cited as Typical Example of "Project" Method in Education

In a recent edition of the Baltimore Sun a specific work well done in the Newark Grammar School is used to illustrate the value of the project method in education.

Miss Florence E. Bamberger, Associate Professor of Education at Johns Hopkins University in an interview covering the merits of the project method cited the publication of the Grammar School News as a typical project. She says, "One day the teacher of the Eighth Grade in the Newark (Delaware) Grammar School brought to class a number of newspapers, distributed them among the pupils, and it was not long before every child in the room began to get interested in the whole process of editing and publishing papers. Later one pupil suggested that the class or school might try to publish a paper. The result was that for the past year the class has published a four-page monthly paper, which receives contributions of

NEARBY LOCALITIES ORGANIZE

Welch Tract and Ogleton Hold Enthusiastic Meetings

At an enthusiastic community meeting held last night at Welch Tract School, the citizens of that vicinity manifested an interest in better schools by a large attendance and by the formation of a Community Club. The object is to promote sociability, to become better acquainted and to cooperate for school betterment.

Dr. R. W. Cooper gave an inspiring talk on educational matters and various citizens of the district urged the formation of a club. J. W. Suddard for many years a trustee of the school, presided. Sentiment in favor of immediate organization was unanimous and this was affected by the election of the following officers: President, Mrs. George Jarnon; Vice-President, Mrs. Harvey Davis; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. George Hutchinson.

The appointment of the various standing committees was left with the president who will report later. Plans were made for good literary and musical programs to be given at subsequent meetings. Through the cooperation of the teacher, Mrs. Wilmer Hill of Newark, the president has secured promises from talented Newarkers to assist with future programs. The new organization voted to affiliate later with the State organization. At the conclusion of the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments of cake and lemonade were served.

Ogleton community also held a meeting last night and formed an organization.

Dean Winifred J. Robinson and Francis A. Cooch were present and made addresses. Much enthusiasm was displayed and organization affected.

"VIRGINIA" THEME AT CENTURY CLUB

Community Christmas Party Tuesday Evening

A Virginian's enthusiasm for Virginia can result only in a vivid entertaining narrative. This was evidenced yesterday at the New Century Club when Miss M. E. Rohr, of the Women's College, addressed the club on that subject.

Miss Dora Wilcox, accompanied by Miss Gladys Pratt, sang two selections.

Next Tuesday's meeting will be at 7:30 in the evening and will be a community Christmas Party in honor of the soldiers of the Rehabilitation Division. Everyone is cordially invited.

METHODISTS INVITE PASTOR FOR 4TH YEAR

Good Reports at Fourth Quarterly Conference

At a meeting of the Fourth Quarterly Conference of the M. E. Church, a unanimous invitation was extended to the pastor, Rev. Frank Herson, to return for the fourth successive year. Dr. Robert Watt, District Superintendent, presided. Encouraging reports of all branches of church work were read and approved, 33 members have been taken into the church since the last meeting of the conference.

The Queen Esther Circle met on Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Viola Eubanks.

On Monday evening the official board met and transacted routine business.

The Newark Auxiliary of the W. H. M. S. of the M. E. Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Daniel Stoll, Friday, December 10th, at 2:30. An interesting Christmas program will be given.

EDITOR OF CECIL WHIG PASSES AWAY

Prominent Cecil Countian Dies After Operation

Frank E. Williams, editor of the Cecil Whig, and former State Senator for Cecil county, died at Union Hospital, Elkton, last Saturday morning, following an operation for gallstones.

Mr. Williams, who was widely known, was born in the Second District of Cecil county. In his earlier years he was a Presbyterian minister, stationed for a number of years at the Northminster Presbyterian Church, Baltimore. Poor health compelled him to leave the city and he accepted the pastorate at the Lewes, Del., Presbyterian Church. While pastor of the latter church he was offered the managing editorship of the Cecil Whig, succeeding the late Henry R. Torbert, which position he held at the time of his death.

Mr. Williams was a man of forceful personality, recognized as a power in county politics and in press circles.

Federal services were held yesterday afternoon at his late home, Brantwood Farm, by Rev. John McElmoyle, pastor of Elkton Presbyterian Church, assisted by several other clergymen, friends of the deceased. Many persons from all parts of the State and many from Delaware were in attendance.

His wife, four sons and two daughters survive.

Two of his sons, Frank E., Jr., and Wallace, served with distinction in the World War.

ALL READY FOR POW-WOW BAZAR

Minnehaha Band Anticipates Successful Affair

The committees in charge of the different attractions for the Pow-wow Carnival to be given by Minnehaha Band announce that everything is in readiness for the opening tomorrow evening at the Armory. Special attention has been given to the music for dancing. The Minnehaha orchestra under the leadership of J. Stewart Pryor, has been working faithfully during the past few weeks, and the Band itself is prepared to do service. They were on parade last Saturday evening to advertise the affair.

Donations have been received in gratifying amount. The new Century Club voted $25 to the general fund and Roger Lovett gave a handsome rocker which will be given as a prize in the popularity contest. Unlike previous contests of this sort, only young ladies will compete this time. Many attractions as noted previously will be provided, fancy articles suitable for Christmas giving will be on sale and dancing will take place each evening.

Students to Give Christmas Play

Do Entire Work of Production

Choose Characters and Appoint Committees at Recent Meeting

In order to raise funds with which to pay a deficit from last year and to resume publication of the Grammar School News, the pupils of the Eighth Grade have determined to produce a Christmas play. The entire work of dramatization, preparation and production will be managed by the students. From a number of stories and poems which were read to them they chose "The First Christmas" from Ben Hur as having unusual dramatic possibilities and then proceeded to appoint the various committees to handle all details of the production.

They determined after much discussion to make it a school and community affair. The church choir, the Glee Club, and others will be asked to help with the singing of carols between the acts; Dr. Walt H. Steel, president of the Board of Education, will be asked to give the prologue, and other features of a community nature will be provided.

The production is under the general supervision of Miss Beatrice Naylor, one of the college students working under the direction of Miss Madeline Raby, instructor for the Eighth Grade.

The cast of characters and the committees follow:

Cast of Characters

Missionary Society to Hold Election of Officers

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church will hold an important meeting tomorrow (Thursday) evening at 7:30 to elect officers for the ensuing year. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles P. Steele.

The Land of Beginning Again

I wish there was some wonderful place
Called the Land of Beginning Again,
Where all our mistakes and all our heartaches
And all our poor selfish grief
Could be dropped like a shabby coat at the door
And never be put on again.

I wish we could come on it all unaware,
Like the hunter who finds a lost trail,
And I wish that the one whom our blindness had done
The greatest injustice of all
Could be at the gates, like an old friend that waits
For the comrade he's gladdest to hail.

We would find all the things we intended to do,
But forgot and remembered too late
Little praises unspoken, little promises broken,
And all the thousand and one
Little duties neglected that might have perfected
The day for one less fortunate.

It wouldn't be possible not to be kind
In the Land of Beginning Again;
And the ones we misjudged and the ones whom we grudged
Their moments of victory here
Would find in the grasp of our loving handclasp
More than penitent lips could explain.

For what has been hardest we'd know had been best,
And what had seemed loss would be gain;
For there isn't a sting that will not take wing
When we've faced it and laughed it away,
And I think that the laughter is most what we're after
In the Land of Beginning Again.

For The Homemaker's Eye

The cranberry is essentially a holiday dish. The brilliant color and the high pectin content which permits it to gelatinize readily makes it invaluable as a table decoration, when molded into the many shapes made possible by ingenious mold makers. In addition to the decorative quality it has also that of being delicious, healthful and economical. With the price of sugar hovering now around the ten cent mark, cranberry dishes are not expensive.

The great acidity of the fruit makes it unwise to cook in anything except porcelain lined, enameled or aluminum vessels. Eight pounds of cranberries and 2½ pounds of sugar make 10 tumblers of beautifully colored jelly. The complete recipe for this appears below.

Cranberry Salad

Cook together one quart of cranberries with one pint of boiling water twenty minutes. Put through a sieve and add two cups of sugar; cook five minutes. Dissolve one and one-half tablespoons of gelatin in a little cold water, add to the hot cranberry sauce and stir until well mixed. Just before it begins to set pour half of it into an enamel pan which has been rinsed in cold water. Allow it to become firm, keeping the rest warm over hot water. Sprinkle one cupful of diced celery, one-half cupful of diced walnut meats over the stiff jelly and pour the remaining gelatin mixture over this, and allow it to set. When firm cut in slices and serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise dressing; garnish with whole nut meats.

Cranberry Jelly

Cook until soft the desired quantity of cranberries with 1½ pints of water for each two quarts of berries. Strain the juice through a jelly bag. Measure the juice and heat it to the boiling point. Add one cup of sugar for every two cups of juice; stir until the sugar is dissolved; boil briskly for five minutes; skim and pour into glass tumblers or porcelain or crockery molds.

Cranberry Ice

One quart cranberries, one pint water, one pound sugar, juice of two lemons. Cook the cranberries with the water until the berries are tender; then strain; add the sugar and cook until this is thoroughly dissolved. Cool; stir in the strained lemon juice, and freeze to the consistency of water ice. Serve as a dessert or in sherbet glasses as an accompaniment to roast turkey or any hot or cold meats. This is enough for six persons.

Cranberry Pie

Have ready a partly baked pastry shell. Pour in sauce when cold, made by the above sauce recipe, put strips of pastry over the top, and finish baking in a moderate oven.

Cranberry Sauce for Meats

One quart cranberries, two cups boiling water, 1½ to 2 cups sugar. Boil the sugar and water together for five minutes; skim; add the berries and cook, without stirring, until they are translucent.

WHY BIRDS ARE NOT ELECTROCUTED

Why birds can perch and remain unharmed on live trolley wires is a question that doubtless has often occurred to many people. In explanation the New York Evening Post says: It is perfectly true that the trolley wire carries an electric current strong enough to kill not only birds but human beings. However, to do any harm the current must pass to the ground through the body of the bird or person. The connection of the body with the ground need not be direct, but it must exist in some way.

A person could sit on the trolley wire just as safely as the birds do, but, if he should stretch out his hand and touch another wire, or an iron pipe, running directly or indirectly to the ground, the full force of the current would then pass through him. In other words, the current would be grounded by the connection made by his body. In the case of the birds, there is nothing to afford a ground connection, and they are in consequence unharmed, the electric current passing through the wire under them as water would pass through a main on which a person might be sitting, without wetting him.

AGRICULTURAL CLASS DEHORNS CATTLE

The agriculture class of the Harrington High School who are pursuing the animal husbandry course, recently dehorned several cows belonging to Mr. Deputy as a part of their regular school work.

The boys performed the work in a most creditable manner under the direction of the teacher of agriculture. Work of this character is first taken up in class and discussed from every angle, before being put into actual practice on the community farms.

Mr. Deputy was well pleased with the boys' work and commented favorably upon the practical nature of the agricultural course in the school.

HOW TO MAKE MONEY AT HOME A PROBLEM

Women in Different Communities Find Different Solutions

How to make money at home is a problem for which many women must find a solution. In Orange County, Fla., one of the members of a home club organized by the home demonstration agent is making a specialty of "gift boxes," and is doing well with her enterprise. These attractive boxes contain a few perfect oranges, grapefruit, and kumquats, and are sold all packed and ready for shipment to the tourists who send them North as gifts to friends. During the best part of the winter season this club member sells 40 to 50 boxes a day, and on each she makes a very fair profit.

Thousands of home women are found in every State who are anxious to earn money without going from home to do it. Hand-painted china, embroidery, and crocheted articles are usually the first things thought of as a possible means of producing pin money or in some instances a most necessary living income. The amateur manufacturer soon finds, however, that the demand for such articles is small and that as income producers they are a failure, for almost every woman is able to make them for herself and few desire to buy them ready-made.

The home demonstration agents who were sent out by the United States Department of Agriculture and the State agriculture colleges advise the women in their territories who are anxious to earn some money of their own not to try to sell something that the majority of women can produce for themselves, but to look over the local field and to see if there is not something which people want and need that the one desiring an income can make better than anyone else or something that she can supply from her resources for which there is a real demand. The county agents, knowing local conditions and individuals, can usually be of much assistance in helping a woman decide what is the best article for her to attempt to sell and what is the best way to market it.

It may be, if the woman lives in the country or in a small town, that she has plenty of honey and currants and can make delicious bar-le-duc, a small jar of which brings a good price in the city, or she may be taught how to make it, if she has the raw materials. Basketry is taught in some sections of the South where the "long-leaf" pine abounds. The baskets are filled with jars of orange and grapefruit marmalade and are sold to tourists.

CARE OF THE HANDS IN WINTER

Any woman who is not too lazy can take care of her own nails and save the price of a professional manicure.

You will need a bowl of hot, soapy water, a bowl of clear water, a soft towel, manicure scissors and file, orangewood sticks, a bit of absorbent cotton, a bottle of cuticle remover, nail

THE M. MEGARY & SON CO.

Here is one place

where we believe you can solve that gift problem. And you can solve it with a gift that is sensible and lasting—a gift that reflects the thoughtfulness and the careful selection of the giver. There are a thousand gift suggestions in this big store and priced to fit a thousand pocketbooks.

For the man of the house here are smoking stands that range from $3.50 to $45.00—from the simple standing ash receiver to the elaborately humidor equipped cabinets. Here is a Globe-Wernicke Sectional Bookcase to house his favorite books. And here for some lucky fellow are great big easy chairs in tapestry and leather and some of the adjustable kind. Chairs that will make him comfortable and contented for years to come and ranging in price from $40.00 to $200.00.

And for the ladies of the house.

For that little remembrance we have a most complete stock of the imported china in odd pieces and sets. You can get a hand-painted bon bon dish for $3.75 or a seven-piece chocolate set for $12.00. There are some bureau scarfs at $6.50 and some luncheon sets at $11.00 the set—excellent values.

Here are some dainty gate-leg tables—just the thing for an odd corner and the occasional lunch, that come in rich dull mahogany and range from $35.00 to $70.00. And the handy, serviceable tea wagon that saves dozens of steps and that can be had in woods and designs to match the present diningroom furnishings. They are priced from $15.00 to $60.00.

So on from book blocks to hall clocks—from the baby's high chair to a big overstuffed davenport goes the list of real, useful, thoughtful gifts.

It is a good rule—and many of our customers follow it—that a visit to Megary's FIRST will solve that gift problem.

paste, nail powder and a chamois buffer.

First, cut and trim the nails. Do not depend on your scissors alone for this; only the first trimming is to be done with the scissors. The careful shaping of the nail is accomplished with the file; using the file always upward, toward the center of the nail from either side. Dip the hands in the soapy water and dry them. Then apply the cuticle remover with an orangewood stick around the end of which you have wrapped a bit of absorbent cotton. Never cut the cuticle. It is a most dangerous process and many easily give you a bad hangnail, and quite possibly blood poison. The cuticle remover is a liquid that softens the cuticle so that it just fades away when you rub back the flesh around the nail with your thumb, and leaves the nail a pretty shape with the half moon showing at the base.

Now water and towel again and then the polishing process. Take plenty of time for this. First use the powder, then the buffer. Then the nail powder, and lastly rub the nails briskly across the palm of your hand. If your nails look fluted, a condition that comes now and then, use pumice stone lightly, rubbing it across the nails before polishing.

If you are approaching middle age and your hands are beginning to wrinkle, massage them nightly with a good cold cream, five minutes to each hand, working with a rotary motion from wrist to fingertips. Applications of warm sweet oil will help reduce prominent veins in the hands.

DECEMBER A GAY OLD FELLOW

Hoary Month of Snow and Santa Claus Has Record of Wild Youth

Not only the name but also the number of days in the month of December varied from time to time during its early history. No ancient Roman who wanted to remember whether it was the 31st of December or the 1st of January could repeat to himself that convenient little verse beginning "Thirty days has September" and be sure of getting the right answer. It all depended.

December started out some twenty-five hundred years ago with thirty days. Then some time later the Roman Emperor Numa reduced the number to twenty-nine days. Finally, Julius Caesar in the first century B. C. increased the month to its present quota of thirty-one.—New York Sun.

PRUNE WILL ADD MUCH TO DELAWARE INCOME

The announcement that a perfect prune may be grown in Delaware points the way to another industry and one that our farmers doubtless will inaugurate at an early day. Hitherto the plum that eventually became prune of the American breakfast table was too delicate to mature here. According to the announcement of Professor Detjen of Delaware College, the Milton, a plum of pure American ancestry, is being bred until it will soon be ready for cultivation and the fruit of this hardier tree may be transformed into the prune of commerce.

The cultivation of the prune here will be a great accession to the value of farm products of the State and Peninsula, and might add two or three million dollars to Delaware's income. As prunes are always in demand at prices assuring profit to the grower, their cultivation here will go towards solving the problem of raising a crop that can be shipped any distance desired and can be marketed at any time.

Delaware College and its staff are rendering a fine service to the farmers in keeping them apprised of the developments that are constantly being made in the cultivation of the soil.—Every Evening.

POMONA GRANGE ELECTS OFFICERS

Pomona Grange of New Castle County held an all-day business meeting at Talleyville last Thursday as the guests of West Brandywine Grange.

The most important business feature was the biennial election of officers, chosen from the different granges, which resulted as follows: Worthy Master, Frank Yearsley of Hockessin Grange; Worthy Overseer, Robert Elliott, Center; Worthy Steward, Jessie Joehen, Rose Hill; Worthy Lecturer, Emily Mitchell, Harmony; Worthy Chaplain, J. Mousley, West Brandywine; Worthy Treasurer, John Nivin, Newark; Worthy Assistant Steward, Fred C. Snyder, Delaware; Worthy Ceres, Mary Eastburn, Union; Worthy Flora, Mary McDowell, Peach Blossom; Worthy Pomona, Nellie S. Snyder, Delaware; Worthy Secretary and Treasurer, Sarah Eastburn, Union. These officers will serve two years. Their installation will take place in Wilmington in March.

Several resolutions were discussed and passed. It was decided that several members be present at the Milk Producers Association meeting on Saturday, but the formal object was not made known.

The advisability of having an institution for the insane and feeble-minded in each county was discussed, but no decision was reached. This subject will be gone into further at the next meeting.

A resolution protesting against the opening of the State Fair on Sunday, as was unofficially announced some time ago, was adopted.

Worthy Lecturer R. O. Bausman of the entertainment committee presented an interesting program for the entertainment of the guests. It included a dialogue, tableau, two recitations and music. A bountiful dinner was served.

THE SPIRITUAL RE- WARDS OF TEACHING

U. S. Commissioner Claxton Makes Plea for Material Reward

Concerning the spiritual rewards of those in the teaching profession, U. S. Commissioner P. P. Claxton had the following to say in his report read before the National Education Association:

"Teachers who do their work well and who, either in fact or by faith, see the world made better as a result; individuals made healthier, wiser, happier; sin and suffering made less; the commonwealth made more; social purity and civic righteousness increased; public laws made more just; patriotism broadened and purified; State and Nation made stronger and safer against attack from without and decay from within; and the world lifted on to a higher plane and into a brighter sunshine and a purer atmosphere, are possessed of wealth unseen and for the most part unseeable.

"All true teachers will think of these things and many of the best will be attracted to and held in the profession by them. It will be all the worse for the profession and the world when it is not so.

"But this should not be made an excuse for putting public or private education on a charity basis, nor for paying teachers the miserably low wages they are now paid. It should not be made an excuse for paying such wages as will not permit school boards and superintendents to fix a reasonable minimum standards of qualifications for teachers because young men and women who expect to teach cannot afford to incur the expense necessary to prepare themselves to meet the requirements of such standards. It should not be made an excuse for failing to increase the pay of teachers, as the pay in other professions is increased, in recognition of proved merit and in proportion to increasing ability gained through experience, continued study, and constant devotion to duty.

Improved Salaries Benefit the Schools and the Nation

"Not for the sake of the teachers primarily, but that the schools may be made fully efficient; that children may be well taught; that the material wealth of State and Nation may be increased so that we may have the means of paying our debts, building our highways, caring for our unfortunates, and meeting other public expenses and at the same time have enough for all the people to live in comfort; that our democracy may be preserved; purified, and made more effective; that scientific discovery, useful invention and artistic expression may be promoted, that we may act well our part in the commonwealth of the world, we must pay such salaries as will bring into the schools as teachers men and women of the best native ability, men and women strong and well organized physically, mentally, and spiritually; men and women of the finest culture and the most thorough and comprehensive education, academic and professional, and so adjust their salaries as to enable them to hold all those who show themselves most capable and best fitted for the work. In this most important of all our enterprises we can not afford to pay less.

Many Able Men Have Taught

"Our traditional policy of paying to young and inexperienced men and women with little or no question as to their professional preparation salaries almost as large as we pay to those who have had many years of successful experience had at least one merit. It brought into the schools large numbers of young men and women of unusual native ability and of strong character and sometimes such men and women having also good scholarship and fine culture, willing and eager to do the best they could while saving from their comparatively good wages money to start them in business or home making or to enable them to prepare themselves for those demands. Many of the ablest men and women in all walks of life have been school teachers. A good-sized ex-teachers' association could be formed of members of any recent Congress of the United States. We have just nominated two ex-teachers as candidates for the Presidency. Unfortunately, however, most of these have remained as teachers in the schools only till they had begun to gain some little comprehension of their task and some little skill in executing it. But despite their lack of preparation and experience it was good for boys and girls to come in contact with them. From this contact many gained inspiration and purpose."

ADVISES 2½ MILLION APPROPRIATION FOR CANAL

An appropriation of not less than $2,500,000, with a continuing contract authorization of $7,500,000 in addition, to widen and deepen the Chesapeake and Delaware canal, with the idea of finally making it a sea-level water-way, is recommended in the annual report of Newton D. Baker, secretary of war, made public yesterday.

"Eventually the canal," said Mr. Baker, "should be enlarged and its depth increased to 25 feet, but the appropriation which I recommend will enable us rapidly to make this canal a most important and valuable addition to the commercial facilities of Philadelphia and Baltimore and adjacent country and a useful inland route for minor naval vessels of the sort now used in such numbers in war.

"The canal certainly affords a very short, quiet and safe water route between the great cities of Baltimore and Philadelphia. Along the headwaters of both the Chesapeake and Delaware bays, and along the route of the canal and adjacent rivers, a great truck gardening area is developed and supplies food products for several million people. Land routes are necessarily roundabout, by reason of the deep water bay projections which intersect the land, while the connection by sea involves the long trip from Cape Charles to Cape Henlopen with the added length of the two great bays.

"Prior to its taking over by the United States (March 2, 1919), the condition of the canal had been allowed to deteriorate until much of it is in a dilapidated condition. The protection for its banks is unstable and in many places washed away. The estimated cost of maintenance for the next year is $250,000, but when the improvements now provided for are completed, this cost will be much diminished."

Little Boy—Mother, are there any men angels in heaven?

Mother—Why, certainly, dear.

Little Boy—But, mother, I never saw any pictures of angels with whiskers.

Mother—No, dear, men get in with a close shave.—Aggi Squib.

NOT WORRYING

Down in one of the towns of central Illinois there was a Yankee who made no great pretensions but who always had a little money to lend upon undoubted security. He lived in a modest one-story frame cottage. A neighbor built a new house across the street from Uncle Silas, a two-story house with a tower on one corner extending up another story. A townsman accosted Uncle Silas and thought in consideration of his proverbial modesty, to get a "rise," so he said, "Well, Uncle Silas, you will have to be building a new house now; Lem Hankins has just built a new house across the street from your and his is two stories higher than yours." "Yes," replied Uncle Silas dryly, "Lem's house is two stories higher than mine," then he added, "but I own the two stories."

CITY MANAGER

PLAN ECONOMICAL
A Norfolk dispatch notes that Mayor Moore of Philadelphia was greatly surprised to find that the city manager of the Virginia metropolis is paid $16,000 a year, whereas his salary as executive of the third city of the country is only $12,000. Explanation of this discrepancy is found in the circumstance that Norfolk has a business administration, with all politics eliminated, while Philadelphia has a political administration with business principles eliminated. Norfolk finds that a business manager for the city at $16,000 a year is infinitely more economical than was a partisan mayor of the old days receiving $3,000 salary. Business administration of a city is worth 1,000 per cent more than partisan control. The latter blights a city, the former pushes it to the fore.—Every Evening.

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

There are more than 3,000,000 Ford cars in daily service throughout the world, and fully eighty per cent of these are Ford Touring Cars. There are many reasons for this, not the least of which is the simplicity in the design of the car, so easy to understand; likewise it is easy to operate; and mighty inexpensive compared to other motor cars. On the farm, in the city, for business and for family pleasure, it is the car of the people, and the demand is increasing every day. Let us have your order promptly if you want one.

MAKING MONEY

Some men make their money in business—some in stocks—some by toil—some saving of their daily wages. But we submit to you the unquestioned fact that more men have achieved a comfortable competence through the ownership of property—houses and land which bring in a fixed income—than in any other way.

A word to the wise is enough. Watch your neighbors gradually rise in the world and then ascertain how they are doing it.

In nine cases out of ten you will find they have purchased their home or farm—often on easy terms—while their less enterprising neighbor is still paying rent.

A word to the wise is sufficient. If you have not yet started on a place of your own do not delay. Get full particulars about some of the following properties.

158 Acre Farm, near Kirkwood Station, $10,000.

74 Acre Farm, near Stanton, $10,000.

68 Acre Farm, suitable for fruit and chickens, $4,000.

FRANK E. WILLIAMS

Frank E. Williams dead! We can't quite realize it. We can't write. We knew him as a citizen, a plain, honest, outspoken fighting citizen. Fighting always for what he thought was right, and fighting, too, against wrong. We knew him as a farmer interested and sympathetic with the problems of the farm. We knew him as a newspaper man, fearless—ah, fearless is too weak a word. No man on this peninsula had the daring that was his when his heart was in a cause. And effective, too. Quick as a flash in repartee, a withering sarcasm when needed, with a mind-full store, he could speak and write in Anglo-Saxon phrases that swept all before him.

We knew him as a friend, generous, full of sympathy, eager to sacrifice, offering his all. But exacting justice in return, and pity the man who dared take undue advantage.

To us of the Newark Post, his death comes with a shock. Some ten years ago, with our first batch of Personals and Here and There News, we went to him and the Cecil Whig. We told him our ambitions, asked for his confidence and credit, challenged his advice—and he laughed. "Ideals and youth, how foolish but I love them. Where's your editorial?" Upon being told, we had none, he gave us our first lecture on the County Newspaper. And we took his advice and accepted his credit. With out a contract, and payments conspicuous by their irregularity, The Post was printed in that office for over a year, brought over to Newark on the 4.29 and mailed.

Our every success has had his smile, his witty comment and approval. Only a week or so ago he was here at Kells. We laughed over that first issue and contract. Without money, without introduction by friends, Frank Williams accepted our enthusiasm as bona fide. He was our friend. He trusted, and we would go far and fight hard to protect the ideals that were his. The Head, Heart and Hand found in our Imprint was to him typical of our youth, but he urged us on. So that's why, we can't write—but his memory will always urge us on.

LET'S MAKE IT UNANIMOUS

The local Board of Education is to be congratulated for calling the Bond Issue election. No comment of ours could add anything to the argument in favor of the project. We cannot see how any one at all familiar with the housing facilities could vote other than favorably. Any one doubting at all, the supreme necessity for immediate action need only visit our school buildings. No other argument is necessary.

While not surprised, we are glad to hear expressions of approval from every side. It is hoped that Newark will even out-strip Laurel in its vote expression of approval. At this time of high prices we are especially fortunate in having the generous offer from the School Auxiliary Association. Without this, it would still be our civic duty to assume this obligation. With it, our duty is made easy. Our children who take our places tomorrow need all that is best in education and opportunity. And here's our chance to help a bit.

Let's make it really unanimous. Wouldn't that be a record? Well, Newark is worthy and capable of it.

ETHNOLOGICAL

A traveler who alighted from the train in a small Southern town was greeted by a colored porter, who shouted at him, "Palace hotel, boss!" and grabbed the traveler's baggage, and the latter said, "Wait a minute, Rastus. Is this hotel American or European?" and Rastus replied, "I dunno, boss, but I thinks they're Irish."—San Francisco Chronicle.

through accomplishment of the task undertaken, all are invaluable experiences which link the school life with the business world into which so many are eventually precipitated without adequate preparation.

While, as the Baltimore Sun states, the business people of the town gave loyal support, the parents and friends became regular subscribers, and the students worked faithfully to increase the circulation and to sell advertising space, they found, as many small town publishers found, that increased costs of all printing supplies made it impossible this year to make a newspaper self-supporting. They were unwilling to conduct a paper on any other basis although offers of financial assistance were made by interested individuals and organizations. They have considered and rejected various methods of supplementing the subscription and advertising returns by the combined efforts of all who are interested. The final decision was in favor of a Christmas play to the success of which every one may subscribe in some manner. Announcement of this is made elsewhere in this issue.

"Project" Method Will Supplant Old "Enforced" Teaching

The old fashioned "enforced" method of teaching will in Miss Bamberger's opinion, eventually surrender unconditionally in favor of the "project" method. The success of this method has been demonstrated at Horace Mann School, New York City, and in many progressive schools throughout the country. It was instituted in the Newark Public Schools several years ago largely through the instrumentality of Miss Agnes Snyder and other progressive teachers who had observed its success elsewhere. All who have tried this method are enthusiastic over the results. Edward Roche Hardy, Jr., the 12-year-old boy who has just entered Columbia University, attributes his swift progress through school largely to a diligent application to the project method at Horace Mann School. His success while not typical of the results of the method, since he enjoyed unusual opportunities of teaching and travel, exemplifies its underlying principles. All of the personal help and all of the travel could not alone achieve this result. The real determining influence was the stimulus afforded by purposeful activity, the creation within the pupil of a desire and curiosity to learn, which is the heart of the project theory.

"Project" Method Not a Haphazard Process

Skill and intelligent study on the part of the teacher are necessary to make this method a success. Before attempting projects a teacher must have a thorough knowledge of the habits of the children in her care, an intimate knowledge of the community background in which they live or have lived, a large store of general information, and an understanding of present conditions that comes of reading and study kept up unceasingly.

This method bids fair to put to rest the disturbing question, "What is the matter with our public schools?" so frequently asked by irritated business men who found the product of the schools in most cases an almost useless commodity with "a smattering of many things, a thorough and usable knowledge of none." The criticism from many quarters of a purposeless, impractical course of study in the public schools was but feebly defended by educators who were bound by chains of conservatism and fetters forged by hands long dead.

Purposeful study that accomplishes a definite end and gives ability to do some specific thing is the demand of a practical age which in all of its eagerness for results does not lose sight of the cultural needs which are necessary to a well rounded life and to purposeful living.

PLUCKY STUDENTS SUPPORT THEMSELVES IN COLLEGE

Local Business Man Gives Opportunity for Citizens to Cooperate

Five years ago Mr. G. W. Dickel opened a small store in Philadelphia for the sale of automobile tires. His capital was limited, but his ambition was not. Today, G. W. Dickel & Co. own their own place of business which is a beautifully equipped four-story building located at 1327 North Broad street, Philadelphia.

One year ago last October, G. W. Dickel & Co. opened a store in Wilmington and Horace R. Pyle, secretary and treasurer of the company came to Wilmington as general manager of this store.

The growth which this concern has enjoyed has been possible because they have given honest service and have sold satisfaction along with their merchandise.

Three months ago, Mr. Pyle purchased from Elizabeth N. Press, the Helen Mackey property at 218 W. Main Street, of this town and one month later Mr. Pyle and his family moved into their new home.

G. W. Dickel & Co., of which firm Mr. Pyle is manager, conduct a wholesale and retail business in automobile tires and a restricted line of automobile accessories. Among other things, this firm is the direct factory distributors for Thermoid Tires, manufactured at Trenton, N. J., by the makers of the world famous Thermoid brake lining.

Thermoid tires will be placed on the market in Newark in a new and novel way. They will be sold direct to the user by students of Delaware College.

Delaware College is an institution of which all of Delaware and Newark in particular, may well be proud. It is an institution which deserves the support of all the townspeople.

There are many deserving men who could not attend the college at all unless they are able to find work of some sort in the college or the town, by which they can pay part or all of their expenses. Therefore, G. W. Dickel & Co. have provided a way by which two men may pay their way through Delaware College. Howard B. Yost and John M. Wells, both of the Sopomore class, have been appointed as their special representatives. Mr. Pyle, personally, as well as G. W. Dickel & Co., will guarantee the merchandise sold by these two young men.

The motor car owners of Newark who buy from these men will not only be assisting them and thereby helping support the college, but they will receive exceptionally high grade merchandise coupled with an unusual service at a moderate cost.

HAD NO BRAINS

A bishop encountered an old Irishman turning a windlass which hauled up gravel from a well that was being dug. His hat was off and the sun was pouring on his unprotected head.

"Don't you know that the sun will injure your brain if you expose it like that?" asked the bishop.

The Irishman wiped the sweat off his forehead and looked at the clergyman.

"Do you think I'd be doing this all day if I had any brains?"—London Tit-Bits.

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL SQUAD ENTERTAINED

State Champions Tendered Dinner at Newark Inn

The high school football squad, together with their coaches and those of the college students who have given aid and counsel at various times during the season, were entertained at dinner last Wednesday evening by Mrs. M. E. McGovern at Newark Inn. F. D. Brown, Mrs. McGovern's son, assisted Coach McDonald this past season. He acted as toastmaster and called upon the members of the squad for speeches. Each responded with the same spirit of courage and fearlessness that won for the local squad the secondary High School championship of the State. The impromptu after dinner speech, the terror of many experienced speakers, excited no more of fear than the down State champions from whom they wrested the State honors a short time ago. Absence of formality and a wholesome good time, together with many good things to eat made the affair a great success. The decorations comprised the school colors, black and gold. Streamers of these combined colors formed a canopy over the table and a large banner containing the words "Interscholastic Champions" completed the decorations.

The boys in appreciation of Mrs. McGovern's kindness presented her with a beautiful bouquet of roses and at the close of the banquet gave the school yell for her, for the coaches, H. M. McDonald and F. D. Brown; and for the college students, Walter D. Holton, B. R. Challenger and T. R. Dantz, who officiated at the home games.

Members of the squad who attended were: L. C. Crompton, captain; Robert O. Hayes, manager; W. C. Schwartz, captain-elect; F. Hubert, E. Stafford, C. Hopkins, C. Cornog, A. Mayer, E. Evans, V. Armstrong and J. F. Mayer who won their letters this year, and also W. Clancy, H. Henning, D. Walton, R. Manna, C. Davis, H. Townsend, assistant manager, and P. Cornog.

WHY NOT A BUREAU OF EDUCATION

The enlistment campaign posters of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, calling attention to the educational opportunities in the service, are strikingly suggestive of the extent to which public zeal for education has made its claim upon every department of the government within a comparatively few months. The program of vocational education, including that of former service men, is one of the striking developments. The activity of the Department of Agriculture is another. And these are but samples. The number of government bureaus concerned in some way with education is somewhere between fifty and one hundred. Probably not even the hard-worked Bureau of Education knows how many of them there are, not to speak of having no sort of jurisdiction over them. The situation presents a sizable task to the new Administration and the new Congress.

The most comprehensive, definite suggestion for meeting the need which has been created is embodied in the Smith-Towner bill—passed over by the last Congress—which includes among its provisions the establishment of a department of education headed by a secretary with a seat in the President's Cabinet. Such a department would be expected to centralize authority now widely scattered and also, presumably, extend the work of the present Bureau of Education by increasing public resources of information and scientific study.—Springfield Republican.

SCHOOL ELECTION IN NEWARK

An election will be held in Newark shortly when the taxpayers will decide whether the district shall issue bonds amounting to $155,000 to purchase ground and erect a modern school building to be properly equipped. The Delaware School Auxiliary Association, if the people vote favorably on the bond issue, will provide $225,000, the necessary additional funds needed. In other words, the association will supply the greater part of the money.

Outside of Delaware we do not presume any town in the country could acquire a handsome school building on terms so favorable. Under the school code a referendum must be held. If the people of Newark want the building they must do their part.

We should expect that the affirmative vote in Newark would be even greater in Newark than it was in Laurel when the same question was put before the people of the Sussex town at a referendum. The vote at Laurel was overwhelmingly in the affirmative. Newark is the seat of Delaware College and many new buildings have been erected. The educational influences are very strong. And the town, we fancy, in its public schools will desire to keep pace with the college.—Morning News.

MAKING OF HOME BREW ILLEGAL

W. Truxton Boyce, Federal prohibition agent for Delaware, states that he has received a communication from Washington, in which notice is given that the sale of malt or malt extract and hops with the receipt of the manufacture of beverages in a home, is illegal. Commissioner Kramer rules as follows: "That any beer produced from these materials in question would be intoxicating liquor within the meaning and intent of Section 1, Title 11, National Prohibition Act, regardless of its alcoholic contents, unless manufactured in accord with provision of Section 37 of the said Title."

"The advertisement or sale thereof of malt extract and hops for use of the manufacturing of the beverage by one to whom the permit has not been granted, to be in violation of Section 18, Title 11, of said act."

STORING LATE VEGETABLES

The storing of late vegetables is often profitable for those who grow them in sufficient quantities for marketing, giving the grower the direct benefit of the winter price. To care for the surplus vegetables in many cases requires nothing more than the use of existing facilities in or near the home. When considerable quantities of vegetables are to be stored, it is frequently advisable to construct permanent storage facilities in the form of a storage room in the basement of a dwelling or under an outbuilding, or to build an outdoor cellar of wood or masonry. If permanent facilities are not available, late root crops can be kept in outdoor pits or banks, requiring no cash outlay except the labor.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that a special election will be held in the special school district of Newark, County of New Castle and State of Delaware, on the eighteenth day of December, one thousand nine hundred and twenty. The purposes and reasons for said special election shall be whether or not the Board of Education of said special district shall issue bonds amounting to the sum of one hundred and fifty-five thousand dollars ($155,000.00). The funds derived from such bond issue to be used to provide and purchase new grounds, new buildings and new permanent equipment for said special school district. The election will be held in what is known as the "Academy Building," situated on Main Street, in said Town of Newark. The Polls will be open for said election at One o'clock P. M. and remain open until Eight o'clock P. M.

WALT H. STEEL,

President of the Board of Education of said Special District.

Attest: J. HERBERT OWENS,

Secretary.

A HARD AND AN EASY WAY TO MANAGE CHILDREN

Secret of Success Lies in Teaching Them to Help Each Other

Some mothers are "tired to death" bringing up a family, and others seem to get along so easily and their children turn out so well. The truth is that there is a hard and an easy way of doing everything. And if mothers stop to think and plan the day's work and a method of managing their children, they will not get so tired, for managing children is not so hard, after all. Like other things, "it is easy when you know how."

The secret of bringing up a large family nicely and yet easily is, as most observers realize, having the older children help with the younger ones. This does not mean that they are to be slaves to their baby sisters or brothers, but merely that they can help a little just as well as please their mother with "What can I do now?" In large families, too, every child is much more independent than an "only child," for each expects to do practically everything for himself. It is the spoiled child, indeed, that needs a mother to button or lace, comb bobbed hair or butter its bread.

This is one of the greatest ways a mother can save herself—teach her children to do for themselves. It may take a little extra time in the beginning to show them and insist upon their dressing themselves, for example, but it not only saves a mother much backache but actually makes the children more self-reliant in every way.

Avoiding constant bending over and consequent backache is one of the greatest ways a mother can hoard her strength for the latter "teen years," when her children need her companionship more than ever.

One clever mother who "managed easily," with the sensible idea of "saving herself for the children," has a practical way of shampooing their hair that she discovered after a little trouble.

Formerly this task of washing the hair of two kiddies two and four years old was something to be dreaded, as either bending over a bathtub at bathtime for the shampooing process or holding them squirming in her lap while seated before a bowl of water was a formidable one, especially as the children cried and screamed, "You've got soap in my eyes!"

Now, however, her successful method is simply to lay each child in turn on its back on the drainboard of the kitchen sink, which inclines slightly downward to the sink proper, seat herself on a high stool, place one hand under the child's head, which just projects over the drainboard, and with the other free hand scrub the little head of hair. Moreover, the water and soap run away from the child's eyes in this position, and as the child is comfortably lying this way there is far less squirming, and the mother can accomplish the shampoo in half the time.

This example shows, after all, there is an easy way as well as a hard way for every mother who will plan to make her head save her back.

GOOD APPLES ALWAYS FIND READY SALE

Most markets can always find use for a good quality apple, no matter what its shape or the color of its skin may be. It is probably unreasonable to say that one market will take only certain varieties while another will take other varieties. Conditions are always changing preferences. For instance, due to prices, there was, in a certain year, a noticeably increased demand for box-packed fruit in some cities known as barreled-apple markets. The certainty of securing uniformly sized, highly finished fruit at extremely low prices was the only reason given for this condition.

HAD A FELLOW

The country pastor made it a point to welcome any stranger cordially. One evening a Swedish girl, employed as a domestic in one of the fashionable homes, was present. The minister welcomed her to the church and expressed the hope that she would be a regular attendant. Finally he said that if she would be at home some evening during the week he would call. "Thank you," she murmured bashfully, "but Aye have a fella."

Take Steps to Stop Pollution of River

Fisherman of the lower Delaware river section plan to take action to put a stop to the pollution of the Delaware. Now that the question has been brought up by the yachting organizations at Chester and Philadelphia, the fishermen, who have heretofore been unorganized, will hold a joint conference at which their views can be expressed and plans adopted for action.

For the past few years the fishermen have been making complaints about the pollution of the river on account of the damage it caused the fishermen's equipment, as well as causing a falling off in the catch of all fish on the Delaware.

The coal tar, oil and grease, drawn to and fro by the tides, settles along the shores and sinks to the bottom. At some places it is several inches in thickness, where large spots are to be found in the marshes. The gunners attribute the falling off in the number of reed and rail birds to the fact that the feeding grounds have been injured by the oily scum which has settled on the marshes and has actually killed many of the weeds.

Delaware City, Port Penn and New Castle fishermen lost as much as a week at a time last season when they happened to strike a large section of oily scum on the river. Not only did the fishermen lose the time required in cleaning their nets and boats, but the strength of the net was weakened and at the close of the season it was not worth while to keep the net for the following season.

The problem has become so serious in New Jersey that fishermen on the tributaries of the Delaware have even complained of the pollution affecting their catch of fish.

Now that the Pennsylvania State Fisheries Department has taken up the problem, the Delaware and New Jersey fishermen are in hopes that action will be taken in the other two states on the Delaware. There are laws in all three states which prohibit placing of pollution in the river, under heavy penalty. Owing to the difficulty of securing actual evidence of violation, it has been impossible to make any arrest to break up the practice. The session of the General Assembly which meets in January in this state will more than likely have some pollution legislation placed before it in an effort to save the fishing industry on the Delaware river.

WOMAN'S WORKSHOP SHOULD BE COMFORTABLE

The kitchen is the workshop in most farm homes. In it the housekeeper and her helpers prepare food for the family, and from it as a center carry on most of the other housework.

More and better work can be done in a well-lighted shop arranged for the comfort and convenience of the workers and equipped with good tools than in a dark shop where much time must be spent in unnecessary steps and energy wasted with scattered equipment. Business men have found this a sound principle, and it should be applied to the farm kitchen so that the housekeeper can do her work more quickly and with the least fatigue.

"Of course there is no such thing as woman's supremacy." "Think not? From the time a boy sits under a street light playing with toads until he is blind and old and toothless he has to explain to some woman why he didn't come home earlier."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

UNCLE SAM AFTER INCOME TAX DODGERS

Employers Furnish Information to Internal Revenue Officials

A drive on Federal income tax dodgers has been started in this State by Internal Revenue officials. Hundreds of persons who failed to file returns of their incomes for the years 1918 and 1919 will be rounded up as the result of information filed by employers on salaries, wages and bonuses.

All employers were compelled to fill out forms for each employee paid $1,000 or over. These were forwarded to Washington. In checking up many delinquents were found here.

The drive is under the supervision of C. Wallace Coleman, Assistant Supervisor of Field Deputies for this district. He has divided the State into four divisions. Wilmington, Rural New Castle, Kent and Sussex counties. He will be assisted by Field Deputies Sharpe, Scott and McCoy of Collector of Internal Revenue H. T. Graham's office.

According to Mr. Coleman, the majority of delinquents were employed in shipyards and other industrial plants. Some of these, he said, made good wages in 1918 and 1919, and failed to file a return.

Where delinquents willfully evaded the law for the purpose of defrauding the Government, heavy penalties will be inflicted.

GIRL WHO ACCUSED ELLIS NOW INSANE

Ada Askins, colored, who recently was a witness in Court of General Sessions against William Ellis, former superintendent of the Delaware Orphan Home and Industrial School, on Hare Corner road, is said to have become violently insane and was removed by the State authorities from the home where she had been placed near Cooch's, Pencader hundred.

The girl is said to have been acting strangely for several days. Recently she became violent and was taken away at the request of the family where she was living.

MARYLAND SONS OF DELAWARE ELECT OFFICERS

Mayor Frazier Chosen a Member of the Executive Board

At the annual business meeting of the Maryland Society of Delaware, held at the Hotel du Pont last Thursday, Mayor Eben B. Frazier of this town was chosen a member of the executive committee. James B. Owens was elected vice-president for the Western Shore to take the place of George M. Smith, who has left this Wilmington. E. C. Bailey was added as assistant to the secretary and treasurer.

Officers re-elected at the meeting were John S. Russell, vice-president at large; James E. Taylor, vice-president, Eastern Shore; chairman entertainment committee, Daniel O. Hastings; executive committee, Dr. Walter O. Stack, S. L. McKee, J. Frank Davis, C. M. Stelle, J. W. Toadvine, T. W. Keithley, Eben B. Frazier, Edward Hart, J. T. Layfield, E. Gilligan, Jr.; secretary and treasurer, H. G. Marston.

There was a good attendance at the meeting. Addresses were made by J. B. Owens, F. H. Phillips, Edward Gilligan and W. E. Valliant.

The annual dinner of the society will be held some time in January.

Last Installment of

Income Tax Due Dec. 15

Bills for the last installment of 1919 income tax have been mailed to all taxpayers says Collector of Internal Revenue H. T. Graham.

December 15th, is the last day for the payment of the fourth installment of the income and excess profits taxes due this year. To avoid penalty, the tax must be in the office of Collector of Internal Revenue by midnight of that date.

"Inquiries reaching the Commissioner of Internal Revenue indicate a belief that taxpayers have ten days grace on this installment. Such a provision was contained in the 1917 Revenue Act, but was removed by the Revenue Act of 1918.

"Payment of the fourth installment may be made in cash or by money order or check. The Bureau of Internal Revenue urges that whenever possible payment be made payable to H. T. Graham. This method helps the taxpayer by saving him a trip to the collector's office and avoids congestion at the cashier's window. Check or money order should be made payable to R. T. Graham, Collector of Internal Revenue.

"Bills will be sent to taxpayers, but failure to receive a bill does not relieve the taxpayer of his obligation to pay on time."

Football Squad Guests of Faculty Club

Last Monday evening the Faculty Club gave an informal reception to the members of the football squad. The entertainment of the evening consisted of music and shuffle board games between the squad and the faculty. Refreshments were served at a late hour. This reception proved to be one of the best informal receptions that the Faculty Club has held for some time. One of its direct results was the cementing of closer relations between the members of the football squad and the faculty, especially among those football men who will graduate next June.

8. Bass solo, "Give a Man a Horse," O'Hara, Mr. Harold Currier.
9. An Act of Up-to-date Grand Opera," Smith, Quartet.

SUGGEST MILLION DOLLAR BOND ISSUE FOR SCHOOL BUILDINGS

County Educational Meeting Passes Three Vital Resolutions

George L. Townsend, Jr., Dr. R. W. Heim, W. A. Wilkinson, Miss Agnes Snyder and others from this vicinity attended an educational meeting held at Wilmington High School yesterday. This was one of three held simultaneously in the three counties for the purpose of considering the betterment of school conditions in the State.

That the present school system of the State is an improvement over the old and should, with a few needed changes, be retained; that there should be a State bond issue of $1,000,000 to build new schools in the three counties and that special district school superintendents be done away with and their duties transferred to the members of the county boards, were the outstanding features of three resolutions passed. These resolutions will be put before the Legislature when it convenes.

The resolution for a state bond issue was placed before the assembly by Dr. Thomas O. Cooper, a member of the Wilmington Board of Education. The one asking a few changes in the school code and pointing out methods of raising the necessary taxes, was suggested by Eugene H. Shalcross, a member of the Middletown School Board.

In a talk before the above resolution was passed, Dr. Thomas W. Cooper, of Wilmington, placed his finger on the cause for the apparent dissatisfaction with the school system throughout the State—the tax question. Dr. Cooper asked his audience if in their minds, this question was not the thorn in the side of the public in school matters, and the great majority signified its assent by raising hands. Dr. Cooper said he believed that eighty per cent of the people in Delaware would stand for new schools at all costs, if they felt sure that everything was done correctly and their affairs administered economically.

Officials Present

The meetings yesterday were called by a number of hold-over State senators who asked for expressions from the public on the school matters so that they may know how to proceed when the Legislature convenes. Members of the city and county school boards, officers of the Service Citizens and other interested in the school system, were present. George L. Medill, president of the New Castle County Board of Education, presided. Jesse L. Shepherd, of Middletown, George B. Miller, president of the State Board of Education, George Rommel, president of the Wilmington Board of Education, and Bishop Philip Cook, D. D., who opened the meeting with a prayer, were present among many others.

Women's College to Give Plays Friday

The first public event of the dramatic year at the Women's College promises to be one of the most interesting of small play productions ever given.

Two French plays, one Rosset's "Les Romanesques" in the original French, and the other an English translation of "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife," by Anatole France, will be given on Friday, December 10, in Wolf Hall.

COUCH'S BRIDGE CHAPTER D. A. R. ELECTS DELEGATES TO STATE CONFERENCE

On Saturday afternoon, December 4th, Mrs. Ernest Frazier entertained the regular meeting of Couch's Bridge Chapter, D. A. R. There was a good attendance of members and there were also several visitors present, including the State Regent, Mrs. Sallie M. Council.

The regent, Miss Eleanor E. Todd, and Mrs. Eleanor Pennington, of Delaware City, Mrs. Arthur Beals, Mrs. S. M. Donnell, and Miss Henri Etta Todd were elected delegates to the annual State Conference which meets at the Hotel du Pont, in February, 1921. The alternates to the delegates are Mrs. J. Wilkins Cooch, Miss Miriam P. Ablich, Mrs. Albert W. Forman, of Washington, D. C., Mrs. Mary D. Armstrong, and Mrs. W. F. Wingett.

Various plans for the year's work were discussed with the State Regent, including the preparing of historical papers to be loaned to Chapters in other states. Mrs. J. P. Cann sang, "Just Dreaming of You" in her usual charming manner, and after singing "America" the meeting adjourned to further enjoy the gracious hospitality for which the hostess is so justly noted.

I. O. O. F. Elects Officers

On Monday evening, December 6th, some members of Original Lodge, No. 12, I. O. O. F., visited Delaware Lodge, No. 1, I. O. O. F., for the purpose of having the first degree conferred on the following named candidates, Ralph W. Robinson, Charles H. Davis, Alfred C. Stiltz, Jr., Eugene C. Stiltz, Edward Stickley, Cecil H. Vansant.

They were accompanied by John S. Hopkins, N. G., George S. Wood, V. G., Thomas A. Mullin, Sec., S. Pusey Morrison, I. G., Isaac Vansant, P. G., Dr. C. E. Dunleavy, P. P., of the local lodge.

All were well pleased with the entertainment received. Arrangements have been made for an initiation ceremony to be held on Thursday evening when a large attendance is expected.

THEY ARE NOT WEARING THEM SO MUCH

"During a visit to our army in France, says an English periodical, King George told one of his officers the following amusing story:

"I was making a round of the front when I passed a group of American soldiers. One man observed me closely and called to a comrade, 'Hey, Bill, there's the King!'"

"What d'ye mean, the King?" his comrade shouted back.

"Right there," answered the other; "that chap there!"

"Get out!" was the indignant reply. "He ain't no king. Where's his crown?"
